NEW YORK VOTING GIVES LANDSLIDE TO REPUBLICANS

Democratic Majority in Assembly Replaced by One of Fifty for Rival Party.

HARD BLOW TO TAMMANY

Hall's Control Over Board of Aldermen Lost by One Member; Beaten on Judiciary.

BEST CUT IN PLURALITIES

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The election in New York today was decidedly a Republican victory. In the state the Republicans recovered control of the assembly from the Democrats, more than reversing the positions of the parties in that body, and in the city they so reduced the Tammany pluralities as to make the claim of this being a Democratic stronghold ridiculous.

From a Democratic majority of twenty-four, the assembly turned to a Republican majority of fifty. The makeup of the next assembly will be 100 Republicans, forty-nine Democrats, and one Socialist. Thus the Democratic majorities in both houses which passed during the first half of Gov. John A. Dix's administration will be lacking next year. The present senate holds over.

In the unexpected landslide the Democrats were able to capture only three seats held by the Republicans, whereas all over the commonwealth Democratic assemblymen fell by the wayside.

City Breaks Tammany Grip.

Tammany Hall's hold on New York City was shaken as it has not been for years. The Democrats successfully defended their strongholds of Manhattan and the Bronx, but by greatly reduced pluralities. Queens county also stood by the Democrats, but the Republican fusion candidates made a clean sweep of Brooklyn and probably divided honors in Richmond.

A year ago Manhattan and the Bronx borough gave Gov. Dix a plurality of 68,889 and elected a Democratic Supreme court justice by about 22,000. Today Robert L. Fowler, the Democratic candidate for surrogate, carried New York county with a maximum plurality of about 17,000.

Tammany appears to have lost the board of aldermen by one, the board standing 37 to 36 against it. The president of the board is a fusionist.

New York County Gains.

The Republicans gained eight assemblymen in New York county and will send fifteen members of that body out of the total delegation of thirty-five. In nineteen out of twenty-three districts in Brooklyn the fusionists gained six assemblymen.

Of the ten Democratic assemblymen who bolted the United States senatorship joint caucus last January, renominated this year, all but two failed of reelection. The two who were reelected were J. K. Evans of Sullivan county and Minor McDaniels of Tompkins county. The defeated insurgents were Martin of Saratoga, Saunders of Columbia, Drummond of Cayuga, Wheeler of Delaware, Brace of Montgomery, Beach of Tioga, Miller of Otsego, and Bridenbecker of Herkimer.

Judiciary Fight Results.

The Republican candidates for Supreme court justices in the Second judicial district, which comprises Kings, Queens, and Richmond counties, were elected.

The candidacy of William Willett for the Supreme court in the Second judicial district proved a severe handicap to the Democrats throughout the district as well as in Kings county. He ran last on his ticket. The race for district attorney in Kings county was close, but the Republican candidate won.

The three Democratic candidates for Supreme court justice in the First judicial district pulled through by a bare 5,000. Francis M. Scott, the fourth justice elected, was indorsed by both parties.

The Democrats elected their candidates for sheriff of New York county by about 8,000.

Barnes Pleased with Result.

There was great jubilation at the Republican state headquarters in West Thirty-ninth street. William Barnes Jr., chairman of the Republican state committee, fresh from his sweeping victory in his home county, came to town and was surrounded by his fellow Republican campaigners. The recapture of the assembly by the Republicans was regarded in part as an evidence of Barnes' generalship.

"The result of the election in every part of the state," he said, "indicates a revival of confidence in the Republican party and a positive rebuke to the legislative record of 1911 and Gov. Dix. Grave responsibilities now rest on the newly elected Republican assembly. It may not be able to accomplish great achievements owing to the Democratic majority in the senate and Gov. Dix, but it will serve as an absolute check upon any further excesses of the character enacted or attempted at the session of 1911."

Tired of Murphy Bossism.

The result cannot be regarded as anything but disgust at the coarse bossism of Murphy in city and state. Murphy dominated the last legislature and the assembly has gone Republican; Murphy put Daniel F. Cohalan on the bench and Cohalan has been barely elected; Murphy tried to boss Brooklyn, and that has been carried by the fusionists by large pluralities. So it is difficult to read the meaning of the vote any other way than a rebuke to the state administration and a slam at Murphy.

The dullest election in years gave little promise for the vagaries of an election night crowd. Those who did make the hike up and down Broadway tried early in the evening to start something approximating the usual expanding of lungs and spirits of past election nights. But the lilt of joy lay not in the tongue of the cowbell nor the shriek of abandon in the foghorn.

Results at a Glance in Various States.

NEW YORK—Election overturns Democratic majority of 24 in assembly, replacing it with Republican of 50. Present senate holds over. Tammany given hard blow in Greater New York, entire fusion judiciary ticket in Kings being elected and Republicans gaining control of board of aldermen by one member; Tammany candidates who win doing so by greatly reduced pluralities.

MASSACHUSETTS—Gov. Foss re-elected by plurality of 7,734, greatly reduced vote over election last year when he won by 35,179, Luce, (Rep.) elected lieutenant governor by 6,750 plurality; legislature Republican; result blow to Taft's tariff policy.

MARYLAND—With returns coming in slowly the Republicans base a claim for a victory in the governorship race by about 5,000. If their predictions are correct the state will have the first Republican governor in sixteen years, but he will be handicapped by a Democratic legislature. The attempt to disfranchise the negro has failed.

OHIO—Democrats win in Cincinnati, in spite of President Taft's indorsement of Republican candidates. Newton L. Baker, Tom L. Johnson's protege, elected mayor of Cleveland, where Democratic ticket is victorious. James R. Garfield concedes defeat for delegate to state constitutional convention.

NEW JERSEY—Republicans win legislature; will control both houses by eleven majority; result blow to Gov. Woodrow Wilson, who toured state and made vigorous campaign in behalf of Democratic candidate.

SOCIALISTS—Party made greatest gains in Ohio, when it elected eight mayors, with a possibility of a ninth being declared winner on the official count. In Schenectady, N. Y., a socialist mayor, all city officials but one, a majority of the county board, and an assemblyman were elected. Other gains were made in New Mexico, California, Kansas and other states.

PHILADELPHIA—Republican machine claims the election of George H. Earle, Jr., as mayor of Philadelphia. Blankenburg, reform candidate, also claims election by 2,500 majority. At last election G. O. P. won by 43,000 votes.

CONGRESS—Democrat elected to congress in second Kansas district; first non-republican to win in that district since Populist days; fills unexpired term of the late A. C. Mitchell; Democrat elected to congress in third Nebraska district; Republican elected to congress in fourteenth Pennsylvania; Republican succeeds late Congressman Loudenslager in New Jersey.

KENTUCKY—State swings back into Democratic column, assuring election of Congressman Ollie James to United States senate. McCreary is elected governor by about 40,000 plurality. He was elected governor of the same state in 1875.

LOCAL OPTION—Majority of towns in central and southern Illinois which voted in local option elections carried by drys.

PROGRESS

The Tribune has again improved its service. This time it benefits its readers by a new and simple method of arranging its "Help Wanted" ads.

They are now placed in alphabetical order under separate general classifications.

Under "Stores and Offices" will be found all the offers of inside work. Bookkeepers, boys, stenographers—clear down to window trimmers—you'll find them all indexed according to the first word that tells the sort of work offered.

FOSS RE-ELECTED; BLOW TO TAFT'S POLICY ON TARIFF

Massachusetts Voters Not Content to Await Board's Report on Textile Schedules.

CLOSEST MARGIN IN YEARS

Democrat Returned to Governorship by 7,734, Reduced Majority Over First Race.

INDEX TO NATION, SAYS VICTOR

Boston, Mass., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—As bitter a campaign as Massachusetts has seen in a decade closed tonight with the reelection of Gov. Eugene N. Foss, the Democratic candidate. Foss was returned by a greatly reduced plurality.

Complete returns for governor in the state election give:

Foss, Democrat	210,622
Frothingham, Republican	202,888
Foss' plurality	7,734

Foss was elected last year by 35,179 plurality.

An entire state ticket and a new legislature were elected. Complete returns for lieutenant governor give:

Luce, Republican	208,700
Walsh, Democrat	201,950
Luce's plurality	6,750

The makeup of the remainder of the state ticket is still in doubt, although both branches of the legislature are apparently Republican. Legislative returns tabulated up to midnight indicated that the Republicans had lost one seat in the state senate, but had gained ten places in the house.

Blow to Taft Tariff Policy.

From a national point of view the result may not unfairly be taken to mean that a majority of the Massachusetts voters are not content to wait with President Taft for the report of the tariff board on the textile schedules. The campaign has been largely fought on this issue, although local topics have been discussed throughout on both sides.

Gov. Foss late tonight issued the following statement:

"The people have won their second great victory over machine rule in spite of the most scandalous boodle campaign ever waged in this state.

"Massachusetts has spoken unmistakably for an honest revision of the tarift and for a business administration of the commonwealth.

"The national significance of this election is inestimable; the rest of the country will follow the lead of Massachusetts."

Margin Narrowest in Years.

The margin of victory today was the narrowest in years, and for hours after the close of the polls the result hung in the balance. Republicans refused to concede the defeat of Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Frothingham as late as midnight and at that time it was intimated that a state-wide recount might be necessary.

In the campaign speeches Republican orators urged Frothingham's election on the ground that the national administration should be supported in its tariff policy and that a Democratic victory would mean a blow to the textile industries of the state. Gov. Foss placed his record before the people and asked for support.

It was expected because of an off year the total vote would fall off considerably, but the average was well maintained.

Foss Makes Late Charges.

In the closing hours of the campaign Gov. Foss asked the Suffolk county district attorney to take action against Republican leaders both in and out of the state, including former President Roosevelt, the two Massachusetts senators, Republican committeemen and prominent corporations on the ground that the laws of the state prohibiting the attacking of candidates by means of unsigned articles had been violated.

He declared that the Republicans had been asking political contributions from corporations and insurance companies, which is against the law.

BEAR'S WALLOP WINS A HOME FOR HIMSELF AND MASTER.

Detective Gets Inquisitive About Animal's Muzzle and Has to Lock Up Both.

"Jimmy," 5 years old, weighs 500 pounds stripped, is 6 feet 7 inches in height—hoseless—and incidentally is a bear. He started with his master, M. Pitrou of Berwyn, last evening to find sleeping quarters for the night in the loop.

The more "Jimmy" and his owner hunted the more they learned of the dearth of bear hotels in Chicago. Nobody would take them in. The innkeepers were willing to accept Pitrou, but they wouldn't stand for his companion.

The master had about given up hope when "Jimmy" suddenly solved their problem for him. He did it by reaching out suddenly and slapping a city detective on the jaw so hard that the detective made a dent in the concrete sidewalk when he fell. "Jimmy" was arrested and spent the night in a cell at the Harrison street police station.

The unfortunate detective is James Russell of the South Clark street police station. He met Pitrou and "Jimmy" on South State street after they had been hunting for a hotel for hours. He stopped Pitrou and asked why "Jimmy" didn't have a muzzle. In the midst of the argument which followed "Jimmy" swung.

Russell scrambled to his feet and called a patrol wagon. "Jimmy" made no resistance and was hauled to the station, where he curled up comfortably. Pitrou was not arrested.

GOTHAM SHOCKED BY ELASTIC GOWN

Chicago Woman, Daringly Garbed, Forced to Quit Hotel Dining Room.

SNAPPY GOODS; SNUG FIT.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—This is the story of an elastic gown. The gown belongs to Mrs. Olga von Nisson of Chicago. It is made of broad, yellow bands of elastic similar to that used in the article that supports the stocking.

Despite the material of the costume, Manager C. C. Nobles refused to stretch a point and permit it to remain in the dining room of the Hotel Breslin—at any rate not while it adorned lovingly, not to say adhesively, the fair form of Mrs. von Nisson. Mrs. von Nisson would not consider abandoning a creation which, though it leaves no room for the imagination, has the more practical advantage of allowing her an extra course or two at dinner.

However, Manager Nobles voiced his decision in the matter. Then Mrs. von Nisson voiced hers. The dining room belonged to the gentleman. The elastic gown belonged to the lady. It became necessary for the heroine and the scene of the drama to part company. Mrs. von Nisson went to her room, removed the yellow gown while the chambermaid listened at the keyhole to hear how she did it, donned street attire and departed to the home of a friend who has a studio on West Thirty-ninth street. A reporter went to hear all about it.

Like a Tube of Paint Being Squeezed.

"It was an outrage!" exclaimed Mrs. von Nisson.

"Really! Might I see it?"

"I am speaking of Mr. Nobles' conduct," she replied, and raised her eyebrows. "But I will let you see my gown if you wish to. It is quite simple. After all, New York is early Victorian in its point of view. Shall I put it on?"

"Do!"

Five minutes later one had to admit the elastic gown was all that could be expected—and more.

"Don't you feel just a little bit like a tube of paint being squeezed?"

"It is delightfully snug," smiled Mrs. Nisson. "And," she lowered her voice, "I do really believe it reduces one."

It seemed there had been no room left, even for improvement. Shimmering bands of pale yellow elastic formed the bodice of Mrs. von Nisson's gown. They caught the light in different places as she breathed. They made faint, protesting sounds as she moved like the strings of a violin drawn tight.

"How does it fasten?"

"Down the left side beneath the left arm," Mrs. von Nisson explained, "then down over the left hip beneath that fold of chiffon."

"Ouch!" She Said, as It Snapped.

"But if your gown caught on anything and snapped back, wouldn't it hurt you?"

"It couldn't catch on anything," answered Mrs. von Nisson, proudly. "Try it and see. Why, you could not get a pinch of it if you wanted to. Just try."

"Ouch!" said Mrs. von Nisson.

"I ask your pardon!" the reporter said, hastily. "Do you wear any—that is to say——"

"Naturally I do not need corsets," she interpreted, relieving the reporter's embarrassment charmingly. "An elastic gown serves as a corset. I should not be surprised to see a number of women adopt my idea.

"As a matter of fact my costume is far less daring than the average opera gown. One sees women at the Metropolitan with gowns cut almost to the waist line in front and quite to the waist line in the back. Now, my gown is—er—frank, if you like, but heavens! so is a bathing suit. I think my gown rather classic."

"Classic? Classic is not the word for it."

"How do you mean" asked Mrs. von Nisson.

"Why, if you ever fell down you would bounce up again. And if you were ever caught in a fire in a tall building you could just bounce out of the window."

She Concludes Not to Bounce.

"Now you are being silly!" pouted Mrs. von Nisson.

"Just try one little bounce, gently, and see."

"It wouldn't be dignified," she protested.

"But in the interest of science."

Mrs. von Nisson paused.

"Positively, I will not bounce," she decided firmly.

Perhaps it was as well. The ceiling, after all, was low.

ASTOR PREACHER GIVES UP PULPIT

Unfriendly Comments on Act in Marrying Pair Cause His Resignation.

WILL GO INTO BUSINESS.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Rev. Joseph Lambert, the Providence clergyman who attained notoriety by performing the Astor-Force marriage, has resigned his pastorate at the Elmwood Temple as a result of the protests against his action by other clergymen. He is to leave the church Dec. 1 and go into business in this city.

Although the church has not yet accepted his resignation, the Rev. Mr. Lambert says it will have to, for when he does resign he means it. His formal announcement, couched in brief terms, was read by the clerk at the church services Sunday morning. His retirement will be considered by the church as a whole at a meeting to be held a week from Thursday night.

Criticism Took Enthusiasm.

"There have been a lot of unkind things said against me, especially by the ministers of this city," said Mr. Lambert today. "I did not feel that I could continue in the work, as I could not put the same spirit into it as before.

"I am going into business and shall retain my membership in the Elmwood temple at the request of the trustees. My resignation is purely voluntary and was not taken as the result of any action by the people of the church. At the meeting of the trustees last month they urged me to stay.

"After all has been said, the worst thing the ministers can say against me is that I married a man who had been divorced for committing a statutory offense. It was simply his money which called attention to the marriage.

Other Pastors in Same Boat.

"If Astor had been a poor man nothing would have been said. There are lots of ministers in this city who have done the same thing and I can prove it. The fact that my own association did not censure me proves it."

The Rev Mr. Lambert has been the pastor of Elmwood temple since a year ago last September.

Today he did not care to say what sort of business he would enter. He did not know what the chances of his returning to the ministry were, he said.

DR. ELIOT SAYS PUGILISM IS BETTER THAN FOOTBALL.

Aviation Declared to Be Only Event Worse than College Game—Trip Around World Begun.

New York, Nov. 7.—Pugilism is better and aviation is the only sport worse than football, according to Dr. Charles W. Eliot's farewell remarks to reporters as the president emeritus of Harvard university sailed today for a trip around the world.

Dr. Eliot is sailing as representative of the Carnegie endowment, the organization the aims of which he is to explain to Asiatic countries. The matter of sports came up when an interviewer ventured to ask the distinguished educator what he thought of Harvard's defeat by Princeton.

"I don't take much interest in football," he said.

"Is there anything to your mind worse than football?"

"Yes—aviation. That's demoralizing to the spectators. They don't go to see the aeronaut in flight, but with the anticipation of seeing him fall and perhaps be killed."

Elmore, Minn., Nov. 7.—Harry Blair was shot dead while rehearsing a play which he had written. Blair walked across the room twice and then dropped dead. It is believed he thought he had unloaded the weapon before giving it to Hesseldahl.

Lorimer League Fails in Attempt to Put Their Man Over.

REPUBLICAN GAIN SHOWN

The judicial election yesterday in Chicago and Cook county resulted in a victory for independent voting and a high grade judiciary. Ten men were elected to the Superior court and one to the Circuit court. Of the ten, nine had the distinct indorsement of the Chicago Bar association and the other was not actually opposed by that organization.

Superior Court Judges Kavanagh, McSurely, and Fitch—the first two Republicans and the third a Democrat—were reelected.

Two former judges, Freeman and Barnes, were sent back to the bench.

Hugo Pam, Republican, supported by the Jewish vote and with strong independent backing, ranked next.

Michael L. McKinley led the Democratic candidates not now of the judiciary. Clarence N. Goodwin, Democrat, followed. Ald. Charles M. Foell, Republican, was ninth in the list, and Denis E. Sullivan, Democrat, completes the list of the winners.

Dawson Nineteenth on List.

"Tom" Dawson—the pride of the "Lorimer-Lincoln" league and attorney for the accused jackpotters and legislative corruptionists in Springfield and Chicago—was nineteenth in a field of twenty. Ross C. Hall was the last place man. Daniel G. Ramsay, whose "appeal" was printed in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning, had a narrow shave from occupying the hole third from last.

John P. McGoorty defeated Thomas Taylor Jr. for the vacancy in the Circuit court occasioned by the appointment of former Judge Julian W. Mack to the federal court by President Taft. Mr. McGoorty's lead is small.

The lodging house floaters were put out of business early in the morning by the election authorities. The independent voters took heart at the situation and rushed to the outlying precincts in the afternoon to vote in unprecedented numbers.

Order of the Finish.

The vote cast for the candidates of the two principal parties for Superor court was as follows.

M. A. Kavanagh	R.	110,398
W. H. McSurely	R.	101,963
J. H. Fitch	D.	94,412
H. V. Freeman	R.	90,948
A. C. Barnes	R.	90,545
Hugo Pam	R.	89,879
M. L. McKinley	D.	88,027
C. N. Goodwin	D.	80,833
C. M. Foell	R.	79,941
D. E. Sullivan	D.	79,031
McKenzie Cleland	R.	78,293
D. L. Cruice	D.	76,282
E. A. Dicker	R.	74,657
J. J. Coburn	D.	74,202
W. T. Stanton	D.	69,281
J. J. Sullivan	R.	68,659
D. G. Ramsay	D.	67,458
A. J. Redmond	R.	67,375
T. J. Dawson	D.	64,869
Ross Hall	D.	54,346

The result of the contest for the one Circuit court judgeship is thus stated in figures:

J. P. McGoorty	D.	72,314
Thomas Taylor Jr.	R.	71,410

This gives McGoorty the victory by the narrow plurality of 904.

The Socialist vote approximated 15,300 for each of the party candidates, about as had been the forecast of the party leaders. The Prohibition party vote ran about 1,600, while Charles E. Zollars, the sole independent candidate for Superior judge, received 1,079 votes.

Knockout for the Machines.

The result, as the politicians gloomily viewed the situation last night, was a knockout for the political machines which had set up their own props and had made their own slates—"gentlemen's agreements"—and checked up the returns to find that independent voters, assured of an honest election, had finally taken a notion to vote.

The truth of this was grudgingly admitted at both the Republican and Democratic headquarters when it was demonstrated the highest vote cast in any precinct in the First or the Eighteenth wards, the lodging house nests of the floaters, stood at 107. Ald. (Hinky Dink) Kenna or Ald. John Brennan, according to the usual run of information have blushed for shame at an average to a precinct of less than 200 in other elections.

Smallest Vote in First Ward.

Some lodging houses did not contribute a single vote, notably Hogan's Flop, over in the Eighteenth ward, which usually votes at least 100 on a "good" election day. In the

First ward the suspected precincts watched to the limit by the officials of the board of election commissioners and the detectives from the state's attorney's office, were monotonously quiet, and the smallest vote in the history of the First ward since it became to be a "regular ward" under the supervision of "Hinky Dink" and "Bathhouse," was recorded on the tally sheets.

Out in the residence districts, on the contrary, an 80 per cent, and in some cases a 90 per cent, was polled. It appears from the reports which reached the loop after the polls had closed that the business men and the clerks saw how matters were going in the river wards early in the day and after noon there was a general exodus from the downtown district to the outlying precincts and a resultant total that would do credit to a presidential election.

Kavanagh Leads the Field.

The smashing blow administered to the lodging house floaters hammered the First ward vote into comparatively nothing. The heart was taken out of the Kenna-Coughlin organization. Judge Kavanagh's friends in his own home ward were busy all day and he easily led the field in spite of the directions from "headquarters" that Kavanagh be knifed. The Brady Republican organization joined forces with the First congressional district Republican group in behalf of Hugo Pam. The absence of entire battalions of lodging house "residents" kept the Dawson vote below the average vote that went in for the Democratic candidates.

Judge McSurely was heavily supported in the Hyde Park wards, the Sixth and Seventh. The Second and Third and the Sixth and Seventh showed the Republican organizations were out in force, and, aided by the development of the independent strength, which ordinarily was favorable to the sitting judges, these Republican wards showed a strong lead for the retiring judges, and for the bulk of the Republican ticket.

Busse Behind Foell.

On the north side, the Busse organization was intrenched behind Ald. Foell and for former Judge Barnes. The personal strength of both men through the Twenty-first and Twenty-second wards was responsible in part for the big leads which were recorded for them all through the north side territory. Dawson, who had expected to get a heavy vote from the south end of the Twenty-first, was badly disappointed, if the figures are indicative.

The usual deliverable vote from the "sands" did not show up in the returns for Dawson and the vote cast was less than 50 per cent of the registration in many of the precincts Many of the lodgers were away on election day.

In the Lake View wards the voting was tremendous for an "off year" election. Beginning at 2 o'clock there was a continuous stream of voters who came out from the city on the steam and electric lines and carried off their feet the party workers who had figured it was all over but the counting.

In some precincts of the Twenty-sixth ward —Dawson's own home bailiwick—there were lines of voters formed awaiting to vote at 3:30 o'clock, according to the reports last night. Judge Fitch received 4,323 votes in the Twenty-sixth, Dawson 2,547.

The same conditions applied in the Twenty-seventh ward and in other territory over the northwest side. Joseph J. Sullivan, who was counted upon as a heavy vote getter through the northwest side wards, did not meet the expectation of his friends in this respect.

The Englewood wards went heavily for former Municipal Court Judge McKenzie Cleland, but Cleland did not develop quite enough strength in the rest of the city to put him across the line. Walter Stanton, on the Democratic ticket, ran ahead in the Town of Lake wards, but not sufficiently strong to overtake the heavy lead established all through the city by the sitting and former judges.

Dawson Strong in Lorimer Wards.

The strongest efforts in behalf of Dawson, as the returns indicate, began with the Ninth ward and ran through the Lorimer string—so-called—reaching to the Thirty-fourth, Lorimer's own. The orders were to vote for Dawson and no one else, but the much paraded 30,000 of the "Lorimer-Lincoln" league failed to materialize. Dawson ran ahead a bit of a majority of the Democrats through the old Loeffler territory, but fell down noticeably when he reached the Thirty-fourth.

This was particularly true as respects the Thirty-fifth, which has been claimed as a Lorimer bailiwick and the stamping ground of former Congressman Fred Lundin, president of the "Lorimer-Lincoln" league.

Destitute of the usual corps of "voters," the Eighteenth ward does not figure materially in the returns, and the same is true in part of the Nineteenth, and Ald. John Brennan and John Powers are permitted the opportunity, by the figures, to commune concerning the good old days.

In the country towns there was a comparatively heavy vote cast. Dawson ran last in the territory outside Chicago. Ross C. Hall and Andrew J. Redmond, the Oak Park candidates, were supported substantially in their home country, but the big vote went to the retiring judges, the former judges, and the men who have been conspicuously known in public life, the voters standing closely by the ticket which received the approbation of the bar association.

Hear Returns at Headquarters.

Complaints began to reach headquarters early in the day to the effect that in precincts where the Harrison men controlled the organization there were no watchers or workers at the polls. The first reports also indicated that the old time vote rolling in the river wards was not forthcoming. Ordinarily the First ward polls its big vote within two hours after the opening of the polls. Yesterday it was never polled. At noon a worker at the Thirteenth precinct telephoned that only five men had voted. Chairman McCarty cut his estimates of 5,000 votes from the ward in two.

The same story came from the other river wards and the criticism of Owens began and continued until the lights went out after the final returns came in early this morning.

Several of the defeated candidates were in the headquarters in the evening. While they withheld complaints against "party treachery," their friends talked for them. Thomas J. Dawson quit before 9 o'clock, after he had seen that he was hopelessly beaten. Daniel G. Ramsay, Walter T. Stanton, and Daniel L. Cruice were others who came in to get the news of their defeat.

Bartzen Is Surprised.

President Peter Bartzen of the county board, who was interested in the candidacy of Mr. Ramsay and against that of McGoorty, called up over the telephone. He expressed surprise when told his friend was hopelessly beaten and his enemy had won by a substantial plurality. He criticised the Hearst morning newspaper and said its failure to support the ticket had caused the defeat of good Democratic candidates.

"My election," said Mr. McGoorty, "as indicated by the late returns, is most gratifying. I have the highest personal regard for Mr. Taylor. His standing as a lawyer and a man is well recognized.

"The loyal support of my own party and of thousands of Republicans who voted for me is deeply appreciated, and I appreciate keenly the attitude of THE TRIBUNE and other Republican newspapers. I shall endeavor, in the performance of my duties, to deserve the good will and confidence of my fellow citizens."

Many of the scores of assembled poll workers insisted that no Republican county judge ever would have dared to "disfranchise good Democrats" as the judge did and that "Owens' intimidation of voters" and the "knifing of the ticket by the city hall" was responsible for the defeat of the majority of the Democratic ticket.

How Bar Recommendations Fared.

Of the ten candidates for the Superior court indorsed by the Chicago Bar association, nine won. They are: Marcus A. Kavanagh, William H. McSurely, Albert C. Barnes, Henry V. Freeman, Hugo Pam, Charles M. Foell, Republicans; and Joseph H. Fitch, M. L. McKinley, and Clarence N. Goodwin, Democrats.

The Bar association indorsed a total of seven Republicans. But one of them, Judge Edward A. Dicker, was defeated.

All three Democrats—Fitch, McKinley, and Goodwin—who were indorsed by the Bar association, were winners. One Democrat not supported by the Bar association, Denis E. Sullivan, was elected.

The Illinois Tax association had indorsed three of the winning Republicans—Kavanagh, McSurely, and Freeman. Two Republicans, McKenzie Cleland and Edward A. Dicker, were backed by the Tax association, but lost. Three Democratic winners, Fitch, Sullivan, and Goodwin, were indorsed, with three losers, Daniel G. Ramsay, Ross C. Hall, and Daniel L. Cruice.

Republicans Vote in Afternoon.

The Republican vote in great measure was cast in the afternoon, and the vote in general for the candidates who had been indorsed by the Bar association was largely increased during the later hours of the polling.

Reports from various sections of the city indicated that the final appeal to voters made in the first column of the first page of yesterday's TRIBUNE to elect judges of high character and ability had a strong and positive influence in shaping the results.

Edgar B. Tolman, president of the Chicago Bar association, was greatly pleased with the result of the election. He explained he had just returned from the hospital and had not kept in touch with the election nor received any returns, but when advised by THE TRIBUNE that eight of the ten candidates indorsed by the Bar association for the Superior court had probably been elected he expressed his gratification. After asking who the two other judges elected were, he said:

"The result evidently shows that the people have selected about the best men on both tickets. In so doing they have intelligently followed the advice both of the Bar association and of the press."

Oak Park Strongly Republican.

Oak Park gave a large plurality for the Republican candidates, many of those who were behind the Democrats in the city precincts being advanced far ahead of them. The vote was as follows:

Kavanagh	2,097	Cobrun	488
McSurely	2,067	Fitch	1,076
Barnes	1,900	Stanton	456
Freeman	1,942	Cruice	446

Vote in the Country Towns.

The total vote of the country towns, as distinct from the city, on the Superior judges was, for the Republicans:

Kavanagh	12,570	Foell	10,193
McSurely	12,230	Redmond	9,413
Freeman	11,622	Pam	11,042
Barnes	11,566	Dicker	9,872
Cleland	9,485	Sullivan, J. J.	7,750

The total country town vote for the Democrats was:

Fitch	8,316	Cruice	5,420
McKinley	7,787	Hall	5,169
Goodwin	6,792	Stanton	5,023
Sullivan, D. E.	5,838	Ramsay	4,969
Coburn	5,505	Dawson	4,663

The foregoing figures are considered interesting in that Dawson, the avowed Lorimer candidate, ran last of all on either ticket.

BONDS WIN; COURT ACTS LOSE

Voters Approve Bridges, New Park, and Funding Plan.

TURN DOWN "SALARY GRAB."

Refuse to Boost Salaries of Municipal Judges; to Extend Merit Rule.

Municipal court judges and employés will not get increases in salaries. Neither will employés of the court be placed under civil service. The proposed plan to raise the pay of the judges and attaches of the court is held responsible for the defeat of the two amendments to the Municipal court act by the voters yesterday.

On the other hand, the bond issues carried easily. The Chicago bond issue of $4,655,000 for new bridges was approved by a vote of 3 to 1. The issue of $750,000 in judgment funding bonds was also ratified by a similar vote.

The $1,000,000 bond issue for new west side parks was approved by the voters in that section of the city.

Salary Increases Turned Down.

The voters turned down both amendments to the Municipal court act by a vote of two to one. The first proposition provided for the establishment of civil service in the court and an increase in the salaries of the judges. The second provided for changes in the methods of court procedure, but hidden in the amendment was an increase in the salaries of the chief bailiff and the chief clerk.

In order to adopt either proposition it would have been necessary to authorize salary increases. A fight on both measures was made because of the scheme to raise the salaries. Defeat of both measures resulted. Municipal Judge William N. Gemmill, who several days ago advocated the defeat of the two amendments, said last night he was pleased with the action of the voters.

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court declared that it was only a question of time before the judges would get larger salaries.

Voters Turn Down Hunter.

The voters handed the proposed salary increase of Tom Hunter, chief bailiff of the Municipal court, a harder blow than they did the judges' pay boost. The amendment which would have raised the pay of the judges was defeated by a majority of 35,339. The amendment containing the clause which meant over $3,000 a year more to Hunter was beaten by a majority of 43,150.

The city's bridges and judgment funding bond issues carried in every ward. The vote on the bridge bond issue was a little over 4,000 more than on the judgment funding bond issue. The majority in favor of the bridge bond issue was over 20,000, more than the judgment bond issue, due, it is thought, to a better understanding of the need for new bridges. The majority favoring the bond issue for new bridges was 73,284, while the judgment bond issue carried by a majority of 52,417.

Twenty-six new bridges will be built as a result of the approval of the bridge bond issue. The Washington street bridge will be the first constructed. Work had already been started because the city council, anticipating the approval of the bond issue, appropriated $360,000 recently, that amount to be reimbursed later from the bond issue.

A bond issue for bridges was approved by the voters at the city election last spring, but after the bonds had been sold the entire issue was declared invalid. An error in the notice calling the election invalidated the issue and made it necessary to vote on the proposition again. An issue of $900,000 for funding judgments against the city, approved at the spring election, also was declared invalid.

Assures West Side Park.

The west side park issue carried in every ward on the west side, the only section of the city where it was voted on. The new park was assured by a vote of 13,592.

A new park of 154 acres will be opened on the west side as a result of the approval of the west park commissioners' bond issue. The proposed site is bounded by Central avenue on the east, Austin avenue on the west, Adams street on the north, and the Metropolitan elevated tracks on the south. The land originally was bought by the Catholic bishop of Chicago as a site for a Catholic university. Later the university was established outside of Chicago and the land has remained unused.

Lays Plans for Park.

Plans for the establishment of the new park will begin immediately, according to William Kolacek, president of the west park board.

"The proposed site is the logical place for a new park of that size," said Mr. Kolacek. "The board plans to purchase the site as soon as possible and to start transforming it into a park. The territory surrounding the site is rapidly becoming the best residence section of the west side.

"The commissioners plan to extend a boulevard west in what is now Jackson street to the park and then connect the boulevard system by improving Ogden avenue between Jackson street and Washington boulevard. This will make a beautiful drive to the western city limits. The site of the new park is well wooded with many beautiful trees."

FOREST PARK REFORMERS WI

Commission Form of Government Adopted by Voters.

SURPRISE FOR WISEACRES.

Vote Is 684 For to 468 Against the Measure; Majority 216.

Forest Park fooled all the political wiseacres yesterday by declaring openly for the commission form of government.

There were 684 votes in favor of the measure and 468 against it, a majority of 216. The total vote cast was 1,169. Seventeen votes were thrown out.

Voters favorably inclined to the commission form of government, which provides for a mayor and four commissioners, held meetings in the last month, but there seemed to be little interest.

The election returns proved a big surprise to those who have had political control of the affairs of the village. An election to select the commissioners will be held soon.

A parade of those who favored the commission form of government was held early in the evening. Herman Lilligelt, 836 Elgin avenue, and F. M. Roberts, 743 Lathrop avenue, headed the parade.

BREAK THE BACK OF FLOATER VOTE

Lowest Lodging House Record in Years in First and Eighteenth Wards.

FRIGHTENED BY ARRESTS

Pre-election Action Against the Owners of Hotels Declared Responsible.

The fraud bugaboo, which loomed big before election, practically vanished yesterday before the onslaught of the election commissioners' officers on the padded lodging house district fake registrations. The reduction of votes in the lodging house districts of the First and the Eighteenth wards was astonishing. These two wards have been the menace of many an election in the past.

The lodging house precincts showed a drunken poll of from thirty to sixty votes on the average. The highest vote polled in any of these precincts barely passed the 100 mark. In former years these same precincts have returned from 200 to 400 votes in favor of the boss made candidates of the two wards.

First Ward Shows Big Shrinkage.

The total vote cast for all the candidates for the Circuit court in the First ward yesterday was 1,801. The election records show that the First ward vote of the April election, 1910, was 5,350; of the November, 1910, election, 5,962, and last April's election brought forth 7,079 votes.

The Eighteenth ward, the other lodging house district ward and the home of floaters and repeaters, cast a total of 2,108 votes for all the Circuit court candidates. The April, 1911, election brought out 6,246 votes from this ward; the November, 1910, election, 6,787, and the last April election, 7,357 votes.

Frightened by Arrests Before Election.

Election Commissioner Anthony Czarnecki said last night that the twenty precincts of the First and Eighteenth wards showed the most remarkable results of the crusade for honest votes. The arrests of Peter Swenton, manager of the Manhattan hotel, the padded residence list of which was exposed by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and of Albert Smith, from the Pioneer hotel, yesterday, frightened away from the polling places the men whose only claim to franchise lay in the orders of ward bosses.

"We have half won the fight which we have only begun by the precedent of yesterday," said Mr. Czarnecki. "For the first time in the history of the city we were able to show the real vote in the First and Eighteenth wards. You can depend on it that every man entitled to a vote in these two wards went to the polls, and I guess the bosses managed to fly two to three and as many as a half dozen 'floaters' over on us."

"Hotel Voter" Taken to Court.

Albert Smith, who said he lived at the Pioneer hotel, 830 South State street, got into trouble when he tried to vote in the Fourteenth precinct of the First ward. Smith formerly lived at 2911 Wallace street. His right to vote was questioned and he was taken before Judge Owens by John Burns, an election commission investigator. Smith said the hotel clerk told him he had a right to vote because he was registered.

J. F. Holden, the clerk, was sent for. He told the court he meant Smith's name was on the hotel register, not on the registration list. Judge Owens impounded the hotel register and continued the case until Thursday morning. Both men were released.

Ald. Michael (Hinky Dink) Kenna, Ald. John Brennan, John F. O'Malley, "Barney" Grogan and other politicians who heretofore have made their headquarters in polling places on election day, were absent. Judge Owens had issued orders to keep them out and his instructions were followed.

The effect of Judge Owens' order, which put Edward J. Hogan, proprietor of Hogan's Inn, 939 Meridian street, behind the bars of the county jail on a charge of perjury, was noticeable in the light vote cast in the Fourteenth precinct of the Eighteenth ward. Usually 400 men vote in that precinct, but yesterday only seventy-five ballots were cast.

Ruse to Kill Decent Vote.

One instance of the devious ways adopted by the First ward politicians to kill off the decent vote was the following:

Early in the morning some one called up the clerk of the Chicago Athletic association and said:

"This is THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Won't you please tell all your members who have voted at the polling place on Clark street that the polling place has been changed and is now on North La Salle street. Tell them that they will be wasting time by going to the old polling place and not to be discouraged if they do not find the new one right away, because it is somewhat difficult to locate."

The clerk accepted the statement as a fact and started to notify the various residents of the club when they appeared in the lobby in the morning. One of the first members given this information did not believe it, went right over to the regular polling place, found it in existence and in operation, and immediately notified the club.

Keep "Floaters" Away.

In the First ward efforts to force the reception of ballots from lodging house "floaters" were as generally thwarted. In most of the precincts "the floaters" first were offered in groups of eight or ten. When they were prohibited from voting by challengers and investigators word was passed down the line and many of the fraudulently registered failed to appear.

In the Thirteenth precinct of the First ward, which is located near the Manhattan and other lodging houses, there were 879 voters listed, but only 61 ballots were counted. It was the smallest number ever voted in the precinct, it was said. The Democrats got only 26 straight votes, whereas the expectation under certain plans called for over 225. But the Republicans on the straight ballot got only 11 votes.

In the Fourteenth precinct there were 370 registered, 146 from the Pioneer lodging house, 832 new number and 488-490 old number, on State street. Under the court orders 135 of the Pioneer crowd were barred and only 35 out of 370 registered votes were cast.

Plea for "Floaters" Fails.

Frank Burk and W. J. Hubbard, Democratic judges, insisted they personally knew many of the alleged "floaters"; that they lived at the Pioneer and were entitled to vote. An appeal was made to the election commissioners, who held that none from the Pioneer would vote excepting under a "householder" affidavit. This was not obtainable and the would-be voters were helpless.

To issue final instructions to investigators Lar Caulfield and William Reilly of the election commissioners' office toured the First and Eighteenth wards between 3 and 4 o'clock. They cautioned the investigators to watch carefully the maneuvers during the counting of the ballots, telling them particularly to guard against sleight-of-hand work through which fraudulent ballots might be substituted for the bona fide ballots during the counting.

Moreover, they asked for precautions against the use of the "St. Louis scheme" of dropping the genuine ballots on the floor in the midst of a fake batch, then putting the bogus sheets into the box. Everywhere they went they found a light vote, with few disorders and no surface frauds.

Captain Unable to Vote.

In the fourteenth precinct of the First ward was witnessed the incongruity of a Republican captain with a twenty-three year record being unable to vote. He was June Tousey, a negro committeeman, who said he had voted in the precinct for twenty-three years. He was registered from 832 State street, but could not get a "householder" affidavit. So he stood guard all day, displaying his leader's badge and looking after the Republican end of the fight, but he was himself disfranchised.

"I live in the basement of 832 State street," asserted Tousey, "but there is nobody to give me a 'householder's' affidavit."

Owen J. McMahon, 31 North Fifth avenue, complained that he had been a resident of the First ward for sixty years, but was not allowed to vote.

Judge Owens Issues Statement.

"This election sounds the death knell of the repeater and the floater," said County Judge John E. Owens last night. "These two municipal curses are dead for good in Chicago. They never will return to corrupt city elections and bring odium on the use of the ballot in this city.

"I enforced the lodging house statute to the letter and shall continue to do so as long as I am judge of the County court. I showed the repeaters and floaters and their masters that we meant business, and they ran like rats for their holes. Yesterday delivered the city from the hands of the men who have been defiling the ballot at past elections and voting into office men who were unfit to represent the city in any official capacity.

Puts Watch on Barney Grogan.

"I traveled around the polling places of the First and Eighteenth wards yesterday, and I caught Barney Grogan and his gang interfering or trying to interfere with the election judges. I told him that if he dared step inside another polling place I'd have him arrested. Then I detailed a trustworthy man to trail him for the rest of the day. Mr. Grogan did not go near another precinct election place for the rest of the day.

"I want to thank the newspapers of Chicago for the help they gave in making this election the cleanest in the history of the city. The election was a great compliment to Chicago. It showed the city is sound at heart.

Elected Fine Set of Men.

"The legal voters expressed their wishes, and the result is that they elected a fine set of honest and able men to the judicial benches. It was a great victory for upright citizenship.

"I am planning to revise the whole system of registering the lodging house vote, and by the time we get our system completed it will be a hard and extremely risky job for any one to attempt to vote illegally in Cook county."

Organ Recital at Wedding.

Noten D. Ballantine, 616 West Seventy-first street, and Miss Saida Anna Lucas, 3016 Michigan avenue, were married at Grace Episcopal church last evening by the Rev. William Otis Waters. The ceremony was preceded by an organ recital by Harrison Wilde.

DEMOCRATS BLAME PARTY "TREACHERY" FOR DEFEAT.

Hearst-Harrison Faction and Judge Owens' Fight on Floaters Denounced by Leaders.

It was midnight in the Democratic headquarters in the La Salle hotel before the organization heads would admit they had elected less than half the candidates for Superior judge and John P. McGoorty, the candidate for Circuit judge.

The organization men contended they would have made a clean sweep of the entire ticket but for the treachery of the Hearst-Harrison wing of the party. County Judge John E. Owens came in especially for criticism because of his vigorous measures to prevent the voting of "floaters" in the First, Eighteenth, and Twenty-first wards.

Without mentioning names Chairman John McCarthy summed up the organization's attitude in a formal statement, which read as follows:

"The result of the election is not only a triumph for the Democratic party, but a triumph for the truth as well. The party never had a harder battle than the one which resulted in the election of a good share of its candidates. It had to overcome not only a campaign of misrepresentation, but also treachery in its own ranks. It was practically without the means of stating the truth about its candidates except by public meetings, letters, literature, and paid advertisements. Men who called themselves Democrats worked openly to defeat the candidates of the Democratic party.

"In spite of all it won a great victory and swept a county that was Republican for eighteen years. The result of the contest between John P. McGoorty and Thomas Taylor Jr. showed the strength of the Democratic organization, as compared with the Republican one. Neither candidate was favored over the other in the various indorsements made and it was a straight party fight between them. The Democrats won and proved that Cook county is Democratic."

SALOONS OPEN; 29 MEN TAKEN.

Police Arrest Proprietors Who Violate Election Law—Farwell Finds Fewer Complaints than of Old.

Twenty-seven saloonkeepers defied election regulations and opened up yesterday for the sale of drinks, if the number of police arrests represents all the barrooms that dispensed drinks before the polls closed.

Whether or not the police made arrests in all cases of saloon operation Arthur Burrage Farwell, president of the Chicago Law and Order league, was satisfied that the bars observed the law far better than on any other election day within the last twenty years.

Orders had been issued from headquarters to permit no saloon in any section to open before 4 o'clock. Reports received by Chief McWeeny indicated that the patrolmen had obeyed with unusual unanimity.

Fist Fight Over Election.

Charles Wood and his brother Frank, 1429 State street, were arrested yesterday following a fight over the election with James Hogan. The latter escaped. Frank Wood was badly battered about his head.

Admitted to the bar of Illinois in 1892. In 1896 was elected a member of the lower house of the legislature and reelected in 1899. Returned to the legislature in 1904, reelected in 1906. Was minority leader of the house in 1909. Was a member of the Chicago charter convention, was candidate for governor at Democratic primaries in 1908, was president of the county civil service commission from Dec. 5, 1910, to March 6, 1911. WIN ELECTION AT HAWTHORNE.

T. R. George, W. F. Hosford, and G. B. Hallett Choice of Men's Club in Hot Contest.

Another election of yesterday that almost was lost in the shuffle is announced from Hawthorne. This was the balloting for officers for the newly formed Hawthorne Men's club, composed of more than 1,500 employes of the Western Electric company at its Hawthorne plant.

The election was preceded by a week of old fashioned campaigning, including daily brass band parades for the candidates at noon time and the placarding of the district with rival literature.

The "slate" that went through is: T. R. George, president; W. F. Hosford, vice president, and G. B. Hallett, secretary. Hallett was a candidate on two tickets. E. S. Van Dalso and F. Holdsworth were defeated.

DEMOCRATIC DAY IN 2 OHIO CITIES

Taft's Indorsement Fails to Save Republican Ticket in Cincinnati.

BAKER CLEVELAND HEAD.

Protege of Late Tom L. Johnson Carries Running Mates to Easy Victory.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 7.—Despite the announcement that George B. Cox had retired from the local political arena and that President William H. Taft put his sign of approval upon the local Republican municipal ticket, Henry T. Hunt, Democratic nominee for mayor of Cincinnati, was elected today by a majority estimated between 5,000 and 6,000 votes.

Early returns also indicate that Hunt, while leading his ticket, has exercised strength enough to carry his entire ticket to victory with him.

Taft's Indorsement Fails.

The Blaine club, Cincinnati's leading Republican organization, conceded a Democratic victory for the mayoralty candidate early, but hoped to save the remainder of the ticket.

The hopes of the Republicans were raised to a high pitch on Saturday last when President Taft announced his intention of voting the straight Republican ticket, and he issued a statement that conditions in Cincinnati had changed since his Akron speech six years ago in which he assailed the "machine" rule of Cincinnati.

Several months ago the Republican leader, George B. Cox, announced his retirement and the president's attitude was credited to this.

Democrats Carry Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—Cleveland, which two years ago went Republican, electing Herman C. Baehr mayor over the late Tom L. Johnson, today returned to the Democratic fold, electing Newton D. Baker, Johnson's political heir, mayor over Frank G. Hogan, Republican, by about 18,000 majority.

The entire Democratic city ticket was elected with the exception of five councilmen.

Newton D. Baker, the new mayor, was city solicitor during the entire eight years of the Johnson régime, and was a victor two years ago when the rest of the Democratic ticket was defeated. He favored equal votes for women, and in his campaign declared for a municipal lighting plant, municipal betterments generally, and for all the issues for which Johnson stood.

Democrats Carry Columbus.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—The Democrats won in Columbus by a decisive plurality today. Eby, the Socialist candidate for mayor, according to early returns was running a close race with Mayor Marshall, the Republican nominee, for second place, while George J. Karb, Democrat, had been elected by from 4,000 to 6,000 plurality.

Brand Whitlock Wins Again.

Toledo, O., Nov. 7.—Brand Whitlock [Ind.] has apparently been elected for a fourth term as mayor by a plurality in the neighborhood of 2,000.

Increases Put New Organization Close to Old Guard in the Buckeye State.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—Eight Ohio cities elected Socialist mayors today. These cities are Lorain, St. Marys, Martins Ferry, Fostoria, Mount Vernon, Barberton, Salem, and Cuyahoga Falls.

In Canton it will take the official count to decide whether the Socialistic candidate or Turnbull, Democrat, is elected, as unofficially Turnbull wins by three votes.

The showing made by the Socialist party in addition in Columbus, Canton, Akron, Dayton, Newark, and Lima insures that party a showing in the aggregate vote, which exceeds its past high water strength by many thousands and is within respectable distance of the old parties.

Progressives Show Gains.

In the election of delegates to the constitutional convention it is regarded as practically certain that a majority of those who have been elected are from the so-called progressives and favor the initiative, referendum, and recall.

While an effort was made to align the delegates on the proposition to submit the question of licensing saloons to referendum vote in the state, but few of those elected have committed themselves on that issue.

A feature of the election for delegates to the constitutional convention was the defeat of James R. Garfield, secretary of the interior in Theodore Roosevelt's cabinet, who stood for election in Lake county.

Clean Sweep in Schenectady.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 7.—For the first time in the history of this county the Socialists have polled a counting vote, electing a mayor, all but one city official, and a majority of county officers, which will make the common council and probably the county board of supervisors Socialistic.

The Rev. Dr. George R. Lunn, pastor of the United People's church and editor of the Citizen, a Socialist weekly was elected mayor by a plurality of 1,999, or practically two-thirds of the total vote.

Early returns indicated that Herbert M. Merrill, Socialist, will represent this county in the assembly, as he carried the city by a plurality of about 1,000.

The platform of Dr. Lunn called for thorough reforms, chief among which was a municipal paving plant to "bust" the so-called paving trust, cheaper gas, and a cut in the city pay roll by eliminating useless officeholders.

Socialist Surprise in South.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 7.—Except for the unexpected strength shown by James T. Lester, Socialist candidate for lieutenant governor, the election today was a perfunctory affair, all Democrats being elected. A small vote was polled.

Elect Councilman in Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 7.—Bridgeport Socialists elected one councilman today. Republicans elected the mayor.

Socialists Make New Jobs.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Added Socialist increases to municipal expenditures were made at today's council meeting by the creation of nineteen new offices, carrying salaries aggregating $19,860 annually.

The health department is to have sixteen more inspectors, the building inspector two more assistants, and a clerk-stenographer is added to the controller's force, already much larger than ever before.

UNION LABOR LOSES BATTLE FOR SAN FRANCISCO BOARD.

Coalition of Democrats and Republicans Seems Victorious—Socialists Run Well in Sacramento Election.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—Scattered returns from the municipal election in this city today indicate a victory for the municipal conference candidates for supervisors over the union labor candidates. The conference represented the Democratic, Republican, and Good Government parties.

This coalition was victorious on Sept. 26, when a direct primary resulted in the election of James Rolph for the mayoralty over P. H. McCarthy, Union Labor, by a majority vote.

The greatest interest in today's results centered in the fight between Hawthorne, conference candidate, and Charles M. Fickert, Union Labor incumbent, for district attorney. Fickert had led in the primaries, but tonight's returns showed an even race, with the result in doubt. Fickert won his present office two years ago by defeating Francis J. Heney.

The only other election in California today was at Sacramento, where M. R. Beard, Democrat, was reelected mayor. Allen Stuart, the Socialist candidate, ran ahead of Frank Sutliff, Republican.

G. O. P. GAINS IN RHODE ISLAND.

Gov. Pothier Returned to Office by Greatly Increased Plurality Over Preceding Election.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 7.—Returns at midnight from more than half the state indicated a general Republican victory, Gov. Pothier being returned to office apparently by a greatly increased plurality. With 108 out of 184 voting precincts heard from the vote was:

Pothier [Rep.]....21,119 | Waterman [Dem.]..16,830

The same districts last year gave:

Pothier .....18,830 | Waterman 18,119

The legislature will be largely Republican.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN VIRGINIA.

Carry Election of Members of General Assembly with Little Opposition.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7.—With no opposition to the regular Democratic ticket, except in some districts where Republicans nominated candidates for the general assembly, the election today was merely a ratification of the primary. Returns tonight indicate that the Democrats will have a majority of about 110 votes in joint assembly, which consists of 140 members. No candidates for federal office were voted for in Virginia today.

SALT LAKE MAYOR DEFEATED.

Citizens' Candidate Elected Over the Present Incumbent by Plurality Estimated at 3,500.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 7.—The election of Samuel C. Park, candidate for mayor on the Citizens' ticket, over John S. Bransford, incumbent, the "American" party nominee, is conceded tonight at American party headquarters. Park's estimated plurality is 3,500.

Flowers Win Voters to Suffrage in Woman Florist's Shop.

[From photographs taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

The upper picture shows Assistant Corporation Counsel Harry J. Ganey signing a suffrage petition in the florist shop of Miss Nellie C. Moore, 4627 Franklin avenue, also used as a polling place for the Fifth precinct, Twenty-fifth ward. Miss Moore is directing Graney where to sign. Miss Belle Squire, president of the No-Vote-No-Tax league, supervises the suffrage work. Below is shown how voters were won on the outside and rewarded with boutonnières.

PARLOR FOR POLLS IS IDEAL

Suffragists Convert Men Voters to Cause by Visions.

MUSIC TO ADD ITS CHARMS.

Bouquets Reward Signers to Petition in Florist Shop.

REGULAR VOTING PLACE OF 1911.

A small, stuffy den, bare of adornment and comfort, filled with tobacco smoke, noisy with ribaldry, and fitted with a half dozen camp chairs, a half dozen spittoons, a rude benchlike table, and "slap-bang" booths.

WHEN SUFFRAGE IS UNIVERSAL.

A quiet, well ordered parlor; soft music sounding in an adjoining room; lavishly fitted retiring rooms for voters; fragrance exuding from a mass of exquisite flowers, one being given each voter as a mark of civic righteousness; an especially fashioned Egyptian jar for the ballots; and a wafer and a bit of ice for each citizen after his vote is cast.

For the first time in Chicago the effect of feminine association with a voting place could be appraised yesterday. Suffragets "operated" all during the voting hours at the polling place of the Forty-fifth precinct of the Twenty-fifth ward at 4627 Evanston avenue.

At this address is the dainty flower shop of Miss Nellie C. Moore, a suffragist and member of the Woman's party. Behind Miss Moore's refrigerator, filled with posies, sat the judges and clerks of the election.

Miss Moore and Miss Belle Squire, president of the "No-Vote-No-Tax" league, accosted each voter as he entered or left the booths, offering a small yellow flower in exchange for a signature to a petition for an amendment to the national constitution enabling women to vote.

"Believe in American Ideal?"

"Do you believe in the American ideal?" Miss Squire would ask abstractly.

"Yes, I'm out for the money myself," answered a brusque voter early yesterday afternoon.

"I mean do you think that women should be classed with infants, imbeciles, and the ignorant?"

There were a few gruff, sharp affirmations, but most of the men signed the petition quickly. The petition had about 100 signers before the close of the polls. The flowers that were distributed were a gift of Miss Moore, who is zealous in the suffrage cause.

"Like a Party," Says Bluecoat.

"Did you notice any difference from usual election day conditions?" was asked of Patrolman C. C. Tripp, stationed at the polling place.

"Well, I should smile!" he answered. "There wasn't any rough house here. This was more like a party."

"And that's the way voting should be," declared Miss Squire and Miss Moore. "Suffrage should be attractive. This little flower shop is just a hint of what we should have."

Then they outlined the ideal polling place.

Church as Aid to Suffrage.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 7.—To insure the registration of many women, who, it is believed, will not otherwise become qualified voters before Nov. 9, the time limit for registering for the city election of Dec. 4, arrangements are being made to have registration clerks in attendance at the prayer meetings at various churches in the city tomorrow night. Members of the Women's Progressive league are back of the movement. Registration of women is proceeding more rapidly than that of the men. Between 3,000 and 4,000 are being registered daily. It is believed that 70,000 will have been registered by the night of Nov. 9.

Injury Cannot Stop Speech.

Oshkosh, Wis., Nov. 7.—Although suffering from a sprained ankle, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst stood for over an hour during the course of her lecture here. The accident occurred as she was alighting from a carriage.

Mrs. Pankhurst made light of the injury. She was assisted from the stage by a local minister and a newspaper man.

"I am well supported by the pulpit on one side and the press on the other," she said as she passed along.

Diners Get Election Returns.

Members of the Traffic club of Chicago heard the returns on the vote for judicial candidates last night by special arrangement with the management of the Hotel La Salle, where the club's regular smoker was held. More than 200 members were present. Between bulletins the club chorus and vaudeville artists entertained.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN KENTUCKY.

P. B. McCreary, Who Was Elected Governor in 1875, Returned After Thirty-two Years.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7.—Kentucky voters returned the state to the Democratic column today and elected the entire Democratic state ticket by majorities ranging anywhere from 25,000 to 40,000. Complete returns may show still larger majorities. Democratic gains in all Democratic counties and Republican losses in Republican counties were the rule.

Congressman John W. Langley, state Republican campaign committee chairman, early conceded that Judge Edward C. O'Rear, Republican candidate for governor, had suffered an overwhelming defeat.

James Bennett McCreary will occupy the governor's chair again after an intermission of thirty-two years, he having been elected to the office previously in 1875.

The Democrats elected a good majority in the legislature, which assures the election to the United States senate of Congressman Ollie James, nominee of the Democrats.

Reno Divorce for Surgeon's Wife.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 7.—Annie Lawton Crandon obtained a divorce today from Dr. L. R. G. Crandon, a prominent surgeon of Boston. She alleged cruelty. Dr. Crandon did not contest the suit. The court granted Mrs. Crandon the custody of their 6 year old daughter and $175 a month alimony.

Neal Drink Cure Encircling the Globe From Australia to Great Britain

SAVING THOUSANDS OF MEN

The story of the establishment and extension of the Neal Treatment for alcoholism is a story of one of the twentieth century wonders. Doctor B. E. Neal spent twenty-one years of his professional lifetime in study, experiment and investigation. As a result he has demonstrated that mankind's greatest curse, the drink habit, is caused by the stored up poison of alcohol in the system, which his treatment antidotes, neutralizes and eliminates, thus effecting a perfect cure in three days. The attention and interest of Hon. James E. Bruce, a banker, capitalist and Senator of Iowa, was secured, and in December, 1909, the first Neal Institute was established by him in Des Moines, Iowa. From this start Neal Institutes are already established in over 60 cities on the American Continent.

The Australian Government adopted the treatment in October, 1910, and has already treated hundreds of its unfortunate citizens free of charge—finding it more economical and humane than sending them to jail, an example worthy of imitation in this country. A Canadian syndicate composed of several leading and wealthy men in that country bought the rights to use the Neal for the entire Dominion in December, 1910, and are doing a great work in that country. The Neal is being established this month in London, England. A cablegram from there announces the formation of a Hundred Thousand Dollar Company and the opening of a Neal Institute in London at once, and others at Glasgow, Belfast and other places as soon as places can be secured.

Figures given out by Hon. James E. Bruce, who is and has been the head and moving spirit of this worldwide movement in the Neal cause, show that while the work under his direction is less than two years old, the Neal is today saving over 1,000 persons each month from the curse of the drink habit—sending sunshine and happiness into a thousand homes each month and lifting the burden of despair and sorrow from thousands of the relatives and friends of the men who are saved. At the Chicago Hospital alone, where the Neal treatment was first introduced in October, 1910, the record shows exactly 506 persons cured of alcoholism the first year. There is much food for reflection in all this. It is a work and a cause that should have the active and hearty co-operation of the humanitarian, the philanthropist, the temperance people, the clergy and all good citizens.

Every person has some dear one, some friend, employe or acquaintance who needs help. To all such and to the afflicted we say, call upon or address the Chicago Hospital, No. 811 E. 49th street, who will be pleased to furnish you full information. The Neal treatment effects a perfect cure of the Drink Habit in three days and of the drug habit in from one to three weeks, and the Company shows its own confidence in the results of the treatment by agreeing that unless results are entirely satisfactory to the patient at end of treatment the entire amount paid will be promptly refunded.

Blankenburg, "War Horse of Reform," Beaten by Meager Majority of 2,000 Votes.

EVEN THIS IS DISPUTED.

Machine Strength Is Cut to Almost Nothing, but Tenderloin Stands Pat.

BULLETIN.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 8, 2 a. m.—The North American at 1:45 o'clock this morning announced that Rudolph Blankenburg (Dem.) had been elected mayor. It was stated that the office of United States Senator Penrose admitted that Blankenburg had been elected by between 300 and 1,000 plurality.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 7.—In one of the closest political contests in the history of Philadelphia the Republicans succeeded in electing George H. Earle Jr. to the office of mayor over Rudolph Blankenburg, "the war horse of reform," by the meager majority of 2,000.

This is the finish to one of the hottest municipal fights Philadelphia has ever seen. William S. Vare, interested in big municipal contracts, tried for the Republican nomination, but was beaten by Earle, backed by United States Senator Penrose and James P. McNichol, another contractor. There was some soreness among the Vare followers, but they were mostly swung into line.

In today's fight the downtown and tenderloin wards were held fairly well for the Republican machine, but Blankenburg made heavy gains in the residential districts. Two years ago the Republicans elected their district attorney by more than 43,000, so that today's result shows a machine loss of about 41,000.

NEW MEXICO RESULT IN DOUBT.

Early Returns Indicate Election of Republican Legislature and the Democratic State Ticket.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 7.—Bursum, Rep., and McDonald, Dem., for governor, both claim election on meager early returns. Albuquerque and Las Vegas, both ordinarily strong Republican, are conceded to the Democrats, the former by 700 and the latter by 200. It seems safe to predict a Republican legislature, which will elect two United States Senators, but the Democrats apparently have excellent chance of electing a state ticket and congressmen.

The Democratic state committee claims the election of McDonald as governor by 4,500. Four precincts in Aubuquerque give 563 majority for McDonald. Chaves county Tonight the president was the guest and principal speaker at the banquet of the Commercial club. At the conclusion of this speech Mr. Taft retired on his private car and early tomorrow morning will leave for Frankfort and Louisville Ky.

Meets Many Old Time Friends.

During the day the president met scores of Ohioans who knew him when he lived here. Gov. Harmon, who came down from Columbus to vote, met the president and sat with him at the manufacturers' luncheon and later on the platform in Music hall when Mr. Taft made his peace speech.

Former United States Senator J. B. Foraker, Mayor Louis Schwab, four United States judges, and many other well known Ohioans dropped in for a chat with Mr. Taft at his brother's house or sat with him at luncheon or public functions.

At the entrance of the Business Men's club the president met Gov. Harmon and Senator Foraker. The three chatted for a moment, and then Mr. Taft, linking one arm in one of Gov. Harmon's and with the other thrown over the shoulder of Senator Foraker, entered the building.

With his ballots tucked away at the polling place in Ward Three, Precinct M, the president was in happy vein when he spoke to the manufacturers. President Robertson introduced him with one of the shortest introductory speeches on record.

Speaks for Panama Fortification.

"Gentlemen, the president," said Mr. Robertson, and the luncheers applauded.

"I'm glad to see you still think lawyers are a necessary evil," said the president. "I am coming back here myself some day to become a necessary evil. I see a good many well fed lawyers here and have no fear of the future. I am coming back to compete for business with Gov. Harmon and Senator Foraker."

In Music hall Mr. Taft spoke at length in behalf of the proposed arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France. He said there was nothing inconsistent in his demand that the Panama canal be fortified and that the senate ratify those treaties.

"We ought to use common sense in everything," said the president. "We ought to fortify the Panama canal to keep it for ourselves and to prevent it falling into the hands of an enemy."

DEMOCRAT WINNER IN KANSAS

Joseph A. Taggart Elected to Congress from Second District.

LIKE VICTORY IN NEBRASKA.

Republicans Chosen in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 7.—Joseph A. Taggart, a Democrat, was today elected to congress from the Second Kansas district by a majority estimated at 1,200 votes over his Republican opponent, Ulysses S. Guyer.

Mr. Taggart will fill the unexpired term of the late Republican congressman, A. C. Mitchell.

Mitchell carried the district in 1910 by 3,430 votes over John Caldwell, Democrat.

The country precincts on which Guyer had placed confidence rolled up unexpected Democratic majorities and when Kansas City, Kas., complete, gave Taggart 421 more votes than Guyer, the Republican managers gave up the fight.

Mr. Taggart's election places a non-Republican in congress from the Second district for the first time since 1896 when a Populist was elected. Guyer made his campaign on a progressive Republican platform.

The Socialist and Prohibition parties made heavy gains in the district over the 1910 election.

Republican Succeeds Loudenslager.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 7.—Returns from the first congressional district show that William J. Browning, Republican, was elected to succeed the late Henry C. Loudenslager by from 3,000 to 4,000 majority.

Democrat Wins in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 7.—Dan V. Stephens, Democrat, was elected today to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Congressman Latta of the Third Nebraska district.

Republicans Win in Pennsylvania.

Towanda, Pa., Nov. 7.—Returns from the Fourteenth congressional district indicate the election of W. D. B. Ainey of Montrose, Republican, over Dr. O. H. Rockwell, Democrat and "Keystone," by about 3,000 plurality. The election is to fill the unexpired term of the late George W. Kipp.

CALLED FLIRT, TRIES TO DIE.

Bride Who Takes Poison Blames Husband's Jealousy—"He Kept Me Away from Window."

Mrs. G. Koell, 18 years old, 1408 Fullerton avenue, a bride of one year, attempted to commit suicide last night by drinking some liquid disinfectant. She told the police she became despondent because of her husband's jealousy.

"He is always nagging at me when we go out," she said, "and when in the house he refused to allow me to go near a window for fear I would flirt with some man passing on the street."

Mrs. Koell was hurried to the Chicago Union hospital, where her condition was said to be serious.

PLAN LA FOLLETTE CRUSADE

Progressives Begin Work for Statewide Organizations.

FOR PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY

Meetings to Be Held Soon in Columbus and Des Moines.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Plans for state wide organization of La Follette Republicans in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Iowa were perfected today at the progressive headquarters.

Secretary Fackler of the Cleveland headquarters left for Ohio to arrange for a state conference of progressive leaders to be held at Columbus the latter part of this month. Mr. Fackler said twenty counties of the western reserve already have progressive organizations, and the plan is to extend the formation of county committees throughout the state.

The plans for the Iowa organization are being developed by Walter L. Houser, who is in general charge of the La Follette campaign, and Howard Clark of Des Moines, a close friend of Senator Cummins. There will be a roundup of progressives at Des Moines early next month.

Medill McCormick will go to Indiana and Michigan the latter part of this week to confer with La Follette followers on matters pertaining to organization. Progressive headquarters have been opened at Detroit.

In all of these states the progressives will attempt to obtain a presidential primary for the selection of delegates to the national convention and for the purpose of eliciting a popular expression of preference for presidential candidates.

MARYLAND COUNT SLOW; G. O. P. LEADS

Republican Claim to 5,000 Majority Disputed Half-Heartedly by Democrats.

NEGRO NOT TO LOSE VOTE.

Constitutional Amendment Aimed at Disfranchisement Fails to Carry.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—At midnight Maryland is in doubt, with the chances favoring the Republicans. Chairman Van Diver of the Democratic state committee claims the election of Arthur Pue Gorman for governor by 5,000 to 8,000, and the election of the entire state ticket, and control of both houses of the legislature. These claims are based only upon scattering returns, which do not give anything like a clear line on the general result.

Chairman Hanna of the Republican state committee is equally confident that Phillips Lee Goldsborough has been elected governor and that the entire Republican state ticket has carried. The count was never so slow at a state election as it is tonight.

Slight Gains in Baltimore.

At 12 o'clock only a dozen out of 331 precincts in Baltimore city are in. These show slight Republican gains, upon which the Evening Star, Republican, claims the election of the Republican state ticket by 3,000 to 5,000, and that the city is Republican.

The usual Democratic majorities in the eastern shore counties have been heavily cut down, while the Republican majorities in the western counties have been largely increased.

The Democratic managers do not yet concede Republican victory, but they are anxious and depressed over the slowly increasing Republican gains in Baltimore. The last Republican governor of Maryland was the late Lloyd Lowndes, who was elected in 1895 by about the same majority that Chairman Hanna now claims for Goldsborough.

Negro Vote Light.

In the negro wards the Republican vote fell off because the negroes either could not mark their ballots intelligently or correctly or were bought by the Democrats to stay away from the polls. The legislature will be Democratic, the house by ten to twelve majority and the senate by four. The Republican governor will therefore be unable to carry out promised reforms, particularly in changing the election laws, as the Democratic machine will absolutely control the general assembly. No United States senator is to be elected.

The return on the constitutional amendment designed to disfranchise the negro indicates that it is defeated.

NEWSPAPER SUED FOR $50,000 BY NAT C. GOODWIN, COMEDIAN

Actor Declares Critic of the Arkansas Democrat Falsely Accused Him of Drunkenness on Stage.

Hot Springs, Ark., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Nat C. Goodwin, comedian, instructed W. H. Martin of this city tonight to bring suit for $50,000 against the Arkansas Democrat for statements contained in a review of his performance of "The Captain" in which he is starring.

The critic who passed judgment on Mr. Goodwin's performance at Little Rock Monday night said he was so greatly under the influence of liquor that he had to be "pushed on the stage," and that the profane language he used was plainly heard by those in the audience.

In response to numerous curtain calls here tonight Mr. Goodwin in a curtain speech branded the statement in the Democrat as a lie and called the writer of the same all manner of hard names.

G. O. P. REGAINS NEW JERSEY

Republicans Will Control Legislature by 11 Majority.

BLOW TO WOODROW WILSON.

Governor Made Vigorous Campaign, but Candidates Lose.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 7.—Returns at midnight indicate that the Republicans will control both branches of the legislature next winter.

The election is significant in the defeat of a number of men whose election was specifically advocated by Gov. Woodrow Wilson in the tour he made of the state during the last few weeks. As a result of the election the governor will have a legislature against him.

Control Legislation by Eleven.

New Jersey elected eight senators out of a total of twenty-one, and a complete house. The returns indicate the election of five Republican and three Democratic senators, the Republicans retaining control of the upper branch by 11 to 10.

The members of the assembly in New Jersey are chosen by counties, the late returns indicating that the Republicans have carried that body by 38 to 22 for the Democrats. The Republicans will control the assembly by 10 majority.

Wilson Made Vigorous Campaign.

Gov. Wilson spoke in nearly every county in behalf of the Democratic legislative candidates. He denounced "bossism," his denunciation of political methods in Atlantic City being unusually severe. He referred to that city as a "city of shame," and to the political leaders as "political plunderers."

The Republicans recovered their sway in Essex county, which they lost last year. The county was carried by Austen Colgate for state senator by about 4,000. He defeated Senator Harry V. Osborne by a big plurality.

TWO BACK WHITE $2,000 VOTE STORY

Yarbrough Brothers Swear He Told Them Browne Offered That Sum.

ASKED TO AID LORIMER.

Also Insist Legislator Returned with "Roll" After Seeing Minority Leader.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

The Yarbrough brothers, Sidney and Otis, gave evidence yesterday before the senate Lorimer investigating committee corroborative of the confession of Charles A. White.

The direct examination of Otis, conducted by Attorney Healy, brought forth additional facts of confirmatory value in estimating the worth of White's confession. Through Lee O'Neil Browne Otis secured a job as janitor at the state capitol, receiving compensation amounting to $60 a month.

"Did you do any work?" asked Mr. Healy.

"None whatever," replied the witness.

Otis testified he was in Springfield three days each week during the session and that he did clerical work for White, for which he received some money. He was in Springfield on the night of May 24, 1909, and his brother arrived about 10 o'clock that evening. The Yarbroughs and White went to the latter's room between 10 and 11 o'clock. Browne came to the room "around 12 o'clock."

Tells of $2,000 Vote Offer.

"What did Browne say?" Mr. Healy asked.

"Browne made some jocular remark about three of us being in one room and asked White to go to his room. White was gone twenty or thirty minutes," replied Otis. "When he came back he said there was going to be an election of a United States senator the next day, and Mr. Lorimer was going to be elected. He asked the two of us if we would vote for a Republican for $2,000.

"I remember I told him I would not do it. Anyway, he gave us to understand he would do so. He said Mr. Browne was the one who had told him. Browne said he could get $2,000 if he wanted to vote that way."

The witness subsequently said White asked him and his brother if they would vote for "Lorimer" for $2,000.

Before breakfast on the morning of May 25, 1909, the Yarbrough boys arranged with White to secure seats in the balcony of the house chamber in order to witness the election. The election did not take place that day, and White explained the reason was "because they did not have votes enough." The next day Lorimer was "put over."

Returns from Browne with Money.

About the middle of June, 1909, White told the witness he was going to Chicago to see Browne, "expecting to get some money from him." When White returned he displayed between $800 and $900 in $50 bills, which, he said, he had gotten from Browne at the Briggs house.

White further told the witness Browne had paid him from a money belt which he wore around his waist. This money, Yarbrough said he understood White to say, was for his vote for Lorimer. In July, 1909, White showed the witness a telegram signed Robert E. Wilson, asking White to meet him in St. Louis the next day. The witness accompanied White from O'Fallon, where they lived, to East St. Louis. He went to White's office in this town and White continued across the river.

Later in the day he saw White, who had six $100 bills and about $300 in smaller bills. White told him he got the money from Wilson, who gave it to him in a bathroom. White said this money came to him from the jackpot.

Yarbrough said he talked with White several times about corruption in the legislature, but the first he ever knew of any intention on the part of White to make the exposure was in August, 1909, when he saw the manuscript written by his friend. White, it will be recalled, contended his sole purpose in going to the legislature and in accepting bribes was to make the exposure. Senator Fletcher brought out that White was disappointed in the amount of money he received and so expressed himself to the witness.

Did No Work as "Janitor."

Senator Kenyon asked Yarbrough a number of questions about his service as janitor. The witness said there were about 150 janitors employed, but he never saw them doing any work.

"Didn't you think your employment was a species of graft?" Mr. Kenyon asked.

"I didn't think so at the time," responded the witness.

The cross examination of Otis Yarbrough will take place today.

Sidney Yarbrough was subjected to a long cross examination by Elbridge Hanecy, counsel for Senator Lorimer, who made a determined effort to show the witness was not in Springfield on the night of May 24, 1909, as contended by him and his brother. He sought to establish that Sidney was in the levee district in Chicago on May 23, 1909, and was at the home of George Gloss, a street railway employé, until he left for Springfield on May 25, 1909, using a pass furnished him by White.

Insists He Was in Springfield.

Sidney swore positively he was at Springfield on the night of May 24 and that Browne came to White's room and that when White returned from Browne's room he asked him and his brother if they would vote for a Republican for $2,000. The witness positively denied he had "planted" a letter in his overcoat saying the White story was a conspiracy for the purpose of aiding State's Attorney Wayman in the conduct of the trial of Browne.

He also denied conversations with Officer Keeley quoting him as saying he had "to help Charlie out." He claimed White told him before he came to the legislature that he proposed to expose the corruption. Asked why he did not question White about the offer made by Browne, he said he "didn't care to get mixed up in it."

METHODIST PASTOR BALKS AT CHURCH SUPPORT FOR SMALL.

Thinks Something More than Kindness to Wife Is Needed to Qualify Man for Governorship.

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—"I for one doubt whether we can afford to select a man for governor merely because he is kind to his wife, goes to bed early, and is a Methodist," runs a letter made public today which the Rev. W. J. Leach, pastor of Spencer Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, addressed to the Rev. J. W. Frisselle, superintendent of the Kankakee district of the Methodist church, in reply to a circular indorsing Len Small for the Republican nomination for governor.

The circular is signed jointly by Dr. Frisselle, the Rev. B. F. Echly, and the Rev. J. R. Berry, the two latter pastors of Kankakee Methodist Episcopal churches.

"Will you be so kind as to tell the preachers what has been the attitude of this Len Small on all questions of progressive legislation in this state during the last twenty years?" Dr. Leach wrote in his letter. "Will you tell us what he did to help us to the direct primary, by which he must now be placed in nomination, if at all?

"Will you tell us what is this relation to 'grand old party' politics as played by Lorimer and Cannon?

"If I were to offer a suggestion as to the wording of your letter it would be that you cut out the talk about the wielding of the scepter of state. That talk is too suggestive of archaic notions of government and will not appeal to the voters of this state in this twentieth century."

TAFT ASKS PEACE AND CANAL FORTS

President Urges That Congress Ratify British and French Treaties.

NAVAL RACE HELD ERROR.

Hammond Says Nations' Effort to Lead in Warship Strength Is Useless.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 7.—Reiterating his often quoted theory of peace but advocating the fortification of the Panama canal, President Taft delivered the principal address before the opening session of the national conference of the American Society for Judicial Settlement of International Disputes today.

He also spoke on the question of the treaties between the United States and England and France and urged their ratification.

The conference opened with an address by John Hays Hammond on practically the same subject touched upon by the president. "In time of peace prepare for war" was the opening clause of Mr. Hammond.

Error in Naval Race.

"The great Christian nations of the world are today spending for armed peace upwards of one and a half billion dollars annually," said Mr. Hammond. "It is a futile expenditure, in that it serves no useful purpose. It is, indeed, a foolish expenditure, in that the object for which it is designed—naval supremacy—is not attained, since no radical changes are permanently effected in the relative strength of the armaments of the competing powers.

"The present conditions, however, preclude the possibility of international disarmament and, indeed, render extremely improbable even the limitation of armaments.

"The ultimate solution of this great problem is unquestionably the establishment of a permanent international court of arbitral justice; but this cannot be done except as we solve, step by step, the intricate problems that confront us."

Forward Step of Century.

Dr. S. C. Mitchell, president of the University of South Carolina, addressed the conference on the peace treaties and signalized them as "one of the forward steps in civilization in the century."

"They are the crown of President Taft's achievements and they are destined, if ratified, to become the glory of our common country," he said.

Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university, talked on the same line and advocated the ratification of the treaties.

At the night session addresses were made by James Brown Scott, W. P. Rogers of Cincinnati; William I. Hull of Swarthmore college; John H. Letane of Washington and Lea university; Henry C. King, president of Oberlin college, and Charles Cheney Hyde of Northwestern university.

ANTI-MORMON SILVER TRAY GIVEN TO BATTLESHIP UTAH.

Hope Expressed That It Will Be Used Instead of One Bearing Brigham Young's Picture.

New York, Nov. 7.—There was another presentation ceremony this afternoon aboard the new battleship Utah when the National Anti-Mormon committee gave the ship's mess a silver tray, which they hoped would be used instead of one bearing a small picture of Brigham Young, former president of the Mormon church.

In place of the pictures of Brigham Young and the Mormon temple which appear on the original tray the substitute bears the symbolic figure of a young girl, representing Utah. The tray bears the following inscription:

"Presented to the United States battleship Utah by members of the American party in the state of Utah as an expression of their loyalty to that state and to the constitution and domestic customs of the United States of America."

Mrs. Erna Von R. Owen, chairman of the committee, made the presentation. Speeches were made also by Dr. Walter Laidlaw of New York, Josiah Strong, president of the Society for Social Service, and Mrs. Donald McLean, president of the Daughters of the Revolution.

Fall Kills Woman of 80.

Mrs. Charlotte Jackson, 80 years old, an inmate of the county infirmary at Oak Forest, died yesterday from old age and injuries suffered three days ago when she fell out of bed.

HAND PAINTED CHECKS PASS

Bank Tellers Deceived by Artist's Work with Brush.

FORGERS REAP BIG HARVEST.

Ringleaders of Gang Arrested by New York City Detectives.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—City detectives, assisted by Pinkerton men, rounded up tonight three men who Deputy Commissioner Daugherty says are the brains of a gang of forgers, that has been operating since 1905 and whose profits, taken from all of the larger cities of the United States, aggregate between $500,000 and $600,000.

A remarkable fact is that they actually passed painted pictures of checks, done with a camel's hair brush, from lettering to figures—the whole check created on white paper by an artist. None of the checks was lithographed; all were done by hand, and all defied detection. The detectives say that banks in Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, and Cincinnati have lost more than $300,000 to the forgers' purses.

PROBATION ACT MOST EVIL OF STATUTES, SAYS WAYMAN.

State's Attorney Also Declares Jurors Are Taken from Dives and Are Without Responsibility.

The Illinois probation act last night was declared to be the most vicious on the statute books by State's Attorney John E. W. Wayman, who declared that it was disastrous to the criminals and the public. He spoke before the River Forest Woman's club in the First Presbyterian church of River Forest.

"The most degraded system in Illinois is the parole system," he asserted. "The parole board hears no evidence, but turns a criminal back upon the public. The parole law has decreased respect for the court more than any other law. We should restore to the jury the power to say what imprisonment a criminal shall undergo. Let's get away from the philanthropic side and get at the practical side."

As to the jury system, he said: "Our criminal juries are recruited from dives. Yet the juror is more powerful than the judge. He does not take an oath of office and is responsible to no one. The decision of eight men in a jury ought to decide a case."

STOP INDECENT POST CARDS.

Five Hundred a Day Checked in Transit as Result of Postmaster Campbell's Order.

The remedy applied by Postmaster Campbell for stopping the circulation of indecent postal cards is taking effect. In the first three days following the issuance of his order questionable cards to the number of 500 a day were stopped in transit. Since then the average has shrunk to about half that number.

Postal authorities think this indicates the public is beginning to feel the effect of the medicine. It was calculated to take effect first on the substation superintendents, who are to suffer demerits for every card passing through their substations.

With transit refused it is believed the public will cease to mail the cards.

CASTS BALLOT AND DROPS DEAD

Thomas Shea Succumbs to Heart Disease in Polling Place—Judges Seek Aid in Vain.

Thomas Shea, 1500 Clybourn avenue, dropped dead yesterday morning a few moments after he had cast his vote in a polling place in the quarters of engine company 4 at North Halsted and Vedder streets. Heart disease is believed to have been the cause.

Shea entered the voting booth and drew the curtain behind him. A few moments later the judges heard a cry and saw him fall backwards out of the booth.

He was unconscious when several firemen reached him. They placed him in a chair and then summoned a doctor. Shea was dead when the physician arrived.

WIFE FORGIVES JOHN HORTON.

Her Letter from England to Bigamous Minister in Joliet Jail Says His Boys Pray for Him.

The Rev. John Horton of Beecher is ill in the Joliet jail, but happy, because a letter from his wife at Bolton, England, forgives him for his recent bigamous adventure. He will return to her when released. His wife's letter says his boys pray for him when they go to bed.

GREEK PRINCE IN CHICAGO GIVES KNABE TRAGEDY CLEW.

Declares He Saw Two Women and a Man in Apartment Where Indianapolis Murder Occurred.

Prince Constantinos Paleologos, a Greek lecturer, has been questioned by the Chicago police in connection with the death of Dr. Helene Knabe, who was found with her throat cut in her apartment in Indianapolis, Oct. 27.

Prince Paleologos lived near Dr. Knabe's home. He told several persons he saw a man in Dr. Knabe's apartment the night she was killed. He came to Chicago on a lecture tour before the Indianapolis police could talk to him.

"The night Dr. Knabe was killed I was mailing a letter across the street from her apartment," Paleologos said. "I saw two women in the apartment and what appeared to be a man leaning back in a chair with his back toward the window. I could not identify anybody."

TEAMSTER BEATEN BY BOYS.

Strikes Negro Who Throws Stone at Horse and Four Youths Attack Man.

Four negro boys are held at the Stanton avenue police station, charged with beating and probably fatally injuring Charles Bryan, 17 years old, living at 5004 Princeton avenue. The victim of the attack is white. He is said to have struck one of the negroes who threw a stone at his horse.

Bryan is a teamster. He was dragged from his wagon at Thirty-sixth place and Wabash avenue. His skull was fractured. He was taken to the Provident hospital.

The boys arrested are Harold Canado, 3810 South Dearborn street; James Parks, 3614 South State street; Ralph Harris, 21 East Thirty-sixth street, and Walter Coe, 3628 South State street.

Motorcycle Policeman Hurt.

Policeman Richard Piper, detailed with the motorcycle squad, was probably fatally injured last night when his machine skidded and he was thrown to the pavement at South Ashland avenue and West Fifty-ninth street, while he was riding homeward. His skull was fractured.

FEDERAL VICE NET ENTANGLES EIGHT

"Dutch" Heitler, His Assistant, and Six Women in Jail.

AT WORK TWO MONTHS.

Government Agents Expected to Deport Disorderly House Inmates in City.

Government investigation of the Chicago levee, forecast yesterday morning in THE TRIBUNE, opened in the evening when United States deputy marshals arrested "Dutch" (Coleman) Heitler, brother of "Mike de Pike" Heitler, for violation of the Mann act, prohibiting traffic in women.

Earlier in the day marshals had placed Charles Hirsh, one of Heitler's assistants, under arrest on the same charge. Both were taken to the Cook county jail for arraignment this morning before United States Commissioner Mark A. Foote.

The specific charge against the men is that they have sent six women from one state to another in immoral trade. Three of the women—Sadie Mendelsohn, Fannie Greenbaum, and "Jennie Diamond"—were arrested on Monday evening at the Union depot a few minutes before they were to leave for Pittsburgh. The other three were taken yesterday morning. The arrests of the men followed.

Prisoners May Expose Vice System.

In the arrest of Heitler the government men feel they not only have taken the principal in the particular transaction charged but also a man who may be forced to divulge information against others of the levee district. If he can be made to talk, it is quite likely the government will be provided a wealth of the evidence most needed in the wholesale campaign which has been in course of development for more than two months.

The arrests of both men were made in a flat at 911 West Washington boulevard. The movements of the six women taken during the preceding night had been closely watched for two months. Government agents assert they can show that some of these women were sent to Salt Lake City by Heitler some time ago. At that time the vice commission was threatening to make conditions in the west side levee district unpleasant for its leaders. Later, the agents say, the women were returned to Chicago, and were about to be sent on to Pittsburgh to escape the still pending investigation.

Halt Trip to Pittsburgh.

The Pittsburgh plan was anticipated by several hours. Several men from the federal bureau of investigation were waiting for the women at the Union station. The women were seized and hurried to the county jail to prevent their giving the alarm. There, it is said, they gave a partial confession. Charles F. De Woody, chief of the local government investigating bureau, during the day gave information to United States Commissioner Foote which led to issuance of warrants for Heitler and Hirsh.

United States Deputy Marshals Marsales, Crowley, and Shiefel were sent out with the warrants. At noon Crowley found Hirsh in the café. He was brought to the federal building and thence to the jail without arraignment. A few hours later Heitler was found at the same place. Neither would talk.

Dean Sumner Praises De Woody.

Dean Sumner, chairman of the recent city vice commission, was informed of the arrests just before he left in the evening for St. Louis, where he is to address the Civic club and the Social Service club today and tomorrow.

"Good," he said. "If De Woody has evidence to convict he has done a splendid piece of work."

"Dutch" Heitler is second to "Mike de Pike" in the west side levee, where "Mike" is referred to as the "king." During the vice commission's investigation Dean Sumner reported he had found Heitler to be in almost complete control. Then one of the smaller vice leaders issued circulars broadcast, asserting Heitler was being protected, and that only the others were being molested by the police and the commission's investigators.

This was warmly denied by Dean Sumner.

About one year ago it is known Heitler began buying houses on a larger scale than ever before, many of them along Curtis street, which was supposed to be outside the restricted district. Driven from there, he opened houses in Carpenter street, a block east, where many are now in operation. That at 9 Carpenter street is run by a woman styling herself "Jennie Kirch, an acquaintance of Louis Kirch." She is the "Jennie Diamond" now under arrest.

Heitler Tries to Form Monopoly.

It was charged in the winter Heitler was buying up Curtis street houses in the belief that the West Side Business Men's association would close disorderly houses owned by others and leave the monopoly for that particular district with him.

Heitler was subsequently tried with Samuel (Coxey) Bloom and Louis Kirch for conspiring to induce Morris Shatz the informant against McCann, to leave Chicago. They were acquitted. Witnesses for the prosecution testified Heitler and the others had offered Shatz $500 and whatever he needed for a trip to Panama until the Heitler charges were disposed of.

There is reason to suppose that in addition to prosecutions by the department of justice deportation of alien women will be started on a wholesale plan once the reports of the investigators are in the hands of the immigration service. This procedure will be carried on without the active assistance of the attorney general's department and without recourse to the district courts.

Under the Mann act all aliens profiting by the use of women for immoral purposes, whether the victims or their agents, are liable to deportation. The statute of limitations is not operative. This would make possible the bringing of hundreds from the vice districts before the commissioner simply on known evidence of their having been beyond the borders of the United States and their prompt deportation.

More Police Officers in Peril.

High police officials in the south side levee district will receive the next blow delivered by the city civil service commission, according to information yesterday from a high source.

It was asserted commanding officers of the south side "badlands," who never have been caught in a big police inquiry in the history of Chicago are as badly enmeshed in damaging evidence, now in the hands of the commission, as are the four suspended commanding officers of the west side levee.

It is said the first list of south side officials who will face charges and probable suspension include at least one inspector, two captains, and three or four lieutenants.

Inspector Dorman, Capt. Plunkett, and Lieuts. Howard and Ambrose, the west side officials under suspension, will answer before the board today to charges of inefficiency and neglect of duty. It was said in the evening that the law firm of McEwen, Weissenbach, Schrimski, & Meloan will represent the defendant officials. It is expected the west side men will ask for a delay, which is expected to be granted.

Mr. Wheelock spent the day examining persons who had information regarding police protected vice and gambling. In the evening the attorney, Maj. James Miles, head of the efficiency division, and members of the commission conferred. They would not discuss their discussion.

Bribe Offered Police Sergeant.

An episode which had some earmarks of another police bribe "frameup" has occurred in the Chicago avenue station. Sergeant John Tierney was summoned on Wednesday to the Virginia hotel by a stranger under the pretense that the officer was to be given information which would lead to the arrest of a man who had acquired $6,000 by operating confidence games.

"The stranger told me he and I could 'shake down' the alleged thief for a part of the $6,000," Tierney said. "My informant said he and the supposed thief would meet me at the foot of Chicago avenue Wednesday evening."

Inspector Revere stationed several detectives at the meeting place named. Neither the stranger nor any confidence man appeared. A general order containing the description of the stranger with a demand for his arrest on sight has been sent to all police stations.

Sergeant Barton, in charge of detectives from Assistant Chief Schuettler's office, raided a room on the second floor of a building at 104 South Dearborn street in the afternoon. He confiscated a telephone, over which racing bets are alleged to have been taken. No one was arrested. Other detectives of the Schuettler squad arrested an alleged handbook operator in a billiard hall at 2547 Lincoln avenue.

That Funny Fashionable Fuzziness.

VERMILYA WOMAN ACCUSES ANOTHER

"Perhaps I Can Give Clew to Persons Responsible for the Crimes," She Says.

DOCTOR COMES TO AID.

Hertel Repudiates Statements of Miss Nolan, Fiancee of the Prisoner's Son.

"When I recover my health I will make a statement that will clear me from suspicion of being a poisoner and perhaps furnish a clew to the person responsible for all the crimes that have been laid at my door."

Mrs. Louise Vermilya, under arrest at the county jail hospital on a warrant charging her with murdering Policeman Arthur Bisonette and suspected of knowing about nine other strange deaths, yesterday, through her attorney, Joseph R. Burres, made this statement.

The woman is as calm and calculating as ever, and really seems to believe that her story on the witness stand will free her. She has adapted herself to her surroundings, and told Jailer Will T. Davies she would not have objected to going to jail if she had known "what a really fine place the jail is."

Contradicts Miss Nolan.

She discussed here case with her lawyer during the afternoon and contradicted many facts set forth in the statement of Miss Elizabeth G. Nolan fiancée of the prisoner's son, Dr. Frank Brinkamp, a veterinary surgeon, who died. Other contradictions to Miss Nolan's statement came from Dr. L. L. Hertel, the physician who signed the death certificates for Dr. Brinkamp and Richard T. Smith, a railway conductor, who died last March.

Coroner Hoffman, Assistant State's Attorney Burnham, and Capt. Harding conferred yesterday. Detective Hessler will go to Crystal Lake today and inquire into the manner in which Dr. Brinkamp was initiated into the Mystic Workers of the World, and how the policy was manipulated before it was paid to Mrs Vermilya. Several detectives will investigate all of Mrs. Vermilya's insurance connections in Chicago and trace all persons who lived with the suspected woman.

The prosecution plans to dispense with a "preliminary" hearing that would disclose its strength, by postponing action until the chemical analysis of the organs of Dr. Brinkamp and Smith are concluded. Then the inquest will be held.

Sees Abundance of Gastritis.

"We are satisfied with our case," said the coroner, "but there is much undeveloped testimony and that means a lot of police work. No more bodies will be exhumed—this week, anyway. I expect a report in the Smith case tomorrow or Thursday. Perhaps by the middle of next week I will know what the viscera of the Brinkamp body contains.

"The cause of death given in the death certificate for Charles Vermilya, the second husband of the prisoner, looks suspicious. Dr. Elisha I. Hook signed it. He believed gastritis was the cause. The symptoms in gastritis and arsenic poisoning are similar and a mistake easily could be made. But there seems to have been an abundance of gastritis in the family and among the boarders."

Coroner Hoffman said he would probably summon Dr. Hertel and Undertaker Charles C. Boysen to his office on Friday.

"I cannot understand Miss Nolan and I don't believe she will swear to her statement," said Dr. Hertel. "I wrote the death certificates for Dr. Brinkamp and for Smith. I believe that Prof. Walter S. Haines may find poison in Smith's viscera, but I cannot believe poison will be found in Dr. Brinkamp's organs.

Assails Woman's Testimony.

"I was not the family physician. Dr. F. A. Van Arsdale, who attended Bisonette, was called first, but young Brinkamp took a dislike to him and I was sent for. Miss Nolan says she heard Dr. Vermilya express suspicion over his stepfather's death. She witnessed Dr. Vermilya's death and knew all about the death of Smith, yet she didn't say anything to the authorities until an investigation was begun.

"If she had believed I wasn't giving Dr. Brinkamp proper care, why didn't she summon another physician? I don't doubt that Dr. Brinkamp said: 'Better call Boysen and finish the job.' He was quite sarcastic at times. If Dr. Brinkamp had any suspicions he certainly didn't tell them to me. I asked him what he ate and got a complete history of the case. When I desired a consultation Mrs Vermilya called a practitioner of twenty-five years' experience, and both of us diagnosed the case as pneumonia.

"I never saw a more devoted mother than Mrs. Vermilya. She didn't nurse her son, but that work was done by two professional nurses. There was no possible chance of this young man being poisoned.

Says Police Take Wrong Track.

"The police are on the wrong track. I am medical examiner for the Woodmen of the World and Boysen is its secretary, but Mrs. Vermilya is not a member. I am also medical examiner for the Home Guards, but neither her son nor Smith were members, and Bisonette was not to have been initiated until last Wednesday night. Mrs. Vermilya was trying to have herself appointed a deputy solicitor for the order and worked among her neighbors for members, but nothing happened to any of those she brought in."

John T. Yates, secretary of the Woodmen at Omaha, Neb., last night said Mrs. Vermilya was not a member of the order, never solicited members for it, and that none of the persons whose deaths had been attributed to her belonged to the organization. Secretary Evans of the Home Guards at Van Wert, O., said Mrs. Vermilya never held a commission as solicitor.

HENS' CACKLE CLEW TO BOOTY.

Detectives, Told of Chicken Thefts, Hear Captive Fowls' Plaint and Arrest Four.

Two Sherlock Holmes of the Chicago police yesterday solved a mystery by the cackling of chickens.

Jacob Sadro of 1369 Grand avenue lost eleven chickens Saturday night. Yesterday Detectives Howley and Stegeman were strolling along Austin avenue when they heard a loud "cackle-cackle."

Making their way to a flat they surprised Raymond Nix, 1118 Austin avenue; Howard Nix, 1360 Howard avenue, and James Tracey, 1814 Grand avenue, in the home of Charles Mara at 1360 Austin avenue. Eight of the stolen chickens also were found.

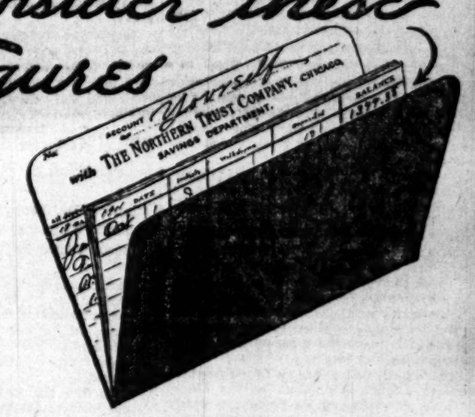
Consider these Figures



Many a man of moderate income spends $10 a month on trifles he does not need—pocket money he calls it. With a little self denial he might save this money and soon forget that he ever spent it. Consider the result.

At the end of ten years he would have in bank $1399.38, if the $10 were deposited regularly each month and earned 3 per cent interest, compounded half yearly. This is a snug sum of money, when you need it, and about $200.00 more than your total deposits.

If you cannot spare $10 a month, save $5. You can open an account in this bank with $1 or more. We shall be glad to have you do so.

Play Books and Book Plays

JUST now we have an unusual number of plays running in Chicago which are either adapted from successful novels or have been "novelized" into popular books.

To those who like to "read the book, then see the play," we suggest that "Excuse Me," Rupert Hughes' popular sleeping car farce, has been made into a successful play; that the novel "Rebellion" contains much that is not in the drama, and a first-rate story has been made of "The Littlest Rebel." Two other plays, "Everywoman" and "Thais," are to be had in their dramatic form. "Seven Days" was first published as a story entitled "When a Man Marries." If you like the theater you will be interested in seeing all these books.

New Novels—and Some Other Books Interesting to Men

Book buyers who prefer to read for entertainment, and who come in to pick up a few of the latest "good stories," should ask to see "Havoc," which is Oppenheim at his best; "His Rise to Power," a striking political novel; "Initials Only," another "mystery" story by Anna Katherine Green; "A Country Lawyer," by Henry Shute (author of "The Real Diary of a Real Boy"); "The Following of the Star," by the author of "The Rosary," or the new novelization of "The Girl of the Golden West." Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Case of Richard Meynell" is also attracting wide attention.

FOOTBALL has been made the subject of two unusual books, "Football," by Parke H. Davis, and "Football for the Spectator," by Walter Camp. At this season we can also suggest Martindale's "With Gun and Guide" and "Wing and Trap Shooting" by Charles Askins.

To all our customers we want to emphasize again the great advantage of beginning now to select their Christmas books.

PEKING GIVES UP HOPE OF DYNASTY

Success of the Revolutionary Movement Conceded in Chinese Capital.

WU TING-FANG GOES OVER

Former Minister to America Makes Statement of Aims of Republicans.

PEKING, Nov. 7.—The legations consider that the end of the Manchu dynasty is imminent. There seems no hope of saving even a nominal throne. The provinces north of the Yangtse are now declaring for a republic.

The only force of Manchu troops large enough to cope with the local situation is in Peking, but there are indications tonight that the capital will be surrounded before many days by Chinese soldiers.

Where the court will take refuge is a question. There are evidences that the court intended to proceed to Chang Kia Kau (Kaigan). Troops guarding the route to that town, which lies in the province of Chi-Li, 125 miles northwest of Peking, were expected to dynamite the tunnel after the passage of the train bearing the emperor and his household. Reports have now been received that Chang Kia Kau is unsafe.

National Assembly Disrupted.

The national assembly is holding meetings without a quorum, but certain members are endeavoring to maintain a nucleus. Na-Hung, vice president of the privy council, has taken rooms for his family in a hotel in the legation quarter. Prince Ching's palace seems deserted. It is believed he is in the forbidden city.

American soldiers with a supply of skyrockets were sent to each outlying mission compound tonight. The legation has advised the Americans to come into the quarter or seek other places of safety. A concerted attack upon foreigners is not feared, but there are many within the city who are opposed to foreigners.

Refuses Job as Envoy.

Gen. Chang Shao-Tsen, who was appointed by imperial edict as envoy to proceed to the Yang-Tse provinces to conciliate the people, has declined the appointment, saying that he prefers to remain with his own troops at Lanchau.

Gen. Wu, who was educated in Japan and was believed to be a sympathizer with the revolutionary movement, has been assassinated at Shih Kai Chwang. Thirty Manchu soldiers rushed into the tent, where he was sleeping and murdered the general, who had been deposed and placed under arrest.

Gen. Wu had secretly gone over to the revolutionists and was betraying the Manchus. The assassination was followed by fighting between the Manchus and Chinese troops. Several officers and men on both sides were killed.

Nanking Viceroy Ends Life.

NANKING, China, Nov. 7.—The viceroy at Nanking committed suicide tonight. The situation is serious. The viceroy's instructions from Peking had ordered him not to resist the revolutionists by force, but to surrender peacefully.

The Tartar general commanding the Manchu troops refused to obey these orders. A condition of panic prevails.

STATEMENT BY WU TING-FANG.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—Dr. Wu Ting-fang, who has been chosen director of foreign affairs in the reform government established by the revolutionists in the province of Kiang-Su, today gave out a long statement in which he announced his adherence to the movement designed to establish a republican form of government in China.

Dr. Wu Ting-fang has twice occupied the office of Chinese minister to the United States, in which country he became widely known. He was first sent to Washington in 1897, remaining there until 1902, when he was recalled. He returned to the same post in 1907, and was again recalled in 1909.

For a time he appeared to have been relegated permanently to private life, but in August, 1910, he was made councilor to the Chinese foreign office.

Disaffection Most Important.

His advanced ideas have not always harmonized with the imperial policy, and it has been no secret that recently he has not wholly sympathized with the throne.

He is the most important figure that has appeared on the revolutionary stage during the last few days. Rumors that he had espoused the rebel cause were received with incredulity. When the revolutionists proclaimed a provisional government at Shanghai, he was made head of the foreign bureau, but the appointment was not taken seriously and as late as yesterday he declined to acknowledge any participation in the revolutionary administration. His attitude as formally announced today is expected to have a far reaching influence.

At his residence within the foreign settlement of Shanghai, Dr. Wu outlined the plans and hopes of the reformers in China. Wen Tsung Yao, formerly imperial resident at Lassa, Tibet, who has been apointed assistant director of foreign affairs in the new government, was present when the statement was made.

Convinced of His Duty.

Dr. Wu said that while he was loath to accept office and hesitated because of his former close connection with the Manchu government, he was now practically forced to aid the cause of China. He announced that Cheng Te-Chuan, the governor at Soochow and formerly governor at Mukden, who was the first governor to come over to the reformers, had been elected governor of the entire province of Kiang-Su.

Cheng Te-Chuan, he said, was a strong man and would be able to control the revolutionists and guarantee order and the safety of foreigners. Ninety per cent of the population, he said, was supporting the present status.

"Personally, I favored a limited monarchy, retaining the emperor as a figurehead, with a strong Chinese cabinet and constitution, but the prevailing sentiment appears to favor a republic," Dr. Wu's statement said.

"In each province a governor will be selected, each city and town giving its allegiance to the new government. The whole people of China, north and south, are united against Manchu supremacy and the government at Peking, which is corrupt and prone to be oppressive.

"I admit that there are tremendous difficulties before us, but we must win. We guarantee an adherence to foreign treaties, whether they were made unfairly or fairly. We will pay our obligations to foreign nations, and open up all the ports of China to foreign trade. Thus will be guaranteed an enormous advantage to all foreigners as well as to China."

LONDON'S YELLOW JOURNALS CALLED DOWN BY OFFICIAL.

Secretary of Foreign Affairs Says Danger Lies in Spreading False News—May Offend Other Nations.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The secretary of foreign affairs, Sir Edward Grey, in the house of commons today read the so-called sensational press a homily on the danger in spreading false news that was offensive to other nations.

"Some of these days," he remarked, "if false news continues to be reported, public sentiment and excitement will get beyond the control of the government concerned."

The incidents which called forth Sir Edward's remarks were an alleged interview with the British ambassador at Vienna and an alleged passage in the speech of Home Secretary McKenna, both strongly critising Germany.

The foreign minister explained that neither the ambassador nor Mr. McKenna had been guilty of the alleged indiscretions, but before this was known in Germany the incidents had been construed as a direct public international affront.

FRENCH ACTOR AND JOURNALIST FIGHT A DUEL WITH RAPIERS.

Charles Le Bargy and M. Malherbe Both Wounded During Fight Near Paris Which Follows Quarrel.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Charles Le Bargy of the Comédie Française, former husband of Mme. Simone, who is now playing in the United States, and M. Malherbe, a journalist, fought a duel this morning. Both men were wounded.

Some time ago M. Le Bargy and M. Alexandre, both of the Comédie Française, were on the point of fighting a duel over statements attributed to them by interviewers. A week ago a court of honor decided that a duel was unnecessary, on the ground that the reporters had misrepresented the statements made by the actors.

The sequel occurred this morning when M. Malherbe, one of the journalists, fought five bouts with rapiers with M. Le Bargy. M. Malherbe was jabbed three times, while M. Le Bargy was scratched on the hand.

CHINESE HOUSES ALL ON ONE PLAN

Roof the Conspicuous and Ornamental Feature of Every Building.

MADE OF COLORED TILES.

Supported on Wooden Pillars, the Walls Being Put In Afterward.

BY GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH. D., LL. D.

PEKING, Chihli province, China, Sept. 13.—Travelers entering China from the west are likely to be impressed by the absence of tall buildings. If they travel much through China after having visited different parts of India they will be impressed by a sameness, even a certain monotony, in Chinese architecture.

There are as many styles of architecture in India as there are cultures and religions; in all Europe one does not find such diversity. It is easy to name a dozen Indian buildings of superlative merit, yet no two of them in the same style.

Quite the contrary is true in China. I have seen not all but certainly the majority of the buildings in China which are termed great. But no one stands out distinct in my mind as do scores of buildings in India. There is less diversity in China than in Italy, less diversity in Chinese temples than in the Italian cathedrals of any given century. Bushell goes so far as to say that in every epoch of her history in all edifices, whether civil, religious, public or private, China has kept to a single architectural model.

Yet it is possible to see the evolution of architecture in China from caves and cliff dwellings to huts, palaces, and temples.

Brick faced caves were the forerunners of brick houses. But both still exist, often side by side.

China Deficient in Ruins.

China is peculiarly deficient in ruins. This is partly due to the temporary nature of her building material—for they have been wise enough to recognize that wood is the most tractable material for architectural purposes—and to the ravages of time and enemies. Really ancient buildings are less common than in Italy. None go back so far as the Roman days.

Literature and representations on pottery, however, help to fill in and extend our knowledge of ancient structures. Stone was never much used. China's great wall, one of the most stupendous architectural monuments of the world, is of brick. In general, it may be said that Chinese dwellings are of brick, their temples of wood.

In ancient times it seems the palace was the temple. Temples proper were not erected until Buddhism was imported from India. But the Buddhist temple of China is essentially Chinese. Only the expert may distinguish it by the character of its decoration and its fittings from a Taoist or a Confucian temple, or from a hall for ancestral tablets.

Mohammedan mosques are not to be distinguished externally from other Chinese buildings. A mosque in Canton, said to be the oldest in China, is not a mosque, as mosques go. In South China floors are of wood; in the north of earth or tile. All important buildings in China, to comply with their rules of geomancy, face the south.

This uniformity of architecture would become really monotonous were it not for a wealth of decoration which makes each notable building a storehouse of interest or a palace of fine arts.

Alien Ideas Absorbed and Molded.

It is significant. Whether or not it makes for interest, whether or not it has been or bad for the development of Chinese architecture, it is another proof, if one were needed that Chinese absorb alien ideas and mold them to their own standards. A Buddhist temple in China no more reproduces the Indian Buddhistic temple than does Chinese Buddhism follow the precepts of Gautama Buddha.

No one who has seen the Temple of Heaven in Peking or the tomb of Yung Lo, in the Valley of the Tombs of the Kings, can forget certain general impressions. First of these is the massive roof, striking in color, majestic and stately in the sweep of its curves. Next is the idea conveyed by the columns which support this wonderful roof. Third, the impression of color on the ceiling and the columns as seen from within.

After miles and miles of jolting over impossible streets to visit a dozen or more of the important temples of Peking, each a congeries of halls, one gets an idea that the Chinese love to build palatial structures merely to show what they can do in the way of a roof. For, after all, this is the first and last impression one carries away from each temple. The west builds roofs to keep out the rain, or a place to dry clothes. Our roofs can't be seen and no one regrets it.

The Chinese roof can be seen, every inch of it. And there is little in China more worth looking at. This is certain—the Chinese architect considers the roof of his building at least half the battle; the artist considers it worthy of the best color his science affords.

Roofs of Colored Tiles.

For this roof, you understand, is always of tile; in all imperial buildings, of colored tile. It may be a solid flame of yellow, it may be the purest cobalt blue, or green, a green which only Chinese tilemakers can secure. Or the body of the roof of blue may be inclosed within a broad border of yellow or green. I realize that these colors, especially yellow and green, don't suggest much to you, or at best a clash, something of the vulgar. We almost consider color immodest. But nothing could be farther from vulgarity or cheapness than the colorings of these roofs.

The curvilinear tiking of the corners of the roof may be a relic of the days when the Chinese dwelt in tents and hung the angles of the canvas on spears. But there is no proof of this and no knowledge of the Chinese other than as a sessile, agricultural people. Whatever its origin, it is difficult to conceive of anything more graceful than these recurving edges and curvilinear and tilted corners.

By tradition the architect must find outlet for most of his energy on the roof; therefore he is lavish in details which, while remaining fairly simple, serve to focus the eye. In the color of his tiles, in accordance with sumptuary laws, he expresses the rank of the owner or indicates that the edifice is an imperial foundation. The massive crest of the roof begins and ends with heads of monsters; its entire expanse, which may rise three feet above the roof proper, bristles with dragons, phœnixes, and other fabulous beasts. Smaller animals in tile are mounted along the ridges near the corners. To give variety the artist often doubles the roof, or even triples it, as in the circular temple within the Temple of Heaven inclosure.

Lavishing his energy upon the roof, the architect finds that he has built a structure of enormous weight, which makes a multiplication of great columns necessary. The columns are invariably of wood; the shaft almost always cylindrical.

The mechanics of the construction of a Chinese building is somewhat analogous to a modern American skyscraper. In the latter the skeleton is of steel filled in with dummy walls; in the former, the skeleton is columns and roof, of wood, the walls being filled in later with stone, more often brick. But the walls do not contribute to the support of the roof.

NAVAL CADET HAZER 'LICKED'

Husky Plebe Resists Harsh Treatment of Smaller Youth.

SENDS FOE TO HOSPITAL.

Academy Authorities Fail to Find Evidence of Torture.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—That a husky fourth classman at the Naval academy administered a sound thrashing to an upper classman who had hazed the former's roommate, a small youth, to the point of exhaustion, is reported here on excellent authority. It could not be learned tonight whether the matter had come to the attention of the academy authorities. The incident is understood to have occurred in Bancroft hall last night.

According to the report, the big fourth classman returned to his room and found that his roommate was nearly ready to drop on account of the severe physical exercises which had been required of him. The big fellow was filled with indignation and instead of obeying the order to take part in the exercises, jumped into the visitor and gave him a severe beating then and there.

According to the story the upper classman was compelled to go to the dispensary to have a black eye and cut face treated.

The Naval academy authorities have failed to find any convincing evidence of physical hazing in the several cases investigated recently, but according to statements from the midshipmen the system is again in full blast.

There is little doubt that severe and prolonged physical exercises are being required of newcomers, just as in former years.

In the region of the Caedzere and Cassai, warlike tribes attacked the settlements and massacred a number of Europeans after subjecting them to terrible tortures.

The number and nationality of the victims are not known.

GERHARDT ON JOB; BIG "GIFT" SEEN

County Architect Said to Approve Deviation from Hospital Specifications.

PROFIT FOR CONTRACTOR.

W. J. Newman Company Held to Save $6,000 to $11,000 by Change in Methods.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

Paul Gerhardt is now supervising the first straight of work under his first contract as county architect. He has approved without authority of a deviation from the specifications for which the contractor should be grateful. It places between $6,000 and $11,000 additional profits in the contractor's pocket. The contractor is the W. J. Newman company. The job is the construction of caissons and spread foundations for the new $2,500,000 county hospital on the present hospital site, Wood and Harrison streets. Bids for this work were first asked on June 29 last. The specifications provide that excavation for the caisson wells must be started "at the present ground level." They also stipulated that "the contractor shall exercise particular care so as not to disturb the surrounding soil."

On that basis bids were received and the contract awarded. W. J. Newman was about $4,000 lower than his nearest competitor. Other bidders said he surely would lose money.

Modified Before Signing.

Newman said nothing until the contract was presented for his signature. Then he went over to the Schiller building to see Gerhardt. They talked it over. The county architect consulted with his own employés and with outside engineers and then agreed to a modification of the above requirements. After getting that information Newman signed the contract. Also a bond of $50,000 to observe every provision of the contract and specifications.

Keenly mindful "not to disturb the surrounding soil," Mr. Newman immediately ordered a steam shovel to the hospital site. For "not" disturbing soil, there may be some more effective human device than a steam shovel, but presumably Mr. Newman could not think of it. He is credited with having the fastest operator in Chicago on it, and already he has dug a hole in which half a regiment of soldiers could be hidden. And he has only been working two weeks.

Mr. Gerhardt is out of town. At his office it was admitted frankly that this "immaterial modification" of the specifications had been sanctioned. It was explained that they have an agreement from the contractor to refill the hole and place it in its original condition. Any one who has seen workmen try to put back all the dirt excavated from a hole in pavement, has an idea of how nearly impossible it is to get disturbed ground surface back in its original condition.

"Hair Splitting" Held of Import.

It was further stated at Mr. Gerhardt's office that a criticism of this nullification of part of the specifications is "splitting hairs." The value of this "hair splitting" to the contractor can be guessed by his refusal to sign the contract until the hair was split. If other bidders had known that the hair would have been split it is highly probable that they would have submitted lower prices.

Another way of indicating the value of the trick is this: Suppose Newman had been forced to start the excavation from "the present ground surface," he would have been forced to observe the agreement between the Chicago Masons and Builders' association and the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' executive council.

That agreement provides 52½ cents an hour for caisson diggers and 47½ cents an hour for the windlass and niggerhead men. That would make his cost about $3.50 a cubic yard for the caisson excavation and then 50 cents for hauling. By using a steam shovel Mr. Newman gets the dirt excavated by it loaded in wagons for 23 or 25 cents a cubic yard.

Saves Heavily on Teaming.

Then follows the 50 cents for teaming. By this "hair-splitting" the contractor saves the difference between 75 cents a yard and 25 a yard on all work done by the steam shovel, considering that the same amount of excavating will be done. It will be necessary, however, to remove the dirt between the caisson wells when the work is done by the steam shovel so that this ratio is probably $1.40 to $4.

The total saving depends upon the depth to which the steam shovel excavates. It was the contractor's intention to dig a hole from ten to fourteen feet deep. At the architect's office it was asserted that he would only dig four or five feet. The hole at one point yesterday was seven feet in depth. It is estimated that if a uniform depth of seven feet is dug, the saving will be in the neighborhood of $6,000; if fourteen feet the saving will be about $11,000. Of course, representatives of the architect and the contractor assert these estimates are too high.

After the hole is completed the contractor will use it as a dumping ground for the clay from the caisson wells. That will save the hauling. The plans for the caisson work show that the building will have no basement. It will take a long time for this clay to settle. The plans for the building have not been completed, and therefore have not been made public, but it is asserted that no supports for the floors will be laid on this clay.

Specifications Are Quoted.

The exact wording of the requirements which have been violated is found in section 31 of the specifications. The reading is:

The excavation for all caisson wells shall be started by the contractor at the present ground level and he shall be paid for the caissons from the bottom to the level ground. . . . In the sinking of the wells for the caissons the contractor shall exercise particular care so as not to disturb the surrounding soil and not to interfere with the owner's [county's] use of the premises more than is absolutely necessary and the same care shall be exercised in the excavation for the spread foundations.

That the construction given these paragraphs is according to the intention of the architect is indicated by section 44, which reads in part:

Disposal of excavated material—all refuse shall be removed daily, and under no circumstances will any material, except that specified for the purpose, be allowed for filling voids outside of the lagging. The excavated material shall be the property of the contractor and shall be expeditiously removed and disposed of by him.

The changes in the specifications not only are prohibited by accepted practice, but are directly in violation of another section of the specifications. Section 11 forbids the architect to authorize changes in the specifications without the formal approval of the county board.

Unknown to Commissioners?

The private agreement between Messrs. Gerhardt and Newman was not only unauthorized by the board but probably unknown to the commissioners. County Commissioner Burg, a member of the building committee, who was inspecting the excavation when the representative of THE TRIBUNE was present, said that he had not heard of the change. Indeed, he explained that he did not know that the specifications prohibited the contractor from disturbing the soil.

Section 11 has this plain injunction:

No alterations shall be made in the work or materials shown by the drawings or described by the specifications, except with the authorization of the owner (county board) and the expressed written consent of the architect.

There was considerable friction and delay in awarding Mr. Newman the contract. Only a few of the reasons appear in the official records.

It took from June 29 to Sept. 25 to get bids and award the contract. On the first date the county board ordered the superintendent of public service to advertise for bids.

First Bids Are Rejected.

Then follows this record:

July 10—Bids to be opened, postponed to July 17.
July 17—Opening of bids postponed to July 21.
July 21—Bids opened and referred to building committee.
Aug. 1—Bids rejected and new bids asked for.
Aug. 7—Bids to have been opened, but postponed to Aug. 14.
Aug. 14—Postponed to Aug. 31. Bids on both caissons and piling to be received.
Aug. 31—Bids opened for both.
Sept. 6—Mr. Gerhardt recommends that caissons be used.
Sept. 6—Part of building committee recommend that contract be awarded to Newman. Board tables recommendation.
Sept. 14—Board reconsiders action.
Sept. 25—Contract signed.

Superintendent of Public Service Slattery, in asking certain postponements of the time for opening bids, complains that Architect Gerhard did not have the specifications ready. The specifications were different for the two different times. In his letter of July 17 Mr. Slattery says:

"In order to expedite the work I would respectfully suggest that bids be opened on Friday, that immediate consideration be given them in order that the work may be started and pushed to completion with the greatest possible haste."

The haste made is indicated above. No other contract in connection with the new hospital has been awarded.

GIVES CANADA A FREE HAND IN ALL DEALINGS WITH U. S.

British Government Will Not Interfere, According to Statements Made in Commons by Grey.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—A determination to leave Canada an entirely free hand in dealing with the United States in matters concerning the dominion, was indicated today by Sir Edward Grey's answer in the house of commons to a question regarding the naval activities of the United States on Lake Michigan.

Rowland Hunt, Unionist member for Shropshire, suggested that the making of a naval station there might be a breach of the Rush-Bagot treaty and wished Ambassador Bryce instructed to ascertain the facts.

The foreign secretary refused to do so without communicating with the Canadian government, whose interests were chiefly affected.

TURKS VICTORS IN DERNA FIGHT

Italians Said to Have Lost 500 Men and Large Quantities of Munitions.

PROTEST TO THE POWERS.

Cruiser's Attack on Town in Arabia Will Spread Field of Action in War.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—The war office today does not claim that Turkish troops have reoccupied Derna, Tripoli. An official telegram from that quarter, however, reports that the Turks won a big victory, 500 Italians being killed and eighteen guns and large quantities of ammunition and provisions being captured.

The porte has dispatched a protest to the powers against Italy's claim that it has annexed Tripoli and Cyrenaica, setting forth Turkey's determination to resist.

Bombard Town in Arabia.

An Italian cruiser bombarded the town of Akabah, in Arabia, on Sunday, sinking the Turkish gunboat Itali-idj, which was lying in port. The second officer of the gunboat was killed, but the others on board escaped. Subsequently the cruiser shelled the hilly portion of the town. The extent of the damage is not stated.

Akabah is a fortified village on the east side of the Gulf of Akabah, near its northern extremity. The dispatch indicates that the Italians, meeting with unexpected opposition in Tripoli, have carried out their threat to attack the enemy's country from the Red sea.

Sterner Methods in Tripoli.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MILAN, Nov. 7.—The repression of Arab "rebels" in Tripoli will be sterner, according to Gen. Frugoni, who is nominally under Gen. Caneva, but who will probably take the chief command in that country. Gen. Frugoni, who is renowned for his firmness, expresses his determination to treat the "rebels" as brigands and to punish them "without excessive scruples." Italy, the general says, will press the war in other quarters and will demand that Turkey pay the cost of the conquest of Tripoli.

American Consul Wood, at Tripoli, said he stood in no need of help and rather than jeopardize the health of the ship's company Commander Decker sailed for Marseilles. He will await orders there.

Don't Be Handicapped By Wrinkles

(Women's Vogue.)

There is nothing so disheartening to a woman as to try on a lovely new hat or gown and find that her wrinkled, leathery skin spoiled the effect. We are telling our readers constantly of a real specific called thermodized jelly. This attacks and remedies the CAUSE of wrinkles, blackheads, double chin, etc. It supplies the flesh underneath with both food and heat, and there you have the two elements of LIFE in a nutshell. This flesh has become starved and devitalized. Give it a good square meal each morning of thermodized jelly, and you will find that it responds almost miraculously. The blackheads will vanish as well as the wrinkles and double chin, for the basic cause of all three is just the same. An ounce and a half of pure thermodized jelly purchased from your druggist will make a different looking woman of you.

NOBEL PRIZE TO MME. CURIE

French Woman Scientist Honored for Work in Chemistry.

WON ONE A FEW YEARS AGO.

Makes Paris Papers Apologize for Slanders About Her.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 7.—The Nobel prize for chemistry has been awarded to Mme. Marie Sklodowska Curie of the University of Paris.

Mme. Curie is the chief professor of sciences in the University of Paris. She was the co-discoverer with her husband, Prof. Pierre Curie, of radium, and in 1903 shared with him half of the Nobel prize for physics, the other half being awarded to Prof. Antoine Henri Becquerel. Each of the five Nobel prizes awarded annually amounts to $40,000.

Recent announcement was made of the success of Mme. Curie in producing polonium, "a new element possessing a radio-activity superior to radium.

Denies Scandalous Stories.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Mme. Curie, the discoverer with her husband of radium, writes a letter to the Temps in which she protests against what she calls the abominable intrusion of the press and public into her private life in the circulation of stories connecting her name with that of Prof. Langevin, whose wife has just sued him for a separation. Mme. Curie says:

"I might spare myself any explanation in regard to what has been published about me, but the stupid extravagance of the allegations in regard to any pretended disappearance of Prof. Langevin oblige me to give the most express reserves on the correctness and authenticity of anything which may be attributed to me. I have done nothing derogatory to my honor."

Threatens Next Offenders.

Mme. Curie says she will not prosecute the newspapers for the stories that were printed about her, owing to the apologies she has received. She adds, however, that if any repetitions of the stories are printed in the future she will sue the papers for libel and will devote whatever damages she may receive to science.

GENERAL FUNSTON TELLS OF FIGHTING LIFE

"Memories of Two Wars," a Vivid Record of His Romantic Career.

"MEMORIES OF TWO WARS," published by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS, is General Funston's own story of his fighting career; one probably unequaled by any living soldier in romantic brilliancy.

Young Mr. Funston from Kansas manages to get smuggled with some other men and several cannons into Cuba before the Spanish War, and though quite untrained in things military, he takes command of a gun in the insurgent army; that is the beginning. General of Volunteers Funston and a little band of chosen men, by highest courage, endurance, and cunning, capture Aguinaldo, and virtually close the Philippine War; that is the end. And the links in the chain that join these events are battles, marches, and skirmishes. It is all very valuable as history—especially the part about the Philippine War, which traces the lines on which the subjugation of the Islands was brought about, more clearly than they were ever traced before—but it is far more valuable as fascinatingly rapid and adventurous narrative.

If any man is tired of novels, but not tired of adventure and excitement in his reading, here is the book for him. If anyone is in doubt about what to give any man for a Christmas present, he or she can't go far wrong in giving him this. Its price is $3.00 net; postpaid $3.30; and it is strikingly illustrated by F. C. Yohn.

LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY

A BEAUTIFUL HOLIDAY EDITION

There Are Full Colored Pictures and Many New Black and White Sketches by Reginald Birch.

Mrs. Burnett in her preface explains why this new edition, with its twelve full-page illustrations, and its many new pen and ink sketches by the original illustrator, Reginald Birch, is issued:

"About twenty-five years ago this story was written. The children who read it first are now men and women. Many of them have children of their own and these children it seems are reading it also—or want to read it, or their friends wish to give it to them to read. As I myself loved Fauntleroy, it is a happiness to me to know that so many others loved him. The book which told his story has been read so many thousand times that its lettering has been worn out and its pictures have faded away. As he himself has not faded away, there has been made this new book with new pictures by the same hand which years ago created the first Fauntleroy who made his cheerful little bow to the world."

It is a beautiful book to be had for $2.00 net; postpaid $2.20.

The price is $2.00 net.

To the American Public

MAY I ask those of my American readers who are not intimately acquainted with the conditions of English rural and religious life to remember that the dominant factor in it—the factor on which the story of Richard Meynell depends—is the existence of the State Church, of the great ecclesiastical corporation, the direct heir of the pre-Reformation Church, which owns the cathedrals and the parish churches, which by right of law speaks for the nation on all national occasions?

ALIKE in the Church, in non-conformity, and in the neutral world which owes formal allegiance to neither, vast movements of thought have developed in the last hundred years, years as pregnant with the germs of new life as the wonderful hundred years that followed the birth of Christ. Whether the old bottles can be adjusted to the new wine, whether further division or a new Christian unity is to emerge from the strife of tongues, whether the ideas of modernism rife in all forms of Christianity can be accommodated to the ancient practices and given a share in the great material possessions of a State Church; how individual lives are affected in the passionate struggle of spiritual faiths and practical interests involved in such an attempt; how conscience may be enriched by its success or sterilized by its failure; how the fight itself, ably waged, may strengthen the spiritual elements, the power of living and suffering in men and women—it is with such themes that this story attempts to deal.

TWENTY-TWO years ago I tried a similar subject in "Robert Elsmere." Since then the movement of ideas in religion and philosophy has been increasingly rapid and fruitful. I am deeply conscious how little I may be able to express it. But those who twenty years ago welcomed the earlier book—and how can I ever forget its reception in America I may perhaps be drawn once again to some of the old themes in their new dress.

MRS. HAVEMEYER KILLED BY FALL

Drops from Ninth Story of a New York Apartment House to Street.

NARROW ESCAPE OF BOYS.

Husband of Victim the Second Cousin of Well Known Sugar Manufacturers.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Two boys were spinning tops on the sidewalk in Seventy-ninth street around the northwest corner of West End avenue this afternoon, when a woman, shot downward, narrowly missing the lads and crashing head first on the walk. She was killed instantly.

The woman was Mrs. Sarah Cordelia Havemeyer, wife of James Havemeyer, a second cousin of the sugar manufacturers. She had lived on the ninth floor of the New Century apartment building, West End avenue and Seventy-ninth street. J. Craig Havemeyer, stock broker, was her only living son.

Invalid for Thirty Years.

Mrs. Havemeyer, 70 years old, had been in feeble mind for more than thirty years and had been constantly attended by a trained nurse. Her malady was accentuated two years ago, when she lost her only daughter.

According to the story the nurse told to Coroner's Physician Philip J. O'Hanlon, she (the nurse) had left the room for a moment to get medicine. Mrs. Havemeyer was lying on the couch. When the nurse returned her patient was gone. Rushing to the open window she saw men bearing the body of Mrs. Havemeyer into the house.

Death Called an Accident.

When the death was first reported to the coroner's office by the police the entry of "suicide," was made on the blotter, but Dr. O'Hanlon, after considering all the circumstances, repudiated this idea.

The window out of which Mrs. Havemeyer fell has a sill that barely reaches as high as the knees and his opinion is that the woman, attracted by the sunlight, went to the window, and, not noticing it was open, lost her balance and fell out.

James Havemeyer, her husband, was riding in the park at the time of the accident.

Girl Tries to End Life.

Despondency over a stormy love affair is said by the police to have caused Sarah Fox, 17 years old, 1047 West Thirteenth street, yesterday to try to end her life by inhaling gas through a rubber hose.

GOMPERS ON LIABILITY LAW

Labor Federation Head Gives Views to Federal Commission.

OPPOSED TO LUMP PAYMENT.

Suggests Compensation for Injury Should Be Made Periodically.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, appeared today before the congressional employers' liability and workmen's compensation commission and indorsed the commission's tentative plan for compensating employés of interstate railroads for injuries. He objected, however, to that provision of the plan making each company responsible only for injuries to employés on its own road.

Mr. Gompers contended that there naturally would be a larger percentage of accidents on the poorly equipped roads than on those supplied with modern protection devices, and that if all roads should be required to contribute to a common fund to insure against accidents the tendency would be toward a general betterment of equipment and greater protection to employés.

The periodical payment of allowed damages, rather than settlement by lump sum payment, was urged by Mr. Gompers.

ADMITS SWINDLING MAIDS IN PICTURE FRAME FRAUD.

George English Arrested and Charged with Victimizing 200 Women—Servant Girls His Chief Victims.

George English, known to the police as the "picture frame swindler," and who is said to have victimized 200 women in the last two years, was arrested yesterday and is held at town hall station pending identification by his victims.

English smilingly admitted his identity and his guilt when questioned by Capt. Cudmore, but refused to give the names of any of his dupes.

English, according to the police, operated chiefly among servant girls, securing from $1 to $10 from each. He would pose as a salesman for picture frames and would show an expensive sample, which he offered for one-half its value. He would collect the money and promise to send the goods in a few days. This was the last the purchaser would see of English.

Salesman Dead in Room.

George P. Pettingill, salesman for Charles A. Stevens & Bros., 10 North State street, yesterday was found dead from illuminating gas in his room at the residence of Mrs. A. Kleinsorg, 11 East Ohio street.

NORTHSIDE HOUSE SOLD FOR $125,000

Frank G. Logan Gets Possession of Mrs. Coonley Ward's Residence.

WILL SETTLE ON LEASE.

H. M. McIntosh, Holder, Expected to Relinquish Property Within Six Months.

Mrs. Coonley Ward has sold her residence at 1150 Lake Shore drive, at the southwest corner of Division street, to Frank G. Logan, former board of trade man, for $125,000. About a month ago Mr. Logan's son-in-law, Charles A. Munroe, purchased the Robert T. Lincoln residence, at the corner of Scott street, a block north, for $55,000.

The Ward residence is one of the handsomest homes on the drive and is said to have cost $150,000. It was built in 1893, after a design by Pond & Pond, architects. It is a three story brick and stone structure and contains eighteen rooms, one being a large art gallery.

It has a beautifully finished interior, and adjoining is a fine stable and garage. It occupies a lot having a frontage of 88½ feet and a depth of 128 feet.

It is under a five years' lease to H. M. McIntosh, which expires Nov. 1, 1912. It is thought that arrangements may be made with Mr. McIntosh by which he will be willing to give Mr. Logan possession May 1 next. Mr. Logan's present residence is 2919 Prairie avenue. Eugene A. Bournique & Co. were the brokers in the transaction.

DEDICATE INDIAN TRAIL TREE.

Men and Women of Glencoe Go to See Bronze Tablet Placed on Historical Forest Landmark.

Fifteen women and five men went from Glencoe to the county line near that place yesterday and witnessed the dedication of the bronze tablet of the Indian trail tree. The services were in charge of members of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The branches of the tree had been bent down years ago by Indians to guide them through the forest to what was later to be Chicago.

Child Fatally Burned.

Bernice Switzer, 3 years old, was fatally burned Monday night when she set fire to her clothing while playing with matches in her home, 907 Sedgwick street.

MAN FINDS AFTER SIX YEARS WIFE FOISTED ORPHAN ON HIM.

Waukegan Husband Got Divorce and Custody of Child He Now Learns Was Not His Own.

Charles O'Neill returned to his residence in Waukegan one day six years ago and was informed by his wife that he had just become the father of a baby girl. He was not surprised, as he had been expecting something of the sort.

A year or two later O'Neill and his wife quarreled and he got a divorce. The court gave the child into his care. A few months ago a state official called on O'Neill and informed him that he was not the father of the little girl. The official produced papers to show that Mrs. O'Neill had taken the child from an orphanage. She had foisted the baby upon her husband as his own. The child was taken away.

Now O'Neill is circulating a petition to be sent to Gov. Marshall of Indiana asking that the little girl be restored to him.

GIRLS HIKE ON HIGH HEELS.

Three Burlington, Ia., Schoolteachers Walking All the Way to Chicago.

Three school teachers walking from Burlington, Ia., to Chicago reached Aurora yesterday afternoon on the last lap of their 207 mile "hike." They came in over the tracks of the Burlington railroad under train orders and with right of way over all second class trains.

They were clad in khaki outfits with short skirts. They stuck to high heels, however, during the entire trip. The girls, Elba Nelson, Nanny Lundell, and Rose Keehn, all members of prominent Burlington families, believe in athletics. They left Burlington last Tuesday.

The young women slept in Aurora last night. This morning they will march upon Chicago.

Hurt in Fall to Sidewalk.

Mrs. Ellen R. Jewett, 1160 Dearborn avenue, was hurt yesterday in front of 1840 Wells street. She slipped and fell to the sidewalk.

PANIC CRY VAIN, ASSERTS KENYON

Senator Declares for Stiffening Sherman Law and Jailing Trust Makers.

TAFT NOT TO FAVOR RICH'

President's Stand to Win Him a Place in History, Iowan Tells Hawkeye Club.

Before the Sherman anti-trust law is amended or obliterated it should be enforced, said Senator W. S. Kenyon of Iowa, former chief "trust buster" for the government, speaking before the Hawkeye Fellowship club last night at the Auditorium hotel.

"If we have a law on our books," he declared, "whose enforcement will lead to a panic, there is either something the matter with the law or something the matter with business. The president is not going to stop enforcing the laws just because some one cries 'panic.' In my humble judgment President Taft will stand in history as the man who stood for the enforcement of the laws against the rich man and poor man alike.

"I read in THE TRIBUNE this morning an article declaring that the day of competition is gone and that the day of combinations is here. That is a question the American people have got to deal with.

Will Fight for Jail Sentences.

"At the last session of congress I introduced a bill wiping out the provision in the law for a penalty by fine. I will introduce that bill again and keep pounding on that proposition until we have a fair chance to find out whether the law is an economic one.

"They can't reduce the wages of the workingmen to pay for a jail sentence as the glass people and the wire people did when they were fined. They will find the law was meant to be obeyed."

Kern Sees Partisanship's End.

Senator Kenyon and Senator John W. Kern of Indiana, who lived for some years in Iowa, were the chief guests of the Hawkeye club and vied in comparing the prestige of the Iowa hog and the Indiana poet.

Senator Kern declared that there is less of partisan politics now in the administration of national affairs than at any time in fifty years.

"The time is coming when men in this country will raise their heads above party politics," he said, "to where they may breathe the pure air of American patriotism."

NORTH SIDE WOMEN PROMISE TO ABANDON POKER PARTIES.

They Confer with Capt. Cudmore—He Threatens Raids and Arrests if the Pledges Are Not Kept.

The north side "poker society colony" has promised to reform and abandon the game. The women gave their promise to Capt. Cudmore of the Town Hall police station. The captain said he was satisfied, but informed them that if he heard of any more poker games in the neighborhood he would raid the parties and arrest the gamblers.

"I believe the gambling parties are things of the past," said Capt. Cudmore. "I have instructed my men to keep a sharp lookout for poker parties. If any are found it will be painful and humiliating for the gamblers. Poker is not a woman's game. It is a man's game, like baseball and football. It is too rough for women."

Mrs. Richard L. Boyer, 619 Sheridan road, said it was the spitework of some envious woman neighbor that caused her name to appear in connection with the poker parties.

U. S. SENATORS LIKE CANAL

Five Back from Panama Express Surprise at the Work Done.

WATERWAY TO OPEN IN 1913.

Indications That Cut Will Be Completed Within Estimated Cost.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Five of the seven United States senators who went to the Isthmus of Panama last month to inspect the work of the army engineers in charge of the canal arrived here on the Panama liner Ancon from Colon today. They are Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, the chairman of the senate committee on interoceanic canals; Senator Bristow of Kansas, Senator Overman of North Carolina, Senator Page of Vermont, and Senator Cummins of Iowa.

Senator Thornton of Louisiana, one of the other two senators who went to the isthmus, returned on a steamer to New Orleans; Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island is detained on the isthmus by illness. He is improving, and is expected home next week. Congressman Higgins of Connecticut and Sergeant at Arms Ransdell of the senate were also on the Ancon.

Rapid Progress on the Canal.

"We left New York on Oct. 14 last and were on the isthmus ten days," said Senator Brandegee. "We were received by Col. Goethals and other commissioners and devoted several days to an inspection of the canal. The progress of the work since my last visit two years ago is remarkable. So far as it is possible to see into the future it looks as if the canal would be finished and opened for business in 1913.

"It will be finished within the estimated cost of $375,000,000. As to the so-called slides of material into the prism, concerning which alarming reports are printed at intervals, I think little apprehension need be felt.

Taking Care of the Slides.

"As the excavation deepens, especially in the Culebra cut, other slides probably will occur, and this necessitates the excavation of the material which may move into the cuts. This is expected in the natural course of events, but the economies resulting from better organization, greater efficiency in operation, and better knowledge of methods of treating the slides have enabled the operating force to excavate the material which had not originally been estimated for without increasing the estimated cost of the completed canal."

TALESMEN IN M'NAMARA CASE WEEDED OUT BY CHALLENGES.

Only Five Men Left at Night Out of Full Panel Chosen Earlier in the Day.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 7.—The jury box in the McNamara murder trial was filled today with talesmen accepted as to cause, and peremptory challenges were exercised by both sides. Only five of the twelve men remained when court adjourned and the defense had reserved the right to challenge some of these.

Among the five men left in the jury box are Robert Raih, carpenter, who organized the first labor union in Los Angeles, and F. D. Green, orange grower, who said he was acquainted with the use of explosives from experience.

The defense excused George W. McKee, against whom it had presented five witnesses in an unsuccessful attempt to show that McKee was an unfair juror. McKee in his examination said he had a fixed opinion that the destruction of the Times was a criminal act.

The state excused M. T. McNeely, a tailor, who as an officer of the tailors' union had assisted in strikes, but said he did not approve of them.

CHICAGO MAN GETS POSITION ON ILLINOIS MERIT BOARD.

Ward R. Robinson Appointed Secretary and Chief Examiner of the State Civil Service Commission.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—Ward R. Robinson of Chicago, a son of W. E. Robinson of this city, was appointed secretary and chief examiner of the Illinois civil service commission today. He was highest in a list of seventeen who toko the competitive examination. Mr. Robinson was for a time connected with the building department in Chicago and later was an examiner of efficiency for the Chicago civil service commission. He is 26 years old and a bachelor. He is a graduate of the Springfield High school and of the University of Illinois class of '06.

CHICAGO TO HEAR MONETARY DEBATE

Most Important Meetings of National Commission to Be Held Here.

OFFICIALS WILL SPEAK.

A. Platt Andrew and L. O. Murray Are to Discuss Currency Reform.

Two of the most important meetings of the national monetary commission yet held and among the last to be held before the report at the opening of congress, will be in Chicago on Saturday and Monday.

At one meeting A. Platt Andrew, assistant secretary of the treasury, will present a codification of the federal monetary laws. His report will include recommendations for reforms suggested by Controller of the Currency Lawrence O. Murray, based on a study of conditions under his observation.

Local Bankers Can Give Ideas.

At the other meeting the subcommittee, which has been carrying on an investigation in Pacific coast cities, will report. This report will include a résumé of the views of commercial experts throughout the west. At both meetings Chicago bankers may present their ideas.

Saturday night, between the two meetings, the commission will attend a dinner given by the Western Economic society, where addresses on currency reform will be made by former Senator Aldrich, chairman of the commission; Secretary MacVeagh, and others.

Aldrich on Way to West.

It is likely that at these meetings will be considered the questions of banking control, the holding of bank stocks by other banks or holding companies, involving alike the National City bank situation in New York and the trust and savings departments of large Chicago national banks.

Mr. Aldrich will speak on currency reform next week at the transmississippi convention in Kansas City, and on Nov. 21 will address the American Bankers' association in New Orleans. Assistant Secretary Andrew also will speak at New Orleans on the currency plan.

How to Conquer a Sluggish Complexion

(From Woman's Home Bulletin).

Marie Bashkertseff, who understood the nature of her sex more keenly than any other woman who ever lived, touched the mainspring of womanly happiness when she wrote—"The chief thing is to be pretty."

A simple little remark, but it has gone down the ages, and it makes every woman who reads it, THINK HARD. Women's complexions, rather than their features, stand in the way of their looks, and no amount of expensive clothes will atone for a sallow, blotchy or pimply face. Our subscribers have often been told about coleated balsam and we have received appreciative thanks from them, so again we say to those whose skins bear sallowness, liver spots, pimples and freckles—go to your druggist and purchase an ounce and a half of coleated balsam. Its alterative properties are almost electrical. Its mission is to restore the pores to their normal condition, performing their normal functions. A lovely, blooming skin, free from blemishes, results.

Approach the Formal Opening of the Winter's Social Season with Interesting Displays of Women's Attire for Formal and Informal Wear

WOMEN'S OPERA, PARTY OR THEATRE COSTUMES AT PRICES BELOW $100.

Gowns for theatre, party, or any other formal wear need not be expensive to be attractive—to set forth the force of this fact is our purpose this week, displaying the most extensive lines of moderately priced styles we have ever assembled. What we have accomplished in developing styles so far above the average ordinarily offered at prices below $100 can only be appreciated by seeing the displays we are now featuring. Sixth Floor.

FIVE STYLES IN THESE GOWNS ARE SHOWN IN THE SKETCH.

IMPORTED WRAPS IN CHARMING MODES FOR AFTERNOON, THEATRE AND OPERA WEAR.

Exquisitely designed model wraps from Paris make the Coat Section especially inviting to women contemplating selections for formal wear—Paquin, Poiret, Callot, Cheruit and Worth are represented in models with which they have achieved their most signal successes

Many clever reproductions are also displayed—among these are Long Coats of beautiful Brocades, Velvets and Charmeuse. —new models just received, priced at $97.50 and $115.

Sixth Floor.

EVENING HATS, THEATRE BONNETS, JULIETTE CAPS AND THE POPULAR NOVELTY BANDS.

Women generally—from miss to matron—are turning to the exquisite little accessories to a distinctive coiffure that are just now coming from Paris. And it matters little whether the coiffure be almost entirely concealed, as by the caps, or given an artistic setting by the novelty Bands—either effect is equally charming, equally popular. Fifth Floor.

Some of the jeweled bands are in designs that might have been modeled from the coiffure ornament of an Egyptian Princess—others have the more classic Grecian lines.

Crystals and imitation pearls have been worked out in many charming styles—as unique as they are beautiful in their effect.

Many distinctive bands are of gold and silver lace richly set off by jeweled and spangled ornaments.

The little Theatre Caps that will excite greatest commendation are oddly patterned styles in metallic brocades and metal laces.

Aigrettes, paradise or marabou add a seeming strange touch of softness to many of the designs.

The very latest of Parisian fancies are shown in gold nets, as fine and filmy as a web.

These and great numbers of other novelties form an exhibit most interesting just at this time.

THE DRESSMAKING AND TAILORING SECTIONS

Are now closing out all their imported Reception Gowns and Street Suits of this season's styles. These garments have been re-marked to about half their cost.

SENTIMENTS BETTER CONCEALED.

It is hard to believe that a sane trade unionist could have issued the preposterous "news bulletin" that nurses at Mercy hospital refused to do their duty by injured strikebreakers brought in from the Illinois Central railroad.

Leave the absurdity of the story out of the question. What does the author of this bulletin wish to have understood? That unionism would rejoice if maimed men were left uncared for in a hospital? If there be that sentiment in the unions it were better concealed.

Some sane men had better take charge of the federation "news bulletins."

WILES OF THE SERPENT?

The School Sports association of Kensington, England, recently petitioned for the use of a public rifle range for girls. The ostensible reason advanced for the astonished public health committee (doubtless masculine) was that "because of a scarcity of pursuits in which a mistress can interest her girls out of school hours in winter."

The request was refused, perhaps because of masculine prejudice or suspicion; the prejudice based on the tradition that the best intentioned female with a gun is "deadlier than the male"; the suspicion aroused by the possibility that this innocent request might be a stratagem of the suffraget. With girls officially admitted to public rifle practice a deadly blow would be delivered at the favorite argument of the anti-suffraget—namely, that women do not bear arms.

SUSPECTING "THE TRIBUNE."

John A. MacNeil, former county judge of Richland county, a witness before the United States senate subcommittee investigating the election of William Lorimer, told the committee that he had not believed THE TRIBUNE was "on the square" in attacking legislative corruption and the beneficiaries of it.

Mr. MacNeil suspected THE TRIBUNE. Others suspected THE TRIBUNE. They have changed their minds. Mr. MacNeil has or will change his. Large numbers of people cannot persist indefinitely in error which hurts only them. THE TRIBUNE is willing to submit its "squareness" to the test. It has been submitted to the test.

The first defense of corruption when attacked is to ascribe unworthy motives to its accusers and Mr. MacNeil need not be surprised if he finds that he was deceived. He was only one of many who were, but the number is decreasing. Common sense cannot be blinded by such methods.

YOUNG CHINA.

A Chinese writer who thought he knew his own people said at the beginning of the rebellion that it had few chances of success because it did not have its origin with the peasantry. All successful Chinese movements in history, he said, had begun with the peasants and this one had not.

The revolution probably did not begin with the peasantry, although there is abundant evidence to show that it has the support of that class of the Chinese. The men who are knocking down the Manchu dynasty and who now plan a republic are the students, young Chinese who have been educated in the United States, in Germany, England, and Japan. The young Chinaman of foreign education was the yeast that caused the ferment.

If the older progressives such as Yuan Shih Kai and Wu Ting-fang had been permitted to work out a program of reform there would not have been great change in the outward form of the Chinese empire. Wu Ting-fang gave out a statement yesterday in Shanghai, saying that personally he favored a limited monarchy, retaining the emperor as a figurehead, but that "the prevailing sentiment appears to favor a republic."

It was the young China of foreign education that put energy in the Chinese national assembly to the stupefaction of Chinese scholars and philosophers and the horror of Manchu princes and statesmen. These keen, aggressive young patriots, throwing away the incumbrances of centuries, and breaking into the open with their scorn of tradition and their demand for liberty, are as relentless as were the French revolutionists.

IN FRANCE AND AMERICA.

That fervent devotee of America, Abbe Felix Klein, in his latest book, "America of Tomorrow," recently translated from the French, seems to strike at the root of the trouble between church and state in France when he bewails the impossibility of establishing in that country an organization analogous to the Knights of Columbus. He explains that such a society would be doomed to failure by "that fatal habit which sterilizes all our efforts, the habit of never seeing in our brethren the numerous bonds we have in common as to fundamental matters, but, instead, of dwelling almost exclusively on the differences that divide us on nonessentials."

In illustration he says: "The French Catholics who would organize themselves into Knights of Columbus or Knights of Jeanne d'Arc probably would soon get into trouble with those of their co-religionists who did not belong to the order. These last, for their part, certainly would not rest until they had had the others condemned as members of a secret societ, or as being tainted with heresy. As to wanting either of these to devote themselves to a positive work, seeking their own good or that of the church, without setting as their special aim to combat something or some one, without proclaiming themselves at the outset anti-anything at all, would be an experiment which would fall of itself beneath the ridicule of men of experience and the protests of its overzealous adherents."

Such a statement by a professor in the Catholic University of Paris throws light upon the failure of constructive social Catholic movements in France and the continued prominence of royalist cliques professing to act in the name of religion. It is also notable that the priest's gloomy strictures on his own country are in striking contrast with the flood of superlatives he pours out on everything American from Theodore Roosevelt to a Pacific coasting steamer captain, including most particularly Chicago and Chicagoans.

THE JUDICIARY SAVED.

Cook county voters protected their judiciary yesterday. It cannot yet be said in rebuke of them that they are willing to permit Tom, Dick, and Harry of unsavory associations and acknowledged unfitness to take places on the bench by virtue and grace of their votes.

They picked fit candidates out of a ruck of incompetence and worse and elected them regardless of party lines. Some men who would have made good judges were defeated. Even in this campaign of political insolence and effrontery there were more than enough good candidates to fill the eleven judgeships. But the voters scotched the unfit, the unworthy, and the impossibles. That was the important thing.

The vote of yesterday was a rebuke to men who needed it. Forecasts of the election were threatening. It seemed impossible that sane voters would accept the mess of unfitness that unscrupulous politicians were trying to dish up for them, but the fear that they might was a real one.

It was almost inconceivable that gangsters could crowd their way to the bench and crowd able and honest men off it, but the hope was strong in them and in the gangs back of them. They would have dragged the Superior court down below the level of a justice shop.

That danger is not in prospect now. A good ticket was elected. It was proved that men who have made good records as judges may trust to the common sense of the people to reëlect them. It was proved that the voters in selecting new men examine their characters and their records for guaranties. It was proved that gang politicians cannot make judges out of men who have been useful to them or who promise to be useful to them.

Judges Kavanagh, Fitch, and McSurely, the sitting judges reëlected, were given the merited compliment of leading off the list of successful candidates.

The election proved that the judiciary is beyond the reach of unscrupulous politics.

GIVING GOV. WILSON PAIN.

Big Bill Edwards of New York is an inconsiderate Princetonian. Said Bill the other night:

"Princeton needs victories over Harvard and Yale, needs them in her business more than she needs a president."

This is inconsiderate of Big William. To toss away Gov. Woodrow Wilson and his prospects as negligible is a rash act. It assumes that more people will read the sporting section than will read a presidential message. This may be so, but are we to admit it in the very home of intelligence and abode of culture?

We are sure that Mr. Wilson has different thoughts on the subject. We are certain that he could show William that it was more important for Princeton to furnish a president than to wallop Yale. William might be obdurate and stiff necked in his opinion, but the professorial habit clings to Mr. Wilson and, this being a matter to which he has given serious attention, we know he could show Bill where Bill was wrong.

SOME of the floaters were defloated, anyhow.

WELL, there are your new judges, gentlemen; take a good look at them.

NOW THAT the voters of Chicago have declared themselves concerning those new bridges—

FORTUNATELY—or providentially—it doesn't take as long to determine the result of an election in this town as it does in Maine.

SOME friend of the Hon. Lee O'Neil Browne who has the requisite leisure should devote a few hours to explaining to that innocent and unsophisticated gentleman just what a legislative jackpot is, don't you know.

THE English sparrow has its friends, of course, but so have the German carp and the—what is the name of that imitation apple they raise over in Missouri?

A FEW days ago the weather man promised us a season of Indian summer in the near future. No undue pressure was applied, either. He did it voluntarily.

BE careful not to leave your motor car unguarded in the street after nightfall. Neglecting this simple precaution has been the means of letting loose much profanity on the chill night air in the last few weeks in this locality.

SENATOR KERN should exhibit less impatience over the prevarications and evasions of witnesses in this Lorimer investigation. Detectives will be dodging his footsteps presently.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Not by Any Means.

"I heard the other day, Mrs. Kadger, that your husband was in financial difficulties. I hope it isn't true."

"Indeed it isn't, Mrs. Jerolomon. Why, not more than a week ago he got a notice that his account at the bank was overdrawn. That means, you know, that he's got so much money there they want him to come and take some of it away."

Effect of a Welsh Rabbit.

With a groan of agony the dramatic critic awoke.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed, "what a nightmare I've had! I dreamed that 'Alvin Joslin' was on the boards again!"

GET THE HYGROMETER HABIT.

If you will turn to the weather report on the first page of THE TRIBUNE you will find the temperature and the relative humidity amongst the items of information. By a relative humidity of 90 is meant that the air contained nine-tenths as much moisture as it would hold at that temperature. In hot weather, where the humidity was over 90, the days seemed much hotter than the temperature shows they were. In cold weather, with the same relative humidity, the days seemed colder than they were.

When the relative humidity is around 70, conclusions drawn from your feelings jibe with what the thermometer said about it. The discomfort of the climate of the lake cities is due to their high humidities. It is by reason of better humidities that inland cities—for example, Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Denver—have the advantage of us.

But the purpose of this article is to tell of indoor humidities. The commission of labor of New York has found the following trades usually work in places with a harmfully high humidity: Printers, clothing makers, bakers, pearl button makers, cigar makers, and laundry workers. The list is incomplete. Discomfort, harm, and lowered efficiency come from working in a place with a high humidity. Artificially heated schools, offices, some stores, all living rooms have a harmfully low humidity ranging from 50 down to 10.

So while we are getting good habits let us get the hygrometer habit. Hygrometers are cheap and almost as easily read as thermometers. Bedrooms should have them, but they are more needed in living rooms. Schoolrooms certainly should have them. Offices are much more in need of them than of registering clocks. All factories and workshops should be equipped with them.

Then, when they are installed, somebody should make a record of what they show. The manager of a factory or large office should have the records of temperature, humidity, and absences from sickness placed on the desk every day. In larger and better organized plants, these records should be supplemented by efficiency data.

FREQUENT ATTACKS OF BRONCHITIS.

A. T. writes: "I have a daughter nearly 8 years old, who has chronic bronchitis. She has attacks suddenly after going to bed, seeming to be all right. About midnight her breathing becomes short and rapid, with a loud wheeze. By morning she has a high fever and is very ill for a few days. It is weeks before the wheeze leaves her. I have given her a tablespoonful of olive oil morning and night for the last two years. This child's tonsils and adenoids have been removed twice since she was 3 years old. Still she is a mouth breather. She sleeps in a room with door and window open, but is not in a direct draft. Aside from the bronchial trouble she is a vigorous, active child and bright in her school work."

REPLY.

I judge that this child is susceptible to colds, and these colds cause an acute attack of bronchitis with asthmatic symptoms. The policy of trusting that a child will outgrow any kind of a malady is a bad one and particularly is true of a tendency to catch cold complicated with asthmatic symptoms. I think you want to change something in the daily routine of this child's life so as to make her less susceptible to cold. I do not think the olive oil will help her.

INDIGESTION THE CAUSE.

H. W. writes that he has an irregular pulse, especially at night. Physicians have failed to find any organic heart disease. He takes strychnine tablets or digitalis as a stimulant frequently. He wishes to know if an irregular pulse is dangerous and if the taking of strychnine and digitalis is harmful. He takes a half teaspoonful of carbonate of soda each evening and has done so for two years, and wishes to know if this is doing harm. He has cut down smoking, but still smokes a little. Does that do any harm? He wishes to know if a man 60 years can sleep in a cold room in winter without harm.

REPLY.

Functional heart trouble resulting in an irregular pulse suggests the need of proper medical care. The heart can be as much a source of danger by reason of disturbance of its nervous mechanism as it can be from leaky valves.

It appears that H. W. has indigestion which he patches up with soda; that the indigestion causes a disturbance of the heart on its nerve side, and this he patches up with digitalis.

No man is justified in continuing the use of a half teaspoonful of soda for two years. He should change his eating habits and get at the reason for his stomach disturbance, rather than use soda. The use of digitalis, as he uses it, is also to be condemned.

If the writer is correct in his estimate of the amount of tobacco he smokes it probably is doing him no harm. There is no reason why a man of 60 years should be harmed by sleeping in a cold room.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS.

W. A. L. writes: "Will you give me your opinion on Chicago as a climate for chronic bronchitis and whether it may be cured here? If so, by what means? What are the risks toward tuberculosis in a chronic bronchitis case in this climate?"

REPLY.

The Chicago climate is not good for one who has bronchitis. The drier air of the west is better. Some cases of chronic bronchitis are cured in Chicago. Some people who are affected this way do better away from the lake than they do within a few blocks of it. The first thing to do is to find out why the patient has bronchitis. Many cases of so-called chronic bronchitis are, in reality, tuberculosis. This patient should be examined thoroughly to see if this is the case. People with chronic bronchitis are no more subject to tuberculosis than other people.

SHOULD SEE SPECIALIST.

J. O. J. writes: "What causes and what can be done to prevent growths in the nasal passages? Do you recommend local treatment, change of climate, or operations? Have had what is termed polypi cauterized with the electric needle and sections of the septum and turbinated bones removed, but still my breathing is more or less restricted when I am in a reclining position. I use a solution of salt or glythomyline in a glass douche daily to keep my nose clean; also occasionally camphorated oil in an atomizer."

REPLY.

Polypi in the nose come from long continued irritation. The cause of the irritation is sometimes in the nose and sometimes in some of the cavities that lead off from the nose, such as the one over the eyes or that in the cheek bone. Partial procedures never produce permanent relief. You should get the best nose man that you can find and have him not only remove all the polypi but find the conditions which lie back of them and remove those, for example, an infected antrum or infected ethmoid. Washing with a cleansing solution will do good, but it does not go far enough back.

BARON VON ROBECK, who has just arrived in America from Ireland, is, although a member of the Swedish nobility and the possessor of a Swedish title, an Irishman—that is to say, if being born and bred in Ireland, with several generations of Irish forbears, is enough to make one a son of Erin.

His patronymic is Fock. But it is his title of Baron von Robeck that will sound more familiar to the people of this country, where his great grandfather, John Henry Fock, Baron von Robeck, played an important rôle in fighting for the American cause in the war of independence.

He entered the Swedish army as a cornet of cavalry, and thereupon obtained permission of the then Swedish king to join a French dragoon regiment under orders for America. He served under the command of the Comte de Rochambeau, was aid de camp for a time to the Duc de Lauzun, and was badly wounded in battle.

Returning to France in 1783 he received from the French government a pension of 1,500 livres a year for his distinguished services in America, and, being invalided out of the French army, returned to Sweden.

Having fallen in love with a beautiful Irish girl, daughter and sole heiress of the Hon. Richard Fitzpatrick, younger brother of the Earl of Upper Ossory, he emigrated to Ireland, secured naturalization by act of parliament as a subject of George III., and became, through his wife, possessed of all her father's, grandfather's, and uncle's property, including their ancestral home, Gowran grange, near Naas, in County Kildare.

He died, leaving only one son, who served throughout the peninsular war under the great Duke of Wellington, and was twice married, the first time to a daughter of Lord Cloncurry, and subsequently to Miss Emily Fitzgerald, niece of the third Duke of Leinster.

The late baron also served in the army, and so, too, has his son and successor, now in this country. In fact, the present baron is a lieutenant colonel on the retired list of the royal artillery, and for a time was chief commissioner of police in Dublin. He is married to one of the Alexanders of Straw hall, in County Carlow, and has several children.

There is, besides the parent stem of the family in Sweden, also a Russian branch, the head of which is Lieut. Gen. Fock, who distinguished himself in the far east in connection with the defense of Port Arthur during the war in Manchuria.

The Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, who has just become minister of agriculture, is, with the exception of Winston Churchill, the youngest and only Wesleyan member of the Asquith cabinet, and, curiously enough, they formerly were the bitterest political adversaries, Runciman defeating Winston Churchill at Oldham in 1899, while Winston Churchill secured a slashing victory over him in the same constituency just twelve months later.

The Runcimans hail from Scotland, and, although one of them was president of the Royal Scottish academy at the close of the eighteenth century, the father of Walter Runciman may be described as a self-made man. He went to sea at the age of 12, worked up through all grades from shipboy to master mariner, founded a steamship line known as the Moor line, and also the great shipping firm of Runciman & Co. A brother was James Runciman, the litterateur and journalist on the staff of the Pall Mall Gazette in the days when Lord Morley of Blackburn was its editor.

It was at James Runciman's house, by the by, that Walter Runciman made the acquaintance and became the friend of Robert Louis Stevenson.

As befits a man who can boast of having had two grandfathers fighting in the battle of Trafalgar and who prizes as his most valued treasures the medals which they won on that occasion under the command of Nelson, he is devoted to the sea and fond, above everything else, of the sport of yachting.

There is no doubt that if he had had his choice of office he would infinitely have preferred becoming the first lord of the admiralty instead of minister of agriculture. That his former adversary at Oldham, Winston Churchill, should have obtained the post merely goes to show that, in spite of their being colleagues of the same administration, there still is a certain amount of rivalry between them.

Perhaps one of the reasons which have prevented the premier from taking Runciman into consideration for the admiralty is the fact that he still owns the Moor steamship line, of which he controls the business—a business, thanks to which, he is one of the richest members of the cabinet.

He is an excellent speaker and is gifted, not only with a keen sense of humor but also a quickness of repartee. Thus, when one of his constituents attempted to heckle him on the question of the disestablishment of the church in Wales, and commenced: "Now, sir! At this moment I have a school in my eye——" Runciman quickly interrupted him at that particular point with, "No! Pardon me; only one pupil!" This turned the laugh to such an extent upon the heckler that he at once subsided.

Young Lord Torrington, whose financial affairs are engaging the attention of the London bankruptcy court, has been for more than two years past in the hands of the money lenders, and, although in a recent suit against him by a professional money lender the latter was shown to have charged him interest at the rate of 60 per cent, Sir Walter Phillimore, the judge of the king's bench presiding at the trial, held that the demands of the usurer were not excessive, in view of the great risk entailed by loaning any money to the viscount, and gave judgment against the latter for the full amount.

Lord Torrington now will forfeit his seat in the house of lords and his rights as a hereditary legislator, by reason of his bankruptcy, and, having as a peer no electoral franchise, thus will be debarred from any voice in the affairs of the nation.

He may be said to have commenced his public career by officiating as page of honor to King Edward on the occasion of the latter's coronation. He is chief of the historic house of Byng, and his father, the late Lord Torrington, eighth of his line and a veteran of the Indian mutiny, was one of the favorite and trusted members of the household of Queen Victoria. It was her absolute refusal to dispense with his services as lord in waiting that led to the inauguration of the present system, whereby one lord in waiting remains permanently attached to the service of his sovereign. In the late reign this was Lord Annaly, and, since George V. has come to the throne, Lord Wenlock.

Lord Torrington married a little over a year ago an actress of the London Gaiety theater, Miss Eleanor Souray, which entailed the resignation of his commission in the army. His ancestral home, Yotes court, near Maidstone in Kent, now is rented. It is a beautiful place, surrounded by some of the grandest trees in the county, the house being full of family relics.

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

THE RUDYARD OF THE "POEM."

When a Rudyard pipes a monarch at the turning of the road
He will fall upon the keyboard with a bum elegiac ode,
Rap the ribbon with a requiem and wail a measured wail,
For the Rudyard of the "poem" ain't the Rudyard of the tale.

When a Rudyard pipes an issue touching ninety million men
He will recognize his duty and will seize his solemn pen,
And produce an awful warning that adds nothing to his fame,
For the Rudyards of the jingo and the jungle ain't the same.

When a Rudyard needs the money (and alas! such needs there be)
He will jerk a little jingle on the theme Biology,
And dispatch it to that country where the natives never fail
To confuse the rhyming Rudyard with the Rudyard of the tale.

The Rudyard of Mulvaney, Gadsby, Dick and Dinah Shadd, Doeth many little ditties that may not be wholly bad,
But enough to show that Rudyard, as the world in sorrow knows,
Is more deadly in a measure than in plain unmeasured prose.

If more deadly means more fatal, and more fatal means more worse,
Then what could be more fataler than quasi-science verse?
Or what could be more deadlier than o'er such verse to wail?
(Quick, Watson! bring the bloodhounds! We are straying from the trail.)

SPEAKING of "modern Borgias" [Sec. 3, top shelf], the Vermilya lady reminds us vividly—in beauty of person and method of (alleged) work—of a Vermont lady whose interest in the hired man required the removal of a presumably uninteresting husband. Reminds us vividly because to reach the scene of the sordid tragedy we had to drive twenty miles across country to a little town in Orange county, in a temperature of 20-odd below zero and between the huge snowbanks of an o. f. New England winter.

IT is many years since, but that dreary mise-en-scene etched deep in memory—the cold courtroom and the shivering spectators, the village justice (it being a preliminary trial), the lank prosecutor, the forlorn Borgia and her hired man, whose ill-nourished bodies and vacant faces belied possession of any sort of passion.

THIS Vermont lady selected strychnine for "Father's" quietus. She put it in a batch of biscuits in place of baking powder. The biscuits were a trifle heavy, but Father didn't complain—then or afterwards.

The Friend of the People

ELEVATION IN TWO YEARS.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Please tell me through the columns of your eminent paper when the citizens of West Auburn may expect the tracks at Seventy-fifth and Halsted streets and at Seventy-ninth street and Wallace street elevated. The conditions, as they are now, are simply disgraceful. A passenger may consider himself lucky if he gets across either crossing without being blocked at least ten minutes.

The Belt railway company of Chicago is the worst offender. I do not believe that I or any one else ever saw one of their trains with less than seventy-five cars; whereas there is a law prohibiting more than fifty cars. This was told to me by one of its own employés—a trainman.

As the matter now stands, nobody in the district south of Seventy-fifth street and west of Wallace street can get to work at any time of the day without being blocked by these trains. Is there no relief in sight?

WEST AUBURNITE.

I beg leave to say that the tracks of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway in the vicinity of Seventy-fifth and Halsted streets and at Seventy-ninth and Wallace streets are to be elevated under the track elevation ordinance of July 13, 1908, which has set Dec. 31, 1914, as the date for completion.

I have recently been advised that work under this ordinance will be started next year.

FRANCIS J. OWENS,
Commissioner of Track Elevation.

WILL HAVE MORE TRAINS.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Is it possible to have another Evanston train put on the Northwestern elevated road arriving at the Adams street station between 5 and 5:30 p. m.? During this rush hour there is only one Evanston train to every two of the Ravenswood, Wilson express, and Wilson local trains. The result is that the Evanston trains at this time are always much more crowded than the intermediate trains.

M. H. T.

In reference to the attached suggestion regarding the crowding of Evanston trains, I beg leave to advise that we are doing everything we can to relieve both the Evanston and the Ravenswood divisions, and I trust by next week there will be a noticeable improvement.

B. I. BUDD, President.

DELAYED BY REPAIRS.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Don't you think it would be possible to squeeze in a few more "Cottage 55" or "Jackson park" cars during the rush hours? I try to board the car at Harrison street every night, but it is generally impossible to get any further than the platform, and I have to walk to Jackson or Adams street if I expect to get even standing room.

D. M. S.

Owing to track reconstruction work on State street, between Madison and Lake, team traffic has been diverted to Wabash avenue, and cars on that street during the rush hour have been delayed on that account.

CHICAGO CITY RAILWAY COMPANY.

PROPERTY OWNERS MUST MOVE.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Would you kindly inform whether there is any possibility of Rice street, between Robey and Leavitt, being paved in the near future? The street is in a deplorable condition and is dangerous to vehicles.

ERNEST BLOCK.

There are no proceedings for the paving of Rice street, from Robey to Leavitt, at this time. If the property owners desire this improvement and will present petition to the board of local improvements, necessary steps will be taken to start such proceedings.

EDWARD J. GLACKIN,
Secretary board of local improvements.

A STREET WITH TWO NAMES.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Our street has two names; north of Sixty-third street it is called Jackson Park avenue and south of Sixty-third street it is called Stony Island avenue. About four years ago this street was renamed Jackson Park avenue, which to my mind is right, because it runs along Jackson park, but I notice that car conductors north call it one way and south call it another. This is confusing to strangers and is not good for business. Will you please take this up with the street railway company, who might instruct their men to call it uniformly and thus help to give it its proper name.

E. C. THOMPSON.

This street was called Stony Island avenue a generation ago because it leads to that interesting geological formation at Ninety-third street. Renaming it Jackson Park avenue was confusing because there were already at least two streets having "Jackson" in their names. Very few on the largest part of the street have adopted the new name. This is an example of bad judgment in renaming streets.

NORTH WATER STREET SERVICE.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[To the Friend of the People.]—In his reply to a complaint of one of the patrons of the Northwestern "L" road Evanston cars I notice the following statement of Mr. B. I. Budd, president: "Those of our patrons who can, without inconvenience, should endeavor to use the service in the evening out of North Water street terminal, where we can add to the service as the traffic warrants it."

I am a patron of the Northwestern "L" service between Chicago avenue and Argyle station and, by compulsion rather than choice, depend upon trains leaving the North Water street terminal for transportation in the evening rush hours. In my experience it is difficult to find standing room in these trains when they reach Chicago avenue station, and I would like to ask Mr. Budd, through your valuable medium, what volume of traffic will warrant increasing the service from North Water street terminal. At Chicago avenue we see the Evanston loop trains go merrily by on their through run to Argyle, and when a North Water street train finally comes it's a case of push, shove, and stand up.

If the company is in position to add to the North Water street terminal service as the traffic warrants it a vote of hundreds of patrons taking trains at Chicago avenue for points north of Wilson avenue will unanimously say, "Do it now."

W. R. S.

MR. KWIATKOWSKI'S LONG WAIT.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—[To the Friend of the People.]—On Jan. 1, 1911, I signed a contract for a four party nickel telephone, and in July another party in the same block also signed a contract for the same kind of a phone, and we have not as yet got telephones. I was told by the Chicago Telephone company that if there were two parties in the block they would give us service. Can something be done to have these phones installed?

JOHN KWIATKOWSKI,
4620 South Rockwell street.

I find that we have uncompleted orders for four party line nickel prepayment telephones for John Kwiatkowski, 4620 South Rockwell street, and Jan Kantorski, 4626 South Rockwell street. To complete these orders will require the setting of ten poles and the stringing of twenty-eight spans of wire, entailing a great expense. At this writing the plans are not sufficiently advanced to estimate a date of completion, but everything within reason will be done to furnish service.

A. M. RAMSAY, Commercial Superintendent.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

COLLECTIONS AT SUNDAY NIGHT CLUB.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As THE TRIBUNE is the forum of Chicago, where any one is permitted to address the thousands of your intelligent readers, I take the liberty to criticise the management of the Sunday Evening club. Many men and women in this big city, like myself, without family ties or home, are attracted to these meetings by the intellectual and spiritual features offered. My understanding always has been that these Sunday evening meetings were made possible by the liberal contributions of a number of Christian philanthropists who were anxious to bring people close to their God.

Of late the management has introduced the methods of the fashionable church, that of passing the contribution basket, and many worthy women and men are forced from sheer self-esteem to contribute who probably can ill afford to do so. Don't you think these wealthy philanthropic Christian gentlemen should draw a little more liberally on themselves and do away with this petty begging?

CHARLES KLING,
4312 Indiana avenue.

[As the Sunday Evening club is, to all intents and purposes, a church, there is no reason why church methods should not prevail. Collections are made in all churches, but no one is compelled to contribute.—Ed. Tribune.]

FRUSTRATING THE LAW.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—On the editorial page of THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE of Nov. 2 a Boston minister speaks of the gang on the street corner making trouble for the policeman on the beat as the school of the criminal. I may add that the city alderman is helping them to get their diplomas from the police judges when they graduate in police courts. Think of the city aldermen making laws in the city council and then going to the police courts helping criminals to violate them. Why do our judges allow such outrages?

A SUBSCRIBER.

THE LIQUOR INTERESTS AND DR. WILEY.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Like many of our prohibitionist friends, Mr. Duncan C. Milner has been indulging in statements without a careful adherence to the truth. He has made the ridiculous assertion that the combined liquor interests of the country have been instrumental in bringing ouster proceedings against Dr. Wiley, the champion of pure food. Fortunately for the distillers and others, the attempt to oust Dr. Wiley was defeated.

In a previous answer to one of Mr. Milner's communications, in which he accuses the distillers of conspiring against the good doctor, I signified my ability to produce documentary evidence that Mr. Milner is laboring under a grievous error, or else is deliberately deviating from the truth.

I am sending you herewith a copy of one of the distillers' leading trade papers, and I ask you, Mr. Editor, to kindly peruse its columns, editorial and other. Does the sentiment expressed therein indicate any animosity on the part of the distillers towards Dr. Wiley? Does it not vigorously uphold him from A to Z?

J. H. OPPENHEIM, 5126 Calumet avenue.

[The journal in question is a copy of Barrels and Bottles, published at Indianapolis on Sept. 20. It contains a number of reprinted articles from other publications rejoicing at the retention of Dr. Wiley.—Ed. Tribune.]

LIQUOR DEALERS AND THE LAW.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Gen. Grant said "the best way to get rid of a bad or obnoxious law is strictly to enforce it." The lawless liquor dealers of the country seem to have adopted the contrary policy. Their plan is continually and persistently to break laws that restrict or prevent their traffic with the idea that if they can keep it up long enough they can get the kind of laws they want. It is a serious matter to make lawbreakers the dictators of what laws shall be put upon the statute books and what laws they will obey. THE TRIBUNE in a recent editorial discussing lawlessness said:

"Divekeepers ignore the liquor laws. They ignore all laws which would interfere with them."

In the recent campaign in Maine which came so near a victory for the "wets" almost the only argument that had any effect was that of the nonenforcement of the prohibitory law. Good people who are against liquor selling and really believe in prohibition were so disgusted with the lawlessness of places like Bangor that they voted with the lawbreakers and oath breaking officials to abrogate the law.

Thirty years ago when Kansas adopted prohibition the word was passed around from liquor headquarters for saloons to keep open, ignore the law, and they would have lawyers for their defense paid, as well as their fines, and that if they persisted the goody-goody people would get tired and give them again a license law. The more strictly the law has been enforced in Kansas the better the people like it. Recently the Kansas City Star stated that "a campaign to close the public schools will be almost as popular in Kansas as a campaign to reopen its saloons."

DUNCAN C. MILNER.

JUSTICE FOR THE TURK.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In justice to the Turk who, thanks to the Associated Press, has been able to reach this morning with his piteous appeal the heads, if not the hearts, of more than 100,000,000 Christians, also for the purpose of squaring our conduct in the past with the conduct, too, of Italy and the other great powers, this government should take immediate action to the extent of placing the appeal on file, to be taken up later—say as a feature of our third or fourth century.

JOHN MCINTYRE, 2672 N. Halsted street.

ON DAWSON '11.

[Editorial in Unity.]

Unity has often saluted John McCutcheon as one of the great teachers of righteousness in Chicago. His cartoons on the front page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reach an audience vastly greater and at times with more decisive power than is given to any cleric speaking over a pulpit, however available. Mr. McCutcheon is at present running a series that illustrates the life of young Dawson, the hopeful, clean college graduate who seeks his fortune in the great city. It is a twentieth century version of the Prodigal Son reversed. The trials and career of the good boy who did not "waste his substance in riotous living" is one that shows the literary as well as artistic skill of this preacher artist. We hope the career of young Dawson will be illustrated to the end. Brother McCutcheon, let us see Dawson with the gray hairs. Like all students of a continuous story, we are impatient to see the end. But take your time, do not abbreviate the long story of life, and when it is completed we will put it in a book that future preachers may be reinforced by your genius as many are today.

LICHTSTERN QUIT[S] WHEAT CAMPAIG[N]

[B]rokers Discuss the Report[ed] Withdrawal of Bull Leade[r] in May "Deal."

[T]ODAY WILL GIVE PROO[F]

[T]raders Await Opening of Ma[r]ket Anxiously; Liquidation Continues.

[B]oard of trade men—bulls and bears a[nd] [b]rokers alike—are awaiting the opening [of to]day's market with some anxiety. Rum[ors] of the retirement of A. J. Lichtstern, prin[cipal] in the big May wheat deal that started t[he] [c]urrent government investigation and an i[m]portant figure in a score of other sensation[al] transactions of the last few years, thou[gh] unconfirmed by Lichtstern himself, ha[ve] started queries concerning the bull leader['s] plans.

Since the first rumors of the governme[nt] investigation the Armour-Lichtstern inte[r]ests, which hold the bulk of the cash whe[at] in Chicago elevators and enormous amoun[ts] shipped to outside storage points, have bee[n] liquidating. James S. Templeton, a ca[sh] grain broker acting for the Lichtstern cliqu[e] has sold 3,000,000 bushels in the last te[n] days. These sales have been highly advan[ta]geous to the millers.

Seeks to Avert Losses.

On Monday Templeton made a flat offer t[o] Lichtstern for 5,000,000 bushels, the larges[t] flat offer ever made on the Chicago or an[y] other board. The offer was rejected. Th[e] reason for the rejection was the shaving o[f] the price by ⅞ of a cent—on the basis of Mon[]day's close, which was the basis Templeto[n] suggested. Lichtstern held out for his ol[d] price of 5½ cents under May wheat.

This attitude was taken to indicate but on[e] thing—namely: that willing as Lichtstern ha[s] been to sell his wheat at a staggering los[s] from its potential value of ten days ago h[e] has struck the bottom and will hang on. Whether it will serve to rally the market re[]mains to be seen. Templeton has issued let[]ters broadcast to the trade, as announce[d] yesterday, practically insuring the buyer[s] against loss and indicating to them appar[]ently that the bull leaders were willing t[o] quit.

Millers Buy from Farmers.

The holding of enormous stocks of cas[h] wheat was inopportune. During July th[e] farmers began marketing their wheat direc[t] to the mills on such a large scale that th[e] millers were not forced to come to the mai[n] terminals for their supply. As a result th[e] Armour elevators—for the Armour compan[y] is credited with handling the cash wheat fo[r] both Lichtstern and J. Ogden Armour—wer[e] choked with wheat, some of it the 1910 crop and the millers were buying direct from th[e] farms.

One result credited by the board was th[e] acquisition of more storage facilities by Ar[]mour in several eastern points to relieve th[e] pressure on Chicago and have the grain i[n] storage for shipment from outside cities.

Today's Events Indicative.

Today's returns will show the effect of th[e] Templeton letter, and this effect should b[e] reflected in the early market conditions o[n] the board. The series of days in which th[e] bulls made no determined efforts to stem th[e] selling tide may have terminated on Monda[y] with Lichtstern's refusal to cut his minimum offer.

LICHTSTERN QUITS WHEAT CAMPAIGN?

Brokers Discuss the Reported Withdrawal of Bull Leader in May "Deal."

TODAY WILL GIVE PROOF.

Traders Await Opening of Market Anxiously; Liquidation Continues.

...board of trade men—bulls and bears and ...brokers alike—are awaiting the opening of ...today's market with some anxiety. Rumors ...of the retirement of A. J. Lichtstern, princi... ...pal in the big May wheat deal that started the ...recent government investigation and an im... ...portant figure in a score of other sensational ...transactions of the last few years, though ...unconfirmed by Lichtstern himself, have ...caused queries concerning the bull leaders' ...plans.

...Were the first rumors of the government ...investigation the Armour-Lichtstern inter... ...ests, which hold the bulk of the cash wheat ...in Chicago elevators and enormous amounts ...shipped to outside storage points, have been ...misleading. James S. Templeton, a cash ...grain broker acting for the Lichtstern clique, ...has sold 3,000,000 bushels in the last ten ...days. These sales have been highly advan... ...tageous to the millers.

Seeks to Avert Losses.

...On Monday Templeton made a flat offer to ...Lichtstern for 5,000,000 bushels, the largest ...offer ever made on the Chicago or any ...other board. The offer was rejected. The ...reason for the rejection was the shaving of ...prices by ⅛ of a cent—on the basis of Mon... ...day's close, which was the basis Templeton ...suggested. Lichtstern held out for his old ...price of 98¢ cents under May wheat.

...This attitude was taken to indicate but one ...thing—namely: that willing as Lichtstern had ...been to sell his wheat at a staggering loss ...from its potential value of ten days ago he ...has struck the bottom and will hang on. ...Whether it will serve to rally the market re... ...mains to be seen. Templeton has issued let... ...ters broadcast to the trade, as announced ...Monday, practically insuring the buyers ...against loss and indicating to them appar... ...ently that the bull leaders were willing to ...quit.

Millers Buy from Farmers.

...The holding of enormous stocks of cash ...wheat was inopportune. During July the ...millers began marketing their wheat direct ...from the mills on such a large scale that the ...elevators were not forced to come to the main ...terminals for their supply. As a result the ...Armour elevators—for the Armour company ...is credited with handling the cash wheat for ...both Lichtstern and J. Ogden Armour—were ...filled with wheat, some of it the 1910 crop, ...while the millers were buying direct from the ...farms.

...The result credited by the board was the ...creation of more storage facilities by Ar... ...mour in several eastern points to relieve the ...congestion of Chicago and have the grain in ...storage for shipment from outside cities.

Today's Events Indicative.

...Today's returns will show the effect of the ...Templeton letter, and this effect should be ...carried in the early market conditions on ...the board. The series of days in which the ...bears made no determined efforts to stem the ...rising tide may have terminated on Monday ...with Lichtstern's refusal to cut his minimum ...price.

URGES VENTILATION VIA FLOOR

Dr. W. A. Evans Has New Scheme to Furnish Cars with Air.

EXPLAINS DULL AUDIENCES.

Says Lack of Pure Atmosphere Makes People Sleep at Meetings.

Dr. W. A. Evans, former health commissioner of Chicago, yesterday overturned ordinary theories of car ventilation. He recommended that air passages be located in floor of railroad coaches and street cars, instead of in the roof, and that the air be warmed before being passed along to the passengers.

The former city health commissioner was speaking at a convention of the Association of Railway Electrical Engineers at Hotel La Salle.

"There may be some question as to this being the best plan of ventilating cars," said Dr. Evans, "but using it in connection with a system of agitator fans assures the best compromise for an ideal system I know of.

"Air should be taken out of the car at or near the ceiling. The temperature should be kept at or around 70."

Dr. Evans recommended that agitator fans be placed in hotel rooms used for meeting places.

"Oftentimes," he said, "lack of interest displayed by audiences and their tendency to sleepiness is not so much due to the dullness of the subject as the poor system of ventilation."

ARBITERS AVERT ANOTHER GARMENT WORKERS' STRIKE.

Suspension of Employes by Hart, Schaffner & Marx Explained as Due to Abandonment of Shop.

A denial of the report of the lockout at the shops of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, involving 500 garment workers, was made yesterday by the arbitration board and representatives of the clothing firm. It was claimed that the closing of three of the shops, whereby several hundred employes were thrown out of work, was merely part of an arrangement to transfer the workers to other shops.

It was understood, however, at the garment workers' union headquarters that a strike had been threatened by the ousted workers, and was only averted by the arguments of the arbitration committee.

"Our reason for releasing the 500 garment workers employed in the building at West Van Buren and South Market streets was simply because we wished to give up the location and decided that this time was the most convenient to make the change," said Joseph Schaffner, secretary of the firm.

"Our foremen at the other shops have been instructed to employ the workers from the closed shop as rapidly as practicable."

Officials of the union were reticent concerning the situation, but said that a satisfactory agreement had been reached between the employers and the arbitration committee.

A. F. Sauer, a manufacturer of picture frames who lives at 627 North Park avenue, was instantly killed last evening by a Chicago and Oak Park elevated train at Park avenue and South boulevard, Austin. He had got off the train at the station and was crossing the tracks when he was run over.

SAYS GOOD TOGS MAKE BOYS STEAL

Prof. Allan Hoben Calls Well Dressed Persons Menace to Morals.

PLANS BIG CENSOR BOARD.

Wants Commission Given Power Over All Amusements for Chicago Young People.

The conspicuously well dressed person on the streets, man or woman, is a menace to society, according to Prof. Allan Hoben of the University of Chicago. He spoke yesterday before the study class of the Chicago Woman's aid at Isaiah temple.

"The well dressed person does not appreciate the harm he is doing," said Prof. Hoben. "Dress on the street is a big problem. To be conspicuously well dressed is to constitute yourself a menace. The attempt of the merchant to sell is a temptation to steal. We are so adept at displaying attractive and beautiful things that a child, brought up in the communal atmosphere of the home, can hardly be expected to resist."

Prof. Hoben said the city was reversing values in cleaning and adorning its boulevards while streets that constitute "the parlor and the playground of the poor," go untouched.

Would Adorn Halsted Street.

"You would suppose the streets which most serve the people would have the most care," he said. "But the contrary is true. All adornment comes on the wide boulevards. Halsted street, instead of Michigan avenue, should blossom out with trees, plots of grass, electric lights, and clean pavement. The city street must be made more humane. There is an average of more than one violent death a day in the streets."

Moving picture shows were declared much better than before the establishing of the censor bureau, as since that time 118 miles of objectionable films have been kept out of the shows. Much mischief is hatched in the 936 poolrooms in the city, he said. The dance halls were declared the worst source of danger to the youth of Chicago.

Urges Substitute for Dance Hall.

"There should be absolute divorce of the dance hall and the saloon," he said. "In American we go just as far as we possibly can, especially if there is an extra dime in it. The big problem is to get a good substitute for the public dance hall."

Prof. Hoben outlined a plan for a public amusement commission, made up of prominent social workers of Chicago, to work "without pay, but with power." The commission, if the plan is taken up by the authorities, would act as a greater censor bureau, with authority over vaudeville shows, public parks, dance halls, and all amusements for young people.

ASSAILS BAD HOUSING IN CITY

Sanitary Inspector Ball Criticises Conditions in Chicago.

CELLAR ROOMS INCREASE.

Families Crowded in One Sleeping Apartment Are Common, He Asserts.

"Chicago has all insanitary housing conditions that exist anywhere in the world, and some are continually increasing," asserted Chief Sanitary Inspector Charles B. Ball in an address yesterday before the Rogers Park Woman's club on "How the Other Half Lives in Chicago."

"Some living conditions I have found are almost unbelievable," said Mr. Ball. "In fact, many people refuse to believe them, and as a result refuse to admit Chicago's great need for more determined efforts to lessen the evil.

"Cellar living rooms are actually on the increase in Chicago, and families of five persons and more sharing a single sleeping room to which the light of day never penetrates are common instances."

Eight results of bad housing conditions were cited by Mr. Ball to illustrate the importance of the work of sanitary improvement. They were industrial inefficiency, inebriety, dependence and poverty, juvenile delinquency, vice and crime, sickness, death, and degeneracy of the race.

Mr. Ball said the hospitality of the saloon was not to be blamed for drunkenness as much as the inhospitality of the home.

YOUTH RESCUES CO-ED'S HAT; REWARDED BY BLOW WITH IT.

Millinery Taken by Wind Toward Lake—Valiant Student Pursues and Falls on Headgear.

As a reward for accidentally breaking the plumes on a co-ed's hat while trying to save it from blowing into the lake yesterday, Frank Young, a sophomore in Northwestern university, was hit in the face with the restored headgear by its owner.

When the students left chapel at 10:20 o'clock yesterday morning a strong wind was blowing. An elaborate hat was whirled from the head of a college girl and it rolled rapidly down a street toward the lake.

Young ran after the runaway hat for a block and fell on it. As he returned it, with plumes broken, the girl seized the hat, hit him with it, then walked away quickly.

Hurt by Fall from Building.

August Youngman, 6016 South Green street, was severely bruised and cut last evening when he fell from a building under construction at 6418 South Halsted street.

What Information Advertisers Need

What Some Men Lose Who Lack It

Do you know, Mr. Advertiser, who buys your goods? Do you know where they live—what they read?

Do you know why some buy, and why others don't buy? Why some prefer a rival manufacture?

Do you know why some sections pay better than others? Why you lose trade when you lose it?

Do you know what damage substitution is doing—how and where and why? Do you know all your opposition?

Do you know, above all, how your arguments appeal? Have you tried them face-to-face?

If not, we have something to tell you.

We, too—in the past—have groped our way in the dark. And we know that it doesn't pay.

We now canvass consumers, from house to house. We now go to dealers, from town to town, before we start selling in print.

We know what they want, and why. We know what forces we have got to face.

When we frame a campaign we know the actual conditions. We deal with no theory, no guesswork, no chance.

The effect has been to avoid mistakes, to create defenses, and to multiply results.

The facts will give you new respect for this Agency. We want to explain them to you.

And we want to discuss a new science with you—the Science of Strategy.

It forms, we consider, the greatest contribution we ever have made to advertising.

It is the science of doing, by clever maneuvers, what used to be done by time, cost and attack.

It does a year's work in a week, sometimes. It secures, by one move, nation-wide distribution. It has placed many an article, from the very jump, on a profit-paying basis.

It removes the uncertainties, minimizes risk, multiplies selling power. Many millions of dollars, which were otherwise lost, have been pocketed by men who employed it.

All this is told, for the first time, in a book. It reveals, as we never revealed before, the secrets of our success.

The ideas have been gathered from a thousand sources. We owe them to countless able men.

To pay the debt, we offer them to others. Also to give you a new idea of what advertising efficiency means.

Any man with a selling problem is welcome to this book. In justice to himself he should get it.

Cut out this reminder; put it in your pocket. Then, when convenient, write us for the book, or phone Randolph 2284 for an appointment.

SCALP ITCHED SO SHE COULDN'T SLEEP

Nor Keep from Scratching. Became Worse and Worse. In Two Weeks Rid Completely of Trouble through Use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"One evening while combing my hair, I noticed a few brown crustlike spots on my scalp and, of course, I thought it was only a little dust that had settled there during the week. So I washed my hair thoroughly but I saw that they wouldn't come out. Then at the end of the next week I washed my hair again, and to my astonishment I saw not only those few but many more had come. Then my head became worse and worse, and my scalp started to itch terribly, so that I could not sleep nor keep from scratching my head.

"The crustlike places later opened and made sores which bled, and they also itched something terrible. I tried many remedies but none helped and instead they made my head worse. This condition of my scalp kept up for a month, and then one day I met a friend and she advised me to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did. In two weeks I was rid completely of this trouble, through the use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I am never without them, for they are my most highly valued friends." (Signed) Miss Alva Gustafson, 677 Second Ave., New York City, May 17, 1911.

Girl of 12 Cured of Pimples.

"When I was about twelve or thirteen, my face broke out with pimples. They came out in groups and caused great disfigurement. After trying so many remedies without success, I saw the Cuticura Ointment advertised and I sent for a box. In a week I saw a great change in my face, and it rendered a complete cure. Now you can not tell I ever had pimples." (Signed) Miss Mabel Morash, Dover West, N. S., Mar. 31, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 19A, Boston, for a liberal sample of each, post-free, with 32-p. book on the skin.

Only members of the families of the bride and groom were present. The courtship began at Taylorville, where Mr. Perkins supervised construction of the new $250,000 residence for the bride's parents. The couple will spend some time on Mr. Perkins' coffee plantation near Jalapa, Mexico, and will visit Yucatan, Panama, and the West Indies. On their return in February they will reside in Chicago.

Crusades Shown at Church Benefit.

About 2,000 persons saw moving pictures illustrating the crusades at the Arcadia dance hall, Evanston and Sunnyside avenues, last night. The entertainment was a benefit for the building fund of the St. Mary's of the Lake church, Sheridan road and Edgecomb place. Although the show was under the auspices of the entire parish, each department of the church was differently concerned. The young women, under the chairmanship of Miss Gertrude Owens, sold flowers and tags. William Powell was chairman of the Men's league, and Mrs. William Lyman of the Ladies' auxiliary.

Music and the Drama.

Mr. Tyrone Power's Voice Is Raised in "Thais."

"THAIS."

A drama by Paul Wilstach, founded on the romance of Anatole France. Presented in Chicago at Powers' theater, Nov. 5, 1911, under the direction of Joseph M. Gaites. The cast:

Thais	Miss Constance Collier
Damiel, a hermit of the Theban desert	Tyrone Power
Nicias, a pagan, friend of Thais	Julian L'Estrange
Hermedorus	Harold Meade
Dorion	Hayden Stevenson
Cheraas	Walter Regan
Aristobulus	Antonio Moreno
Cephanes, Thais' cook	Preston Kendall
Crobyle, slave girl	Miss Elizabeth Norcott
Myrtale, slave girl	Miss Elsie Riser
Albina, superior of the White Sisters	Miss Bernice Parker

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

MR. TYRONE POWER is alone in the impersonation of uncouth and sonorously majestic characters addicted to metrical speech, and so he booms and strides through the limping measures of Mr. Wilstach's "Thais," an impressive if somewhat sepulchral figure.

He is the Theban hermit of the play who endeavors to improve the spectacular Alexandrine courtesan and who finds that though the spirit is willing the flesh is weak. It is, thus, his office to stalk hither and thither and with melancholy visage and lugubrious utterance to announce to all within his voice that death is the wages of sin. With upturned eye and outspread arm against a gaudy background of revelers and obliging stage lights he appears as the scourge of pleasure, the stressed, half-fanatic, sandaled, long haired, full blooded creature of the desert, unshaven and unashamed. His step is imperial, his aspect horrific. When he roars Mr. Wilstach's platitudes laughter ceases and the red lights of Alexandria go out. He is the kill-joy, the death's head at the feast, and when he gets into proper action all the pearls and all the rubies of the slim and elegant Nicias are as paste. Thais, the belle of Egypt, trails him into the desert and dies sanctimoniously in sunlight and in peace.

Of course, every one is as familiar with the fable as he is with the "Meditation," which added a note of off-key atmosphere to the proceedings last night at Powers'. So Miss Constance Collier may be reported. An unusually decorative young woman, slender, seductive, interested, and a bit Levantine, she meandered through the spectacle, enunciating Mr. Wilstach's speeches musically and as if they were her own. She was always a striking picture, the patrician light o' love of Mr. Wilstach's imagination if not of his lines. She was a nice lady of the half world, naughty but with a heart of gold. Immediately the hermit appeared with his message from the serious life she was a changed woman. In the play this change seemed a trifle precipitate and not altogether plausible, but Miss Collier bridged the spaces and made it seem all right if one didn't think about it too much. Her dresses were sumptuous and she wore them sumptuously. When the other players were shouting she was quiet and pleasant and audible, even with the wisp of a lisp which made her seem quite modern. Not so brazen, though every bit as fleshly as Miss Mary Garden, she tinted her vocation with a respectful hue now and then and made it seem unfortunate that her reformation should have been so quickly followed by death. But who knows? Had she lived she might have returned to Alexandria and the café life.

I read Mr. Wilstach's printed play the other day, and in type it seemed shoddy—an uncomfortable confusion of commonplace and attempt to be poetic. But as it is performed "Thais" nas qualities. The speeches which appeared cheap and tinsel in the book sound fairly rich and musical from the stage. This give the credit to the author, who is my friend, rather than to the actors, who are not. It is full of jarring words and phrases, and it annoys frequently, as when impressive emotions are expressed in verbal junk. And a platitude intrusted to Mr. Tyrone Power becomes doubly platitudinous. The first act is a hideous actorial orgy—with the players demeaning themselves with all the theatrical abandon of a Lambs' gambol. Such florid monks have never been seen before outside of grand opera.

The last act, too, is marred by a lot of bad actresses who attempt to impersonate nuns with the result that they merely impersonate bad actresses. Mr. Julian L'Estrange appears showily as Nicias, that opulent hedonist, and there are graceful crowds of slaves, white and otherwise, and celebrants at the court of Thais. The pictures are rich in a theatrical way and calculated to entice the picture loving public. There were many evidences that Mr. Wilstach's passion for research had bestowed upon the production little details which added much to the general effect.

Musical Comedy Favorite Weds.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Lily Elsie, London's favorite musical comedy artist, was married today to Ian Bullough, a young Scotch millionaire, whose first wife, Maudi Darrell, died a year ago. Miss Elsie was to have appeared in New York this season in Lehar's opera, "The Count of Luxemburg," but her contract with Klaw & Erlanger will probably be canceled.

Program of Song Offers Interesting Novelties.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

HERBERT MILLER'S song recital in Music hall last night was one of the most interesting and attractive expositions of vocal art that the season has thus far offered. Several factors contributed to this desirable end. In authority, versatility, and refinement of interpretative style Mr. Miller begins to take rank with singers who have achieved far wider recognition. As a program maker he demonstrates an acquaintance with the less familiar masterpieces of song that many of his colleagues of greater fame would do well to emulate, and even when his desire to represent native composers got the better of his artistic judgment he was guilty of no greater transgressions against taste than several distinguished visitors to our shores have placed to their discredit.

A recitative and aria from Gluck's "Iphigenie en Aulid" and Beethoven's "Adelaide" comprised Mr. Miller's tribute to the classics. They also sufficed to establish in the minds of his hearers that comfortable sense of satisfaction that is encountered in the concert hall only when the artist displays a complete mastery of technical problems. After Mr. Miller's presentation of the difficult Beethoven number there remained no doubt as to handling of either vocal or musical problems. It has frequently been asserted that Beethoven's beautiful song is far more grateful as a solo for a stringed instrument, for the reason that the composer neglected to remember that singers must breathe. If Mr. Miller shares this general limitation he is able to conceal it most effectively, for the long sustained phrases of the Beethoven melody were delivered as smoothly as though played up the cello, and with as much warmth and variety of tone. Furthermore, he had the good taste to avail himself of the admirable translation of the German text, thereby affording his hearers an opportunity to appreciate the beauties of their native tongue in song, when adorned by perfect diction and enunciation.

These same virtues of diction, enunciation, and vocal and musical authority were manifested in the German and French songs which formed the second division of Mr. Miller's program. One may therefore limit this review to a discussion of the songs themselves, since they were either entirely new or rarely heard compositions. Sinding contributed two songs; the first, "Sylvester Nacht," emphasizing his accustomed depressed and gloomy mood with much variety of harmonic effect; the second, "Fuge," sounding a note of alcoholic good humor not inappropriately expressed in the contrapuntal convolutions of melody and accompaniment suggested by the title. Two interesting songs of Lœwe were resurrected from an undeserved oblivion. A greater measure of inspiration may be claimed for the first, "Heimlichkeit," which attractively foreshadowed the more graphic symbolism of modern song, and even his setting of the "Erlkönig" was so effectively interpreted that comparison with Schubert's masterpiece was not impossible.

Debussy and Duparc were elected to represent the French modernists, the former somewhat unconvincingly in his "Il pleur dans mon cœur," the latter with splendid imagination and delightful poetic sense in his "La Vague et la Cloche" and "Extase." "Mary," by Arthur Olaf Anderson, was the one worthy song that redeemed the trash of several triflers with a noble art which Mr. Miller chose to represent American composers in his concluding group. Mr. Anderson has written a masterpiece that is not the less remarkable because of its simplicity.

"Thais" Sung in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—Baltimore's grand opera season opened tonight with a production of Massanet's "Thais" by the Chicago Grand Opera company. The audience was large, socially brilliant, and beautifully costumed. The company gave an excellent reading of the Massanet score. Mary Garden sang the title rôle, Hector Dufranne was the Athanael, and Edmond Warnery the Nicias. Other singers in the cast were Messrs. Fossetta and Nicolay and Mmes. Marie Cavan and Giaconia.

Mr. Fields' Father Ill; Garrick Closed.

Lew Fields was summoned to New York yesterday by the illness of his father, and as a consequence there was no performance of "The Hen Pecks" at the Garrick last evening. The theater will remain closed until Mr. Fields returns. Meantime some of the more important entertainers of "The Hen Pecks," including Miss Blossom Seeley, Miss Elizabeth Brice, and the Ceballos, have been transferred to the American Music hall, where they may be seen in Mr. Field's other exhibition, "Hanky Panky." Trovato, the violinist in Harry Lauder's company, has been added also to the American's bill. The burlesque of "The Littlest Rebel" will soon be ready for performance in connection with "Hanky Panky."

"The Cave Man," Gelett Burgess' dramatization of his story, "Lady Mechante," has failed, and Robert Edeson will be transferred from the leading rôle therein to "The Arab," Edgar Selwyn, the author and star, making way for him.

Miss Frances Starr in Edward Locke's new play, "The Case of Rebecca," will succeed "The Concert" at the Blackstone Dec. 4. The star who will play a Jekyll-and-Hyde rôle will be supported by Charles Dalton, Albert Bruning, Robert Dempster, and Miss Mary C. Lawton.

Round About Chicago.

Back to the Simple Life; A Novel of Modern Chicago

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

THORNDYKE NORTHSYDE sat alone in his beautiful apartments, a look of wretchedness upon his face. It was long past the dinner hour, in fact, at this very moment the ormolu clock on the mantelpiece struck eight times.

"That terrible clock," moaned Thorndyke bitterly. "That was one of them."

His eyes wandered along the walls. They were lavish with pictures and hand painted plaques. The sight of each one seemed to give a separate stab to Thorndyke's very heart of hearts. He arose to walk across the floor and to gaze wistfully once more out into the gloomy darkness. He tripped on a Turkish rug.

"O, chocolate caramels," exclaimed Thorndyke angrily. "Another memorial of the blight that has descended upon my once happy home."

For a long time Thorndyke stood at the window with his fine Roman nose pressed against the cold pane. Then he went back and sat down in the arm chair, dropped his head in his hands, and groaned. Suddenly he heard the sound of a taxicab outside and sprang to the door.

A tall, beautiful woman in a tailored suit swept haughtily into the apartment.

"Go down and pay the taxi driver, Thorndyke," she said coldly. "I haven't a cent. They got me good and they got me plenty."

Thorndyke stood pale with the great tears running slowly down his face.

"I have no money," he said, "except what I put away to pay the milkman."

"Use that," said Mrs. Northsyde imperiously. Thorndyke took the money and went reluctantly down and paid the taxi driver. When he returned he stood mutely by the door looking at his wife.

"O, don't look like a mummy, Thorn," said Mrs. Northsyde. "Suppose they did roll me today. I'll show them tomorrow that I can come back all right. What about dinner?"

"There is none," said Thorndyke. "You took all the money away this afternoon."

"Suppose I did," said Mrs. Northsyde. "I expected to make a killing, didn't I? And I would have done it, too, only I met a jinx on the way over to the party. Doggone a cross-eyed nigger anyhow! Why don't they chloroform them or lock them up for life? This one walked right square across my path. Of course I couldn't win after that. Gee, what luck! Thorn, I had a full house beat three times, and I even got trimmed on four tens. I couldn't have taken a pot today on a royal flush."

Thorndyke spoke never a work but stood lookly dumbly at his wife.

"O, brace up, Thorn," snapped Mrs. Northsyde. "They can never keep a squirrel on the ground. You get busy tomorrow and go out and sell these near-paintings and those ghastly plaques and that rug and the ormolu clock, and give me a working capital, and, believe me, there'll be a cleaning at that poker party that will make them think four hydraulic street sweepers have been at work."

"Madeline," asked Thorndyke with a great sob in his voice, "would you rob our home of its few treasures?"

"O, pish tush," said Mrs. North Syde. "They're mine. I won 'em, didn't I, in the old days before we quit wasting time on toys like that and put the game on a no limit cash basis? Besides you hate them anyhow."

"Madeline," said Thorndyke in a low, tense voice, "while you were sitting this afternoon at Mrs. Sheridan Drive's, gambling away your money, did you think of your husband waiting through the long hours for you at home, worrying every moment about you?"

"You needn't worry, Thorn," said Mrs. North Syde. "I suppose you were afraid the place was going to be raided by the police. That's all newspaper talk. The police are doing a little bluffing, but there's no chance to get us. We had Mrs. Snooper in the front window with a pair of field glasses. She's got a hawk beat to death. She can spot a fly cop three miles away."

"I wish you would not play poker for money," said Thorndyke sadly.

"O, tut, tut, Thorn," laughed his wife. "One must keep in the swim. If I didn't play poker I would be dropped cold by society. Don't be old fashioned, Thorn."

"I was thinking something before you came in," went on Thorndyke, still more sadly. "I hardly know how to tell you what it was."

"Well, get it out of your system, Thorn," said Madeline. "Out with it."

"I was wishing we could give up this apartment out in this fashionable neighborhood with all its enticements. I wish you were willing to move down to some hotel in the loop where we could lead the simple life, going to the theaters and the all night cafés."

"O, Thorn," interrupted Madeline petulantly. "I should be bored to death."

"I know, dear," said Thorndyke. "But after a while you would like it. O, how I wish you would go in for the quiet life away from all this mad excitement. Why can't you take up some simpler existence? If you would only join the chorus of some burlesque company, or be the tattooed lady of a circus, or even accept a position as a prima donna. Anything to get away from the mad allurements of your present life. Let us fly far from Sheridan road and Buena Park. Come, my darling."

"What you say is quite right," said Madeline after a long pause. "I will never play poker again. We will leave the north shore and poker parties forever and lead a quiet, simple, happy existance henceforth. Yes, I am resolved. I will become a lady aviator."

"O," said Thorndyke, bursting into happy tears, "how can I think you, my own?"

Woman and Her Interests.

Laura Jean Libbey's Comment and Advice.

Moonshine Fancies.

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

[Copyright: 1911: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

LET no girl imagine if a young man lures her out for a walk under the light of the harvest moon that he has it cut and dried as an occasion in his mind to propose to her.

It is the nature of the generality of mankind to wax sentimental when out for a stroll with a sweet woman clinging confidingly to his arm, her eyes looking up confidingly to his and she so close to him that he can almost fancy he hears her heart beat.

Every woman knows that she looks enchantingly sweet by the kind light of the moon. Her eyes look brighter, her smile seems sweeter, and the clasp of her hand thrills him as it could never do under the false electric light of the ballroom, roof garden, and the many crowded resorts where lovers are supposed to meet and read love's meaning in each other's eyes.

The mischievous moon does not call all men to "lightly turn to thoughts of love." Some jest with tender words because they imagine that a girl expects it of them. They begin by telling her how fair she looks and it seems to slip from their lips without any volition of their own that they wish they had a nice girl; that it must be exceedingly nice to love and be beloved. At that moment as he utters the words his thoughts might be miles and miles away from the girl by his side to some other charmer with whom he has rambled under the light of the moon. It is not a man's fault if a girl takes his sentimental remarks too seriously. He is used to jesting; it is a part of his nature. Not one man out of a thousand is apt to propose in a public place.

It is the season of romance, with the air just crisp enough to bring the blood tingling to their cheeks, as the young men beau the girls home under the harvest moon. Even the lightest hearted fellow in the world, he who has been wont to turn everything into jest, must surely feel a tenderer emotion steal into his heart as he walks through the irresistible night. The hills and dells are ablaze with foliage of crimson and gold. A belated flower, the last one on the bush, nods a welcome as they pass by. The squirrels darting hither and thither across their paths bearing nuts to their burrows in the hedges look up at them with their bright eyes as if to say: "Springtime is not the only mating time. October loving is quite as sweet."

"As bathed in blood, the trailing vines appear,
While round them, soft and low, the sweet wind grieves.
The heart of summer must have broken here
And poured its treasure out upon the leaves."

Many words spoken in jest are turned into earnest declarations of love by the clever girl who knows just how to turn the situation at the psychological moment. There is scarcely any needs of telling womankind this, for, bless you, they all realize it intuitively. That's why the dear old harvest moontime is the gladdest season of all the year for making hearts happy.

My. He Kissed Her.

"Dear Miss Libbey: While my sister and I were attending a party one of the young men present kissed her on the cheek as we were preparing to leave. My sister did not seem to mind it much, so I overlooked it. Do you think it would have been proper for me to have made a scene? What should I have done? WORRIED."

You should have given him a good going over for his impudence. It is too late now to refer to the matter. Let it go. Tell your sister you were greatly displeased at the way she acted.

Her Mother's View.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 20 and have been going steadily with a young man one year my senior for six months. We love each other and he has often told me that I am the only girl for him. He expects to leave the city for a year or so. My mother says that he is not treating me fairly and I should tell him so. "SUNSHINE."

What is the fellow leaving the city for? If it is to better himself in a financial way you have no right to stand in his way. You are not engaged to him, are you? Your mother takes a very narrow view of the situation.

She's Secretly Married.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am secretly married to an old school friend. Sunday night after he left me he met a girl friend and went over to her house and had coffee. Monday night he called me up and told me of it. Tuesday he went to see a sick girl, a friend of both of us, and stayed for dinner. When I tell him he does wrong he takes it as a joke. What shall I do? BROKEN HEARTED."

You are a very foolish little girl to have married secretly. Announce your marriage at once. It is the only safe plan.

She Is Seven Months Older.

"Dear Miss Libbey: About three months ago I met a nice, respectable girl, the same age as myself, 21. Her parents are of the same class as my folk. Whenever I see her she tells me to come up as often as it is convenient for me, but it is quite a distance from my place to where she is. Therefore I have arranged the following plan, which she likes very well: On Tuesday I send her a letter; I receive my reply on Thursday. Then I call her up on Friday and see her Saturday or Sunday evening. I recently asked her if she loved me, and her reply was no—because I am too young for her. But she is only seven months older than I am. Do you think that difference in our ages would mean anything? If not, what would you advise me to do? "JACK."

No, Jack, the difference in your ages wou'dn't make any difference. If you love the girl, better keep on trying to win her.

What Shall I Do? ASK THE TRIBUNE

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

In the Interest of the Working Girl.

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

[Copyright: 1911: By Lillian Russell.]

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT of New York is an exceedingly clever woman, and among other things she is demonstrating this by putting into her political equality headquarters what she calls a department of hygiene and its function is "human repair work."

From what one can glean from Mrs. Belmont's article she intends to teach the modern young woman who works that it is better to buy soap than chiffon; face cream than false hair; and that well kept hands do not need rings.

Mrs. Belmont says "the fact that many girls, especially those who work, have little time or occasion for intelligent thought and attention on the subject of caring for their bodily homes has resulted in my decision to start a department of hygiene at political equality headquarters this winter. I have been working all summer with some of the best authorities in the country on a list of scientifically pure specialties, the formulas for many of which come from Vienna."

Besides this Mrs. Belmont intends to inaugurate a series of free lectures on matters of interest to women exclusively. Their object will be to better equip girls and women to go out into the world and fight for bread and butter and to obtain their rights and a place to live and develop in the world.

Mrs. Belmont says: "Nothing exactly along these lines has ever before been tried in the United States." And she concludes, "I am confident that this effort toward human repair work and upbuilding is really worth while."

I want to congratulate Mrs. Belmont upon starting at the foundation in this work. She has had the clearness of vision which can see that a healthy, beautiful body makes for not only a beautiful and healthy mind but a sane outlook and a lack of egotistical introspection.

There is another angle to this work, however, which Mrs. Belmont knows, although she has not spoken of it. It is that the wholesome good looking woman can gain her points much quicker than the frowzy, tousled female, no matter how brilliant her arguments.

There is no reason in the world why this should not be the beginning of a great movement among women and it helps to take beauty culture out of its foolishly flippant faker class and put it where it belongs—on a dignified plane which means betterment of the race.

Rememoer: Beauty need only beckon while ugliness must follow.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

PHYLLIS K.: Are you sure that you buy your shoes large enough? If I were you I would go to some reputable shoe store and explain my difficulty to the man in charge, asking him to measure my feet and give me a pair of their best shoes of the proper size. If you do this I think you will have no trouble. Thank you very much for your wishes.

FLORENCE: Enlarged veins can be removed by the electric needle. They will contract when the electric needle is applied to them. Gentle massage will sometimes remove the cause. Be careful with your diet. Avoid all spicy, rich foods and all sweets. I am sending you formula for an excellent skin food most frequently used by French and Russian women, and which I have used with success for twenty years, also instructions for facial massage.

W. S.: Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I shall send you a remedy for a double chin and also a recipe for reducing the lips.

Economical Housekeeping.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Fruit or Plum Cake.

WE call it fruit cake now; they called it plum cake then—in the time of our great-grandmothers.

Among all the elaborate preparations which will presently be made in the homes that cling to the dear old custom of high doings in the kitchen at holiday times that for the fruit cake is among the earliest. Perhaps there is in keeping, if the home boasts of such a thing as a real food storeroom, a fruit cake which was made a year ago, and that which will be made this year will presently go into storage.

These ancient cakes are more elegant than wholesome. Yes, even a fruit cake, that presumable foe to good digestion, can be made so that, in reasonable quantities, it may be eaten without after suffering. But where it is made with "up of flour" and down of everything else this cannot be truly said of it.

The following proportions, famous ones, are not what can be recommended from a dietetic standpoint, but only for a cake that will keep a year in a stone jar covered with a quart of the best French brandy, which is renewed as it is absorbed:

One dozen eggs, one pound of butter, one pound of flour, three pounds of raisins, three pounds of currants, three pounds of candied citron, one pound of almonds, one pound of sugar, two teaspoons of cloves, three teaspoons of cloves, three teaspoons of cinnamon, one teaspoon of mace, one teaspoon of nutmeg, two tablespoons of rose water, one pint of brandy, one teaspoon of soda and two of cream tartar, mixed with a little milk. This to be baked four hours in a moderate oven. The putting of this together—ah, there comes in the genius.

Quite different from this in expense, wholesomeness, and ease of composing is the following base for a simple cake which will keep for a month or two if care is taken. A stone jar is best for this:

Simple Fruit Cake Base.—One cup of sugar, one-half cup of molasses, one cup of sour milk, one cup and a half of graham flour, one cup of white flour, one teaspoon and a half of soda. Add spice to taste and fruit as you will, within reason.

Fruit should always be dredged with flour before it is added to cake, or it sinks to the bottom. Raisins should be at least cut in two. Some people chop them, and, again, others put them, with other fruit, through a food chopper, from which they come out a pulp. Many cooks with taste have no use for a food chopper anyway. It is one of the hurry-up utensils, good for an emergency, perhaps, but never for esthetic products.

The preparation of the currants is a particular business, because they are dirty. They should be picked over, washed in two or three warm waters, and dried in the oven. Strangely enough, the real old fashioned fruit cake and plum pudding currant is not a currant at all but a grape—a small one.

If butter is to be used in a fruit cake it should always be the best, and, though there be but one poor egg in the dozen used, it will spoil the cake.

The butter and sugar always used to be put together with a piece of wood, a paddle, a short stick flattened at the end. A deep earthen bowl held them and they were worked together until light and creamy. To put them together properly was considered the hardest part of cakemaking, although the eggs had to be beaten well. This latter was done with a bundle of hickory sticks, if these were procurable, keeping the elbow close to the side, beating with a short, quick stroke, using only the wrist. This was not a process that was fatiguing so done.

The fruit should never be all dumped into the cake at one time, but added a little at a time, giving the whole a hard stirring. The citron should be cut into dainty short strips. Try the cake when it is baking, as you would a custard; cool it on an inverted sieve, according to the best of ancient customs.

Of the cakes that may be used as gifts nothing is quite equal to the fruit cake, partly because of its keeping qualities. It has also its excellence in the fact that it can be cut into such dainty thin slices. Fruit cake is not meant to be eaten in lumps, but more as one would eat a fine piece of preserved fruit.

A most accomplished woman, whose cakes of every sort are famous, is sponsor for the following recipe:

French Fruit Loaf.—Cream one cup of butter and two cups of sugar; then add one cup of sour cream, four cups of flour, one pound of raisins, one-half pound of citron, one-half pound of English walnuts, one wine glass of sherry, one wine glass of brandy, one tablespoon of cinnamon, one tablespoon of allspice, one tablespoon of cloves, one teaspoon of soda. Bake one hour in an oven suitable for baking bread.

Our Midweek Helping Hand.

Offers Kneecap.

"I have a silk rubber kneecap which some one may be able to use. It measures eleven inches when not stretched. MARION G. A."

The cripple who would avail himself of this kind offer will please write to me for the donor's address, inclosing stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Will Give Paper Dolls.

"If you have a little girl on your list from the country who would like paper dolls, give her my name and address, please. MRS. J. V."

We shall have several such upon our list as soon as your note is read. You tender what is always a popular commodity with our junior members. Thank you for thinking of the country child.

Left Shoes.

"I have a number of perfectly new high and low shoes that I shall gladly give some lady who can make use of the left shoe alone. The sizes are from two one-half C to three one-half AA. They are of various styles of the last five years and there are enough for more than one person. In writing state which size and style are preferable.

"MRS. F. M. S."

Your gift will not seem odd when we have recounted to ourselves the number of unfortunates who have lost a foot by accident or disease. I record name and offer with gratitude.

Will Send Magazines.

"I have a number of magazines which I shall gladly give to any one desiring them. I shall be pleased to pay the expressage, if the person cannot afford the expense. FRANK S. S."

Imitating the canny housemother who sharpens the appetites of family and guests by prefacing the business of the meal with a "savory," I lead off in today's Talk with a quartet of gifts to the needy of our Big Family. They hearten us to consider requests from the less fortunate of our band.

Wishes Illustrated Bible.

"We use the Bibye every day, once after every meal, and we like to show the children the pictures and maps. I have eight sisters and four brothers. There are fourteen of us with my father and mother. My parents like to teach the children to read the Bible, and it would be easier for them to explain it were pictures in it for them to talk about. I am sure that a Bible would not be sent to us in vain. I shall thank you for it or any one who sends one. We came to America three years ago. We came from Holland. We have a Holland Bible because my parents understand that better. My mother cannot speak English at all, but the rest of us can speak it pretty well. I am 12 years old. CORNELIA."

In giving the child's letter just as she wrote it, I am pleasing myself with the expectation that readers will enjoy it as I have done.

It is so ingenuous, so earnest, so confident of the sympathy of myself and those I represent, that I do not envy the composure of man or woman who can read it to the end without a tightening of the throat and moistening of the eyes.

The lassie must have the picture Bible to be read three times a day by the patriarch of the home. The pictures will convey the meaning of the text to the Holland born mother.

Invalid's Chair Needed.

"My husband is a cripple and in sore need of a house chair. I often say to myself, 'I do wish he could have one, so that he could get about the house a little himself.' It is hard for him to sit or lie all the time just where he is put. He is quite strong in his hands and arms and could at least move about a little in his room if I could afford to get him an invalid's chair of the right kind. The park chairs are too big for house use, especially as our hall is narrow. He could not turn them from a room into the hall, I am sure. We have never had to ask for help; we have always been in a position to help others. It is God's will, and I try not to murmur. I have much to be thankful for in my husband's spared life and unimpaired reason. But he does need and want the chair so much, and I cannot afford to get it for him! I shall be very grateful to any one who will help him to get one, if it can be done without making his name public. He has not been able to walk for nearly three years and has suffered a great deal. It seems very hard not to be able to buy everything for his comfort. MRS. A. W. R."

I have the address of the faithful wife and loving custodian of the stricken man. Will our co-workers look at once into the case and act accordingly?

Doll Needs Clothes.

"I am a poor little girl and we have seven children, and my Pa is out of his health, and nobody works, only my mother takes in washing. If I was old enough I could help them out, but I am only 11 years old. My aunt gave me a doll buggy, and the lady where my mother works gave me a nice doll. Can you get me some doll's clothes? My poor dolly has no clothes to wear, and I would be very thankful for any pieces I could make clothes with or any old scraps. I give you my mother's address. MRS. M."

As the blessed Christmas envelops us in its beneficent shadow—the Children's Festival—our hearts yearn more and more over the darlings.

It is against the rules of the Corner to ask for clothing, although we gladly offer and distribute it. I shall not be blamed for the departure from my own regulation in soliciting what our 11 year old begs for.

If I could reproduce her poor little epistle in facsimile, the response would enable her to set up a shop well stocked with attractive "remnants."

Would Welcome Music.

"If you have any music to dispose of I should be glad to have it. We have a large family and it is rather difficult for us to buy it. I should prefer sheet music (piano). We are willing to pay expressage or call for it. M. M. K."

The Corner has no music "in stock." It is taken up as fast as it is passed over to us. I have faith to believe that a generous supply will be forthcoming when your wish is made known to our music lovers.

In Bed Three Years.

"I see you have a Corner for helping the unfortunate. I wonder if any of your family has a drawing set or a set of Shakspeare's works no longer wanted. I have his works complete in one volume, but the print is so fine it hurts my eyes. I have not been out of bed for almost three years, and I do a lot of reading. I shall pay delivery charges on anything sent. I should also enjoy copies of Life and Judge magazines. I am inclosing a few stamps. If you need more let me know. CHARLES D. V."

I direct attention to one clause in this long letter—"I have not been out of bed for almost three years!"

Do we "who feel our life in every limb," who thank the Father daily for strength and action and energy to do our part in this glorious world, know what that means?

Can we do too much to prove our loving compassion for the cheerful philosopher who beguiles the long, long, weary day by drawing, and doing a "lot of reading"?

Girl Seeks Work.

"Mother has five beautiful little kittens, and we can't keep them. Will you please see if some one wants them? Also, Miss Harland, my oldest sister works in the evening and she has all day to herself and would like to work for five or six hours or more in exchange for clothing or furniture. She is a good worker. She wants to get some clothes for us children for the winter. We need so many things and only she and pa are working. My pa gets very small pay, and we have eight children. She would do housework or anything. JOSEPHINE R."

My apology (if apology is needed) for devoting so much of our space today to the juniors was implied just now. Christmas is peculiarly theirs! It makes the heart sore to reflect to how many homes it brings no change in the sordid monotony of toil and privation. This family are not paupers. The girl who works at night is willing to steal daylight hours from sleep to help the mother clothe the younger children. Give her the chance!

SIX HUNDRED AT MANDEL BIER; FLOWERS ENVELOP COFFIN.

Dr. Hirsch Tells of Career of Lifelong Friend at Funeral Services of Late Merchant.

Six hundred friends and business associates attended the funeral services for Leon Mandel, president of Mandel Bros., held yesterday at the Mandel residence at 3400 Michigan avenue. Floral tributes almost hid the coffin from view. Burial was at Rosehill.

Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, a lifelong friend of Mr. Mandel, delivered the funeral oration. He told of his rise from a cash boy at $2 a week to the head of one of the greatest outfitting houses in the city.

Mr. Mandel, he said, earned his first wages at Ross & Foster's store. After five years of clerking he formed a partnership with his brother, Emanuel Mandel, and later bought in the business of another brother, Solomon Mandel. The first Mandel Brothers' store was opened in 1859 at Clark and Monroe streets. It has been uniformly prosperous since its establishment.

ABSTRUSE TOPIC DODGED BY CLUB WOMEN IN DEBATE.

Subject Was "Regeneration of the Basic Principle in Economic Development Applied to Women"—That's All.

Four speakers at the meeting of the Social Economics club in the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon were "floored" by the subject of the discussion. All of them admitted it, although some attempted for a while to stick to the subject.

The speakers were Dr. Anna E. Blount, Miss Barbara Irwin, Miss Lucy Page Gaston, and Mrs. Harriet T. Treadwell. The subject was: "Regeneration as the Basic Principle in Economic Development Applied to Women."

Miss Gaston was the last speaker.

"I am relieved that the others didn't make out very well with our subject," she said. "Now I shall not have to try."

An address on the cigaret evil followed. Mrs. Treadwell had spoken about the influence of woman's vote on the condition of the schools. Miss Irwin had told of suffrage work in England, and Dr. Blount dwelt upon the necessity of applying new methods to the suffrage crusade.

"Last summer we toured in automobiles," she said. "Next summer we will use motorboats in a campaign in Wisconsin; and the following year we may go in aeroplanes."

HUDSON SEAL FUR COATS

When the skins are properly dressed and dyed—Hudson Seal (Seal Dyed Musquash) is the only really good substitute for sealskin at an acceptable price. The new process to half dress the skins, then shear and pluck the "guard" hairs, and then dye and finish the dressing process brings out the full beauty and luster of the skins and makes them, at the same time, extremely pliable—a distinguishing feature of the sealskin. Not all Hudson Seal coats are made from skins treated by this process, but all of our Hudson Seal coats are made from full size skins dressed and dyed in this manner.

This fact, combined with skillful designing, careful workmanship and proper finishing, enables us to offer the very BEST Hudson Seal coat on the market.

We display a very choice collection of models which include the latest foreign styles, together with many artistic adaptations and original models from our own workroom. 4th floor, north room.

THE GARMENT ILLUSTRATED is a reproduction of a "Pierrot" model—the unique effect of the stripes on the collar and long reveres is made by "reversing" the skins, which adds to the beauty and does not impair the wearing qualities of the fur, as they are made from solid skins $400.00

BOGEY TO RIPLEY IN SHERMAN LAW

Commerce of Country Under Shadow, Says President of Santa Fe Railroad.

LIKE BROOM TO OCEAN.

Holds Competition Cannot Be Restored and Calls Violations Inevitable.

E. P. Ripley, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad, who has just returned from a tour over lines of the system in Arizona and New Mexico, sees little cause for optimism in the outlook for the immediate future.

"I cannot predict as to the future," said Mr. Ripley yesterday. "The country is facing many grave problems and I prefer not to look too far ahead.

"Falling off in earnings is due partly to less abundant crops, to employment of less labor and consequent reduced purchasing capacity, and finally to hesitation on the part of investors to put money into new schemes.

Sherman Law Held Shadow.

"The shadow of the Sherman law hangs over everything. Nobody knows what it means or can know until after his particular case has been passed on by the court, which may emphasize its findings with fine or jail sentence. Yet everybody knows the spirit if not the letter of the law is violated daily and hourly all over the country, and that it always will be no matter what laws are made.

"The attempt to substitute competition for trade agreements, or agreements in restraint of competition, is as futile as the fabled effort to keep back the sea with a broom."

Freight Rate Hearing On.

Regrading of certain frieght rates on application of a number of railroads furnishes the basis of a hearing begun yesterday before Special Examiner Thurtell for the interestate commerce commission. The Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie was the first railroad to have its applications considered. The petitions affect rates on eighty-seven commodities.

NORTHWEST FLOUR MAKERS PLEASED BY RULING ON LAW.

Official Interpretation of Act Regulating Importation of Wheat for Manufacturing for Export.

La Crosse, Wis., Nov. 7.—Official interpretation was received here today from the treasury department on the details of the mooted provision of the federal law regulating the importation of wheat to be manufactured into flour for export. It was made by J. Curtis, assistant secretary. It construes the tariff act of 1909 in a manner gratifying to flour manufacturers of the northwest. Curtis in a letter said:

"Wheat may be imported, the duty paid thereon, and the flour and byproducts produced therefrom exported, with the benefit of drawback equal to 99 per cent of the duty paid, under section 25 of the tariff act of Aug. 5, 1909. In operating under this section it is not necessary to bond the mill, but the duties must be paid on the wheat imported.

"If the flour and all byproducts are exported, the entire 99 per cent of the duty is refunded. If the flour alone is exported and the byproducts retained in this country, only a portion of the duty is refunded, the amount refunded depending upon the relative values of the flour and several byproducts.

"Wheat may also be imported and milled in bond under section 23 of the tariff act of Aug. 5, 1909. In this case no duty is paid on the imported wheat, but the mill must be bonded and the milling done under government supervision.

"If the wheat is milled in bond, under the law, the flour must be exported. The byproducts may, however, be withdrawn for consumption in this country by the payment of duty equal to that which would have been assessed had such products been imported from a foreign country."

2 CENT FARE TRIAL ON MONDAY.

Federal Court at Springfield Will Take Up Plea That Rate Law Is Confiscatory.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—The long fought Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis railway 2 cent rate case will be heard in the federal court next Monday. Judge Francis E. Bacon of Indianapolis and Judge Arthur L. Sanborn of Madison will sit with Judge J. O. Humphrey to hear the arguments. The state of Illinois objects to the report of the master holding the 2 cent law confiscatory and unconstitutional, so far as the C., P. & St. L. is concerned.

CO-OPERATION TO CUT PRICES.

McGovern and Other Wisconsin Officials Plan to Lower the High Cost of Living.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 7.—A committee of the state board of public affairs met today to take up the matter of coöperative marketing as an aid in solving the problem of the high cost of living. Those present included Gov. McGovern and a number of Wisconsin university professors. The committee considered the selection of an expert to assist in getting statistics and making recommendations with reference to the cost of living and coöperation among the farmers.

BEGIN BIG "400 CAMPAIGN"

Commerce Association Launches Three Day Race Today.

TEN TEAMS WILL COMPETE.

Plan Is to Bring Total Membership Up to 4,000.

A whirlwind campaign to add 400 new names to the membership of the Chicago Association of Commerce, bringing the total up to 4,000 members, will be started this morning by thirty-nine picked teams of ten members, chosen from among the liveliest hustlers of the organization and representing all professions.

Final preparations were completed at a noonday roundup of the ways and means committee at the Hotel La Salle yesterday. The teams will devote two hours each day, from 10 a. m. to noon, today, tomorrow, and Friday, and will present the reports of their success each day at a series of special luncheons.

Dial to Show Progress.

Progress of the campaign each day will be shown on a big dial located on the north wall of the hotel's main dining room. The face of the dial is a fac simile of the seal of the association. The rim is numbered by tens from 100 to 400, each additional 100 being emblazoned in large figures of electric light bulbs. The dial also is studded with red, white, and blue lights.

The subject of today's meeting will be "The Association and State Problems." The first speaker will be the Rev. Frank G. Smith, pastor of the Warren Avenue Congregational church and a member of the Illinois state legislature.

Campaign Long Planned.

Three hundred members were added to the association during the first six months of the year. Plans for the new campaign have been under way since Oct. 26, when the team captains met and outlined their work. President H. A. Wheeler also has addressed a letter to the entire membership urging each to make a special endeavor to secure the application of at least one firm or individual.

BAD WEATHER IN GRAIN BELT, GOOD IN THE COTTON STATES.

Excess of Cloudy Conditions Delays Fall Seeding in Corn and Winter Wheat Sections.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—Unpromising weather in the corn and wheat growing states and favorable conditions in the cotton belt prevailed throughout October, according to the national monthly weather bulletin issued today. It says:

"In the principal corn and wheat (winter) growing states there was a general excess of cloudy weather, which delayed fall seeding and interfered with the curing and gathering of the corn crop, especially in portions of the Ohio valley.

"In the cotton growing states sunshine was generally abundant, the weather continued warm and conditions were mostly favorable for the early maturing and picking of the cotton crop. Frosts caused some damage over the more northern portions about Oct. 22 and 23, and the general cold wave at the end of October and Nov. 1 carried the frost line well into the central portions of the belt.

"Over the spring wheat section the weather was partly cloudy and too wet at times for outdoor work. No severe frosts were general until toward the latter part of the month."

ENDS LIFE; "VICTIM OF PLOT."

David S. Oppenheimer, Hotel Suicide, Leaves Note Saying Million Dollar Conspiracy Hounded Him.

Leaving a note in which he asserted he was the victim of a million dollar conspiracy, David S. Oppenheimer committed suicide Monday night in the Stockholm hotel, 465 West Chicago avenue, by inhaling gas through a ruber tube.

DE ORO LEADS IN BILLIARD MATCH

[LA]NDS HIGH MARK OF 9.

[Thr]ee Cushion Champion Gets 50 in 74 Innings, Nearing Record in One Run.

BY J. G. DAVIS

[Ch]ampion Alfredo De Oro gained a lead of [19] points over George Wheeler, the Chicago [profes]sional, in the first block of their match [for] the Jordan Lambert trophy, emblematic [of] the three cushion championship of the [world], played last night at Recital hall in [the] Auditorium building.

De Oro made his 50 points in seventy-four [innings], getting a high run of 9, one of the [best] ever recorded in a championship match. [His] average was .649. Wheeler made his [points] in seventy-four innings, getting [a high] run of 3 and averaging .419.

[Whe]eler's deficit did not represent the play, [but he] did not have the best of luck, missing [a number] of hard shots by the smallest kind [of] fractions, while he ran into a number of [...] three of these coming in a row, start[ing] with the fifty-fourth inning. De Oro's [run] of 9, which was the feature, was of big [assist]ance to the Cuban. It was beautifully [...], but on the other hand the balls [broke] well for him and he had little trouble [lining] up his shots and making them. [Whe]eler made several clever bank shots [and] De Oro pulled off one or two spectacular [cushion] banks, his ball taking two cush[ions] after hitting the first one.

New Table Bothers Men.

[As] is usually the case, the players were [bothe]red by the new cloth, and De Oro said [he fo]und the cushions a trifle slow, necessi[tating] greater force for his shots. There [wa]s a complaint of the cold air affect[ing] the balls. These were not the cham[pionsh]ip set, as when starting time arrived [it was] found the balls had not arrived. Vet[eran] Tom Foley made a quick excursion to [his] rooms and brought back a set which De [Oro] passed on after inspection.

[The]re was a fair sized crowd of angle ex[perts] present, among the billiardists of note [being] George Sutton, the former 18-1 and 18-2 [champion], Thomas Hueston of St. Louis, [former] three cushion and pocket billiard [champion], and all of the local players of [note].

[It] was close to 8:30 when Veteran Tom [Foley] introduced the players and Referee [...] Peterson of St. Louis. Wheeler won the [bank but] missed the opening shot, leaving De Oro [...] with the other balls close. This he made [...] with a second count for which he used [...].

[B]ad Luck Pursues Wheeler.

[Wh]eeler kissed off on an around the table shot [aft]er both had missed again De Oro counted [on] open table shots. A four cushion effort [on] the black ball in the corner gave the cham[pion a] single in his fourth inning and put him [in the] lead, 4 to 0.

[Wheeler] opened his count in the fifth inning, [...] banked up and down the table, going to the [...] rail for his third cushion and counting. [...] missed a bank. De Oro was kissed off on [a] trial after making a single. At the [end of] the tenth inning he led, 7 to 2. Wheeler [made] doubles in his twelfth and fourteenth [innings] and at the twentieth inning had 6 to 11 by [...].

[De Oro] was playing his usual steady game, pick[ing up] a point here and there. At the thirtieth [he] led, 17 to 11. Wheeler came to life in [the] thirty-fifth inning, in which he counted three [...] with three singles and a double was [...] points behind at the fortieth inning. It [was] a close match at this stage as Wheeler [was] playing with greater confidence.

[S]pectacular Play by De Oro.

[In the] 41st inning De Oro opened with a cross table [shot] taking both side rails and then the end, count[ing] [...]. His second shot was a natural, and [he] again had recourse to the rest, making a [...]. His fourth took a lot of pull back and [this] was a three cushion open table shot. His [...] a fine cut off the red ball, going into an [...] in bottom left hand corner and counting. [The n]ext three shots were three cushion counts, [but he] was left a hard bank for the tenth, the red [and] black ball being lined up in the top left band [...].

[This] great effort gave him a lead of thirteen [points]. At the sixtieth inning he led, 40 to 28. In [...] way De Oro after counting two points, [...] the lower half of the table to count on [a ball] which was near the middle of the right [cushion]. His ball missed the red, but Wheel[er's ball], coming around the top end, kissed the cue [ball] for the count, and he followed with two more [...] run netting him five. A single in his [...] left him four to go and he took twelve [innings] to get them, Wheeler in the meantime [making] four singles and a doubde. Scores:

[SU]TTON MAKES A RUN OF 442.

[Chica]go Professional Averages 125 in [5]00 Point Practice Match for Hoppe Contest.

[Geor]ge Sutton, the Chicago professional, who [is practic]ing for his coming match with Willie [Hoppe for] the world's 18-2 balk line championship, [showed] all his great performances yesterday [after]noon when, in a 500 point game against Joe [...] at his Wabash avenue room, he averaged [125 and] made the phenomenal run of 442. Sutton [has] been noted for his ability to make high [runs and] still is the holder of the world's record [...] for a championship contest, this being [made in] a tournament at New York in April, [...]. This was made against Willie Hoppe.

[Up] to yesterday Sutton's best run was 411, [made] two years ago at Bensinger's rooms. Sutton [began] yesterday with a 5, followed with a cipher, [and] his next essay ran 442. This was made [in an] exhibition of nursing and for the [most] part of the time he had few long drives to [make]. His fourth count was 53, unfinished, giv[ing] an average of 125. Capron scored 12 [in] three innings. Sutton's performance was [made in] the presence of thirty spectators. At night [he ran] 275 in a practice match.

[In the three] cushion Derby at Mussey's Bernstein [...] [38] defeated Cone and King [44], 38 [...] and Short [41] will play Huston and [...] tonight.

Marquis Learns Father's Code Served as Trick on Negroes.

TALE FROM TED SULLIVAN.

Another Story Shows Colored Race Doesn't Like to Be Fooled.

BY THE MARQUIS OF QUEENSBERRY.

[Copyright: 1911: By the Marquis of Queensberry.]

I have just been told a most amusing story anent the Queensberry rules. It is so funny and outrageous that were it not for the source from whence it comes it would be incredible, but when I tell TRIBUNE readers it comes from that great old baseball player and sportsman, Ted Sullivan, they will, like me, believe it.

A wise negro who lived down in Virginia in a big colored community, wanting to get rich quick, struck on the idea of posing as my late father's agent, just at the time when the boxing craze was at its height in New York, and the same craze had just begun to spread among the darkies in Virginia along the Rappahannock river. He gave out that Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, and others paid as high as $5,000 to $10,000 to my father for the use of his rules according to the importance of the match, and that he was the sole agent for the disposal of the rights of using the Queensberry rules. He demanded and got from $50 to $200 per fight from the other negroes.

He thoroughly frightened the darkies by telling them it was illegal to use the rules without a license, as they were patented. He declared that the United States government protected my father in his rights as to the rules, and showed a cable signed Queensberry, giving him the sole rights to deal in the rules.

For months this ingenious darky collected a handsome revenue along the oyster towns of the Rappahannock river. Did you ever hear of such nonsense? But more power to the darky's elbow, for if he was clever enough to fool his brothers to such an extent he deserved all he got.

Darkies have a great sense of humor, but they don't always like being fooled themselves, and if you ever do pull off a real joke on a darky beware. He will never forgive you. Some twenty-five years ago I was playing at being a cowboy out west, and on the ranch we had a negro called "Green." Green was a comical looking little man, and he had lost all his toes by getting them frostbitten in a blizzard, and this added to his peculiar appearance, as he walked in a most uncouth way. He was one of the vainest men I ever saw. He loved to dress up and then go and show himself to the white folks.

Green always boasted of his wonderful bravery and of the strenuous things he would do if ever attacked by highwaymen. One day when he had gone to fetch the mailbag I lay in a creek one mile from the ranch and held him up with a shotgun, using blank shells. I fired two barrels over his head and bade him throw the mailbags out, which he did, and, galloping the horses home in the wagon, reported that he had been held up by a band of six armed and masked men.

When I trotted in twenty minutes later with the mailbag his rage was awful to see, and he had to be held back for fear he would attack me with a razor. Before that he had been devoted to me, but afterwards never forgave me for making a fool of him, and I verily believe if I had not left shortly afterwards for another ranch that he would have rather more than shaved me with his razor some dark night.

JOE KETCHEL GETS DRAW IN GO.

Shows That He Is Comer by Earning an Even Break with Dick Fitzpatrick at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Joe Ketchel and Dick Fitzpatrick fought ten rounds to a draw here tonight. The former made an excellent showing against the veteran and demonstrated that he is a comer. Ketchel used his left to good advantage, but did not seem to be able to get enough steam in his punches to make his opponent suffer.

HOME GROWN "SWANK."

Now, speaking of the swankish blades that come from t'other side,
We have some pippins here at home that one might well deride.
For instance, there's the old-young man, whose years have passed two score,
Who covers up his arid spot with schoolboy's pompadour.

And then again you have the swain, if swain you might him call,
Who wears his trouser legs half-mast, though we're knee deep in fall,
And low cut shoes with tow'ring heels, and tow'ring toes as well,
And other forms of ikish garb that classify as "swell."

And then again, see who comes here—the Airedale bonnet kid!
Who thinks he would be out of line without that fuzzy lid,
The fabric spread upon his bean like some low, rakish craft,
And heeling over on his ear, a rosette fore and aft.

And then you have . . . But why should we examples multiply?
We need not search incoming ships to find the "perfect guy."
Ah, yes, the home grown product is as good a butt for gibes
As any specimen that springs from out those foreign tribes.

Mr. Johnson says as has no controversy with Mr. Brush and that the scalping scandal is "up to the national commission." Yes, quite so. We understand perfectly. The fans will not be troubled with that "sensation" unless they take the trouble to dig it up themselves.

LOOKING FOR A BIT OF THE SOFT.

Dear Hek: Do you not believe that, next to a world's series, a 0 to 0 race (or contest) between an aviator (or avigator) and Edward Payson Weston, the pedestrian (or hoof peddler), would be of the most general interest? The reason why I ask is that in such an event I would like to have a biggish wager about the ancient earth plodder at the usual price. S. R. E.

And there you have Zbyszko, the Polish beef trust, and his manager, Jack Herman—both worthy customers, no doubt—seeking the bubble publicity and its concomitant, the cush, by winding the old gag. You have heard the spiel, the forfeit, the bonus to Gotch, and the rest of it. If your head is shaped that way, go to't.

If this suckerized burg didn't get enough of that sort of thing last Labor day it can—well—come back for more.

We've often wondered how it feels to be a baseball official and see papers boosting somebody else for the job.

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 5.—Dear Yorick: Greetings: I've just encountered a copy of the "Trib" after a hiatus of seven days, and clutchingly secured it at the usual but none the less cruel 400 per cent advance. It pained me to note that you had sprung a Portuguese pome which I missed. If there is anything I gloat over in secret it is the perfectly useless ability to sling Camoes in the original, so to have missed a modinha makes me desolate, indeed. Isn't there a chance for a reprint? E. B. B.

Nary a chance, we make answer, but with the fond notion that it will help some we come with the last spasm of "Motoring in Sud America," assuring E. B. B. that it has the preceding spasms, which he missed, skinned to the bleeding point:

—Pois nao! com todo o gosto! o asno responde,
Lá chegarás, que embora em passo tardo,
Hei de levar-te e nao me importa aonde
Nem qual o peso de tao nobre fardo.

Meus prestimos, se os tenho, amo emprestal-os
O asno accrescenta, a rir n'um forte zurro;
E praz-me ver que as vezes "cem cavallos"
Bem podem precisar de um simples burro!

Surely nothing of an untoward nature can happen in a football game between Maroon and Purple.

The question as to Scruby's eligibility to play with Prof. Stagg's gentle and apologetic outfit should be shelved for humane reasons if for no other. Taking Scruby out of the team would be about as heartless a proceeding as foreclosing a mortgage on the widow's cow.

A. B.—Your query has been heeled over to the suffraget editor. That's another feature again.

Anything about Packey McFarland today?
No.
Giddap!

Taking a slant at the calendar and noting the prevailing weather, one might imagine that the H. C. Chatfield don't forget the hyphen Taylor cup was hung up for ski running, but, no—it's golf.

CRANE HIGH SEEKS BIG GAME

Lightweight Team Will Challenge Heavies for Nov. 25.

FEEL CONFIDENT OF TITLE.

Tech Eleven May Throw Gauntlet to Oak Park if It Wins Minor Honors.

BY PREP.

Crane High school, contender for the lightweight title in the Cook County High School Football league, will attempt to conquer other worlds, provided it is successful in its first venture. So confident are the technical students of annexing the lightweight title when they meet Bowen High, present holder of the championship, that it is the intention of Capt. Croutch to issue a challenge to the winner of the heavyweight title for a game to be played on Saturday, Nov. 25, Thanksgiving day, or the Saturday following.

Oak Park is the favorite in the heavyweight division owing to its showing in the last three games. Comparative scores also give the suburbanites a wide margin over Hyde Park, the only other team in the section given a chance to defeat Oak Park. Therefore the challenge, in all probability, will be delivered to Capt. Rice and Coach Zuppke of Oak Park, providing Crane is successful in the coming clash.

That nothing will be overlooked is shown by the earnest manner in which the technical students have been practicing this week under the directions of Coach Meyers. The line is regarded to be one of the fastest and most aggressive in the league, while the backs also have shown better speed than their opponents in the five games which Crane has won this year.

On the other hand, Bowen is determined to retain the title which it gained last season after one of the hardest fights in recent years. Bowen failed to show the strength in the early games, winning by one touchdown from Oak Park. Since that time the line has been built up and the backfield has been taught the more intricate plays. No team in the minor section has used the forward pass with as much success and it is with this sort of play that the South Chicagoans are hopeful of downing Crane.

Interest in the major race is lost for at least a week, as Oak Park and Hyde Park, the rivals for the honors, will play teams on Saturday at the bottom of the list. As a result all eyes are directed to the Crane-Bowen clash, and from the early sale of tickets there is sure to be one of the largest prep crowds of the season.

De Paul to Play Dixon Team.

Coach Parry is now tuning up his machine for his next intended victims, which will be the Dixon college bunch, who will serve as the attraction at De Paul next Saturday. Despite the fact that the Dixon proved an easy game last Thanksgiving, it is reported that practically the same team this season, and with the addition of several new players, promise to give the north side bunch a harder struggle than last year.

SMASHER FACTOR IN 1911 FOOTBALL

Player Breaking Up Interference Important in Defense This Year.

POWER IN OPEN CENTER.

Coach Yost by Using Man in This Manner Adds Much Strength to the Forwards.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Although effective smashers were of great importance under the old game when it was necessary to gain five yards in three downs, the players who are delegated to break up an interference under the present régime are the principal defensive factors in modern football. As it seldom is the rule that any team makes ten yards in three attempts consistently by line plunging, most of the coaches are now devising plays in which the runner with the ball attempts to circle the ends or drives off the tackles. Consequently the smashing men are the players who must break the interference and hit it in such a manner that the man with the ball is turned in giving the secondary defense or linemen opportunities of stopping him.

Under the present system the coaches are making plays in which five men form the interference. As a result it takes a big and powerful man to spill such an interference, especially if the play is executed quickly, giving the defensive eleven no opportunity to shift to meet the play effectively. The wise mentors generally have a defense so arranged for such plays that a big man, whether he be a lineman or back, does the smashing.

Smashers Factors in Football.

Although the smashers have important duties to perform, tackles are invaluable in defensive play, while an alert pair of defensive backs who possess enough football knowledge to size up plays before they are put into execution, adds great strength to the defense. The center trio is not so important as it was under the old rules and it is foolish to waste the ability of a good guard or center by making him play his respective position on defense.

One of the most notable examples of taking advantage of exceptional ability possessed by any of the center trio was demonstrated last year by Coach Yost of Michigan by playing Benbrook, the most versatile guard developed in western football, a few yards back of the scrimmage line. The big guard then was in position to protect the center, and the speed which he combined with weight enabled him to do effective tackling on the wings. A few years ago Yost had another good lineman by the name of Smith, who played center, and the Wolverine mentor used him at open center, where his ability to tackle was brought into play, especially in the Michigan-Minnesota game of 1909.

Intelligent coaches no longer are teaching the smashing men to hit an interference standing up. The modern method is to have the smashers dive into the interference, upset the first man in such a manner that he will cause one or two other interferers to fall, at the same time driving the play inside.

Conditions Now Reversed.

When the single line of defense was in vogue the half backs were supposed to break the interference and the ends to tackle the runners. Now the system is reversed. In western football there have been numerous instances in which the half back under the old method did not smash and the ends then had to go into the interference and try to tackle the runner. Neil Snow of Michigan, "Red" Abbott, and Bill Juneau of Wisconsin, Ralph Hamill, Charley Kennedy, Mark Catlin of Chicago, and Rothgeb of Illinois were past masters at this art, although some of them had poor smashers playing on their sides of the line.

When the players in the interference run so close together than when the first man is struck he caused others to stumble or be momentarily checked, there is little excuse for such a team making much progress. Although there is a difference of opinion as to how many men should get into the interference, it is a whole lot better to have less players trying to give protection to the runner, especially if the first man in the interference checks the smashing player before the latter has an opportunity to do any damage.

Many coaches believe effective smashers come by their ability naturally, but there are a number of points which the coaches should impress upon such players. Following the play behind the offensive line when the formation goes the opposite way; smashing the interference on the outside, thus driving the runner on the inside, and to tell his own teammates any weakness he may discern in the work of interferers are cardinal points of smashing men who can do more effective work on the defense than any other players.

SCRUBY, STAR MAROON KICKER, MAY BE OUT OF PURPLE GAME.

Stagg Probably Will Not Use Punter, Owing to Injury to One of His Hands in Gopher Game.

Horace Scruby, star kicker on Coach Stagg's eleven, may be out of the lineup in the Northwestern game. One of Scruby's hands was injured in the Minnesota game, and while the injury is not serious, a physician has ordered the Maroon to refrain from hard playing. Stagg will take no chances of losing the player, as he wishes to save him for the Cornell and Wisconsin games.

Hard training for the contest with the Purple on Saturday started yesterday. The work was a scrimmage with the freshmen, the final score being 11-11. The varsity team was made up of White, center; Harris, right guard; Freeman, left guard; Carpenter, right tackle; Goddard, left tackle; Kassulker, left end; Goettler, right end; Lawler, quarter; Fonger, left half; Pierce, full back; Norgren, right half.

The varsity scores were made by Norgren and Pierce. The freshmen made their points by flukes. Gray carrying the ball over the line the first time and Bennett the second.

The players seem to have little fear of the result on Saturday. Coach Stagg refuses to make any predictions.

PURPLE COACH TRAINS PUNTERS

Hammett Takes Kickers Linn, Mokosh, and Pierce in Charge in Hopes of Improving Them.

Every player on Northwestern university's football squad reported yesterday afternoon and went through three-quarters of an hour of hard practice to get into shape for the game Saturday with Chicago, the most bitter rival of the purple team. Linn, the quarter back; McCosh, left end; and Pierce, right end, were given personal instructions by the coach, who put them through a practice in punting and goal kicking. Of this trio of punters Linn easily held the lead, his work being of the cleaner style and he was able to get his kicks started much faster than either McCosh or Pierce.

RACE PREJUDICE AT PURDUE.

Boilermaker Players Refuse to Compete Against Alexander, Negro on the Iowa Eleven.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—There is a possibility that the game scheduled for Saturday between Purdue and Iowa may have to be called off unless the authorities of the two colleges can come to some agreement relative to the playing of a negro on the Iowa eleven. Alexander, the star right tackle of the Iowans, is colored, and, inasmuch as there are several players on the Boilermakers' squad who are from the south, there is considerable feeling aroused over the possibility of contesting with him. Some of the players have flatly announced that they will not contest against the negro, and it is feared that the Purdue eleven will be handicapped by the loss of their stars should the Iowa authorities refuse to remove Alexander.

IOWA MEN SENT TO HOSPITAL.

Buckley and Bowen, Members of Hawkeye Eleven, Are Stricken with Typhoid Fever.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Buckley, end, and Bowen, tackle, of the Iowa eleven were sent to the state hospital tonight, stricken with typhoid fever. The loss is a severe one, as Iowa meets Purdue on Saturday.

CURTIS AVERAGES OVER 211.

Member of Webster Team Gets High Marks of Night—Schwartz Topples 265 Pins.

Bowling scores took a big slump over night on the local circuit, few results of any consequence greeting the efforts of the Tuesday night players after the fine performances of the night before. Billy Curtis of the Websters in the North Chicago league landed the individual honors of the night with a series of 211 2-3, his work helping his club to an odd game victory over the Irvings. The losing team was anchored by former State Champion Jimmy Hartwell, who put up a stubborn defense, and averaged 203. The Orientals in the same league landed a 997. Schwartz's 211 1-3 in the Lord Lister league was the second best series, while other features were Al Enders' 210 2-3 in the Kiowa and John Hanks' 210 1-3 in the Semradek. Schwartz had 262 for the best single game.

PITCHING HONORS TO 'CHIEF' BENDER

Indian Best in Percentage, but Walsh Leads in Other Departments.

'BIG ED' FANS 225 BATSMEN

Ban Johnson Leaves Tonight to Attend Commission Meeting on Scalping.

BY SAM WELLER.

In the number of games won and lost Chief Bender of the world's champion Athletics is entitled to first place among the twirlers of the American league, according to the official figures just issued by Secretary Robert McRoy, but in actual pitching prowess the honors of the league belong to Ed Walsh of the White Sox.

Bender won 17 and lost 5 games, according to the figures, while Walsh's record was 27 won and 18 lost. Considering the players each man had behind him the mark of the big south side pitcher is the more enviable of the two. Walsh worked in 368 2-3 innings, gave only 72 bases on balls, and struck out 255 batsmen, leading the league in this respect. Bender worked in 216 1-3 innings, gave 58 bases on balls, and struck out 114 men. Walsh led in number of games pitched as well as in strikeouts and finished with a per cent. far above that of the Sox as a team.

Another remarkable record was that of Vean Gregg, the young southpaw of the Cleveland club, who won 23 games and lost only 7 with a team that finished third in the race. The man at the top of the list was the youngster Covington of the Detroit club, who won 7 and lost only 1, but he was not in enough games to credit him as the leader.

Eddie Plank Ranks Fourth.

Eddie Plank, the veteran southpaw of the world's champions, had a splendid year with 22 games won and 8 lost, while his mate Jack Coombs, won 28 and lost 12. The figures on Coombs are astonishing, for more base hits were made off him during the season than off any pitcher in the league, yet he finished in fourth place, all of which shows the advantage of having a slugging team back of the pitcher. Walter Johnson of the trailing Washingtons had another brilliant season, winning 23 and losing 15 on a team that wound up next to the bottom.

President Johnson of the American league will leave for Cincinnati tonight to attend the meeting of the national baseball commission tomorrow, and he will carry with him some additional evidence against the ticket scalpers in New York, said to have reaped a rich harvest off the world's series by procuring large blocks of seats from the New York club. Johnson received a consignment of newspapers from New York City carrying large display advertisements of the scalpers. These papers were published just before the series began and the advertisements announced any number of seats could be had. Johnson also expects to present what other evidence he has and thinks the national commission will take up the matter.

Mails Checks to Sox.

Johnson will return from Redville on Friday morning and leave that night with Charles Comiskey for the Wisconsin woods for a few days of deer shooting. Comiskey was at his office yesterday at 8 o'clock in the morning, and before noon had mailed checks to all his players for the amount of each one's share of the prize money won in the series with the Cubs.

Mordecai Brown will depart for the Pacific coast today to pass the winter with Orvie Overall, both taking an active part in the development of their gold mine.

LIVERPOOL WHEAT FUTURES DECLINE

Favorable Argentine News and Increase in World's Supplies Factors.

LOCAL MARKETS CLOSED.

Cash Demand from Mills Fair and Sales Include 100,000 Bushels Red Winter.

Foreign news was again of a bearish color on wheat and the few domestic exchanges that were open yesterday were again heavy. Minneapolis and Duluth were influenced by local selling and the little buying by milling interests was not sufficient to check the declining tendency. At both points prices were ⅛@¼c lower. Winnipeg prices were steady to a shade easier, not being influenced by the developments on this side. All other exchanges were closed.

Liverpool came ½d lower for wheat, not a big decline in view of the depression on this side. Corn was ⅛@¼d lower. The Liverpool market was influenced by the weak tone on this side on Monday and the expected liberal increase in world's stocks. It is expected with the big increases in on passage stocks and the American and Canadian visible supply figures that Bradstreet's statement of world's supplies will make an extremely bearish showing.

Canadian Weather Unfavorable.

Weather conditions were unfavorable in western Canadian provinces and there were unsettled conditions in parts of the corn belt and also in the northwest. The unsettled weather in Saskatchewan is a bad feature, as it is estimated from 35 to 40 per cent of the threshing is still undone in that province.

Winnipeg receipts were liberal at 938 cars, compared to 470 cars a year ago, but the grading is poor. Receipts in the northwest were 552 cars, against 653 cars a week ago and 689 cars a year ago. Local arrivals were 107 cars wheat, 361 cars corn, and 147 cars oats. Country offerings of wheat in the northwest were reported liberal.

Brokers who are liquidating the cash wheat for the bull leaders reported sales of 100,000 bu No. 2 red to mills yesterday on the basis of 6⅛c under May free on board. The announcement was made also that the bid of December price free on board for 5,000,000 bu No. 2 red winter wheat had been renewed, but that Lichtstern and refused to entertain it. Millers are a great deal interested in the proposition made by the bulls, but are inclined to want to base their trades on the December price, which is going to a bigger discount under the May. It would appear that the big owners of wheat are disposed to let the millers pay the carrying charges.

Northwest Receipts Smaller.

Minneapolis reported that mills were good buyers of wheat there and that there was also considerable buying of futures by the millers. It was noted that the receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth for the first time in several weeks were smaller than a year ago. Should the movement in the northwest let up it would have a strengthening effect on prices. Sentiment is so bearish at present that with continued big receipts not much buying support is looked for. There was some disposition to regard prices as on a healthier basis, but it is hard to interest the outsider in a market that has been forced off 10c a bushel with evidences that the bulls were getting tired of their load of cash wheat.

While our prices have gone down much faster recently than foreign values, there is not much chance for export business at the moment. Liverpool March wheat is about 11c over our December, and there is no demand for our wheat with so much Canadian grain pressing for sale.

With our northern neighbors filling up the demand on the other side and Russia shipping much more freely, the extremely favorable crop prospects in the southern hemisphere become all the more important. Harvest will soon be on in Argentine, and unless something unfortunate in the way of crop disasters affects the yield in that country, European buyers will not regard the outlook with much concern.

A government report will be given to the trade at 1:15 today, showing the yield of corn, preliminary estimate, and the farm reserves Nov. 1. A month ago the yield was estimated at 2,769,000,000 bu, against 3,126,000,000 bu a year ago. It is expected the farm reserve showing will be small, but not much change in the crop figures are looked for. A year ago farmers held 119,000,000 bu corn, against 79,779,000 bu the previous year and 71,000,000 bu in 1909.

HOGS DECLINE; CLOSE STRONG

Receipts of 29,000 Head Lower Prices; Packers Buy Heavily.

CATTLE REMAIN STEADY.

Prime Beef Lacking; Figures Drop 25 Cents; Sheep Trade Slow.

Hog market at Chicago yesterday had a bad opening at a decline of 5@10c, but closed strong, with little stock left unsold. Early weakness was attributed to excessive receipts of 29,000 head. The concessions made in prices induced local packers to enlarge their purchases, however, and pens were well cleared at the finish. The top for the day was $6.45, against $6.55 Monday, while the average figure dropped 7c to $6.25. Eastern shippers were indifferent buyers.

There were orders calling for prime beef steers in evidence, but none of the cattle received was good enough to meet the requirements of these inquiries and business in selected stock was at a standstill. Fair to good steers cleared at $6.00@6.65 and were called steady for the day. Calf day found orders of indifferent character and sales were made at a decline of 25c, with packers buying good to choice vealers at $8.00@8.25.

Live mutton trade was slow and weak at Monday's lowest prices, best native lambs reaching $5.85, while Wyoming rangers stopped at $5.50. Western wethers made $3.75.

Average price of hogs at Chicago, $6.25, against $6.32 Monday, $6.18 a week ago, $7.97 a year ago, and $7.99 two years ago.

Eleven markets received 106,000 hogs, against 104,600 a week ago, 51,000 a year ago, and 86,000 two years ago. Total for 1911 to date, 20,402,000, against 15,542,000 the same period in 1910.

GRAND BOULEVARD GETS NEW FLATS

Site for Big Apartment Building Bought South of Forty-fourth Street.

PURCHASES I. C. PROPERTY

Business Structure to Be Erected on Southeast Corner Fifty-first Street and Lake Avenue.

Frederick Becklenberg is to erect a high grade twenty-four apartment building on Grand boulevard south of Forty-fourth street, on land which he has just purchased. It is ninety-nine feet south of the southwest corner of Forty-fourth street and was acquired from two different owners, 100 feet from the trustee of the estate of John C. Dore and fifty feet adjoining on the south from W. T. Fenton, vice president of the National Bank of the Republic.

The consideration is withheld, but the price is said to have been around $200 a front foot. Mark Levy & Bro. were the brokers.

The building will be of the court style of construction and will contain twenty-four apartments of five and six rooms each. The building will be ready for occupancy May 1 next.

Mr. Becklenberg is constructing another high grade apartment building at the southeast corner of Grand boulevard and Forty-sixth street. It will contain twenty-four apartments of seven and eight rooms each and will cost about $200,000. It will be ready for occupancy Jan. 1 next.

Business Building Planned.

Joseph Carmack, who purchased the southeast corner of Fifty-first street and Lake avenue from the Illinois Central road, will improve with a high grade business building to contain stores and shops. It will be ready for occupancy in the early spring. John A. Carroll & Bro. were the brokers.

H. W. Sisson & Co. have sold for Thomas Tagney to Lora E. Williams, trustee, the six apartment building at 512-514 Eastwood avenue, the consideration being nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $14,000. Mr. Tagney taking in part payment the northwest corner of Evanston and Waveland avenues, 141x153 feet.

Chicago Board Calls Session.

A special meeting of the Chicago real estate board has been called for Friday at 2 p. m. to consider a proposed amendment to the by-laws increasing the membership of the valuation committee along the lines suggested by President Roy B. Tabor in his address at the annual banquet of the board last January.

Cook County Board Meets Today.

The Cook county real estate board will give its weekly luncheon today at the Hotel La Salle, the function having been postponed because of election day. There will be a discussion of the Torrens system, in which Charles T. Farson will take the affirmative side and Simeon Straus the negative.

In addition to the repurchase of certain valuable parcels of north side real estate, as reported last week Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine has terminated a trust agreement dated Aug. 31, 1906, in which she conveyed to Cyrus H. McCormick and Cyrus Bentley, as trustees, property at 65-69 East Lake street, 62-64 East South Water street, northeast corner of South Water and Clark streets, and a tract of 228x218 feet in St. Clair street, comprising all the frontage between Ohio and Indiana streets. As Mrs. Blaine has received all the rents, issues and profits from this property during the life of the trust, the transaction is merely a formal taking over of its management.

Extend Long Term Lease.

An extension of an existing long term lease on the property at the northwest corner of South Canal and Adams streets has been granted by Elizabeth S. and John T. Fanning to Louis Vehon. The present lease does not expire until Oct. 31, 1932, but has been extended from that time until Oct. 31, 2000, at a rental of $2,400 a year. The lessee has an option to purchase the property at any time prior to 1931 for $48,000.

Record has been made of the sale of the block fronting north on Irving Park boulevard, between Ravenswood Park and Hermitage avenues, by the J. S. McDonald company to Curt Teich, manufacturer of picture postal cards. The property is improved with a five story factory building, which the purchaser will remodel and occupy with his business. White & Tabor negotiated the deal.

$35,000 Loan Secured.

Oscar H. Haugan is trustee in a loan of $35,000 five years at 5½ per cent to the Lincoln Ice company by John F. Maginnis secured by the property at the southeast corner of Carroll avenue and Elizabeth street, 231x141 feet.

Louis Bomash has purchased from the Schirferstein estate the business property at the northwest corner of Clybourn avenue and Division street, 118 feet frontage on each street, with store and flat improvements, for $35,500 cash, subject to an incumbrance of $13,000.

EGGS BRING RIGID PRICES.

Dealers Foresee Advance in Butter Today; Potatoes Move Actively.

Poultry market at Chicago yesterday still suffered acute congestion and reductions of ½c to 1c a lb were made in prices of fowls, spring chickens, and turkeys. The cut in the price of spring chickens wiped out all that remained of the big gain made last week, while a depreciation of 1c in turkey values represented half of the upturn made on the foregoing day.

Eggs were rigidly maintained at recently advanced prices and small lots of selected offerings were held at a big premium over market quotations. Receipts were 3,416 cases. Butter values were unchanged, but traders look for an advance of 1c to be made today in consequence of the upturn at Elgin Monday. Receipts were 9,666 tubs.

Trade in potatoes continued active and strong. Receipts of ninety cars were closely taken, and instances of further slight gains were noted in prices, fancy white stock reaching a new high level at 78c a bu in carload lots.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Money was plentiful and discount rates were steady today. The mining settlement restricted business on the stock exchange. Carry over rates were unchanged. Consols eased off and home rails remained depressed, but mining shares were supported by Paris and local traders, while rubber stocks closed firm. American securities were quiet at irregular price changes during the forenoon. Realizing depressed the list a fraction in the late trading and the closing was easy.

NOTICE

ARDMORE

BUYERS.

WE ARE NOW MAKING ARRANGEMENTS WITH THE SUBURBAN GAS COMPANY TO RUN GAS INTO VILLA PARK AND ARDMORE NEXT SPRING, APRIL 1ST, 1912.

We are offering an acre, four 50 foot lots, 187 feet deep, with black loam soil, where you can surround your family with all the comforts of life, raise your own fruits, flowers, vegetables, and have plenty of room for chickens, beautiful lawn, and a fine home.

We plant your acre with four ornamental shade trees, five fruit trees, twelve currants, twelve grapes, twenty-five blackberries, twenty-five raspberries, one hundred strawberries, take care of them for one year, and replace any that die within that time.

Look over the modern improvements, water, electric light, gas, telephones, free mail delivery, school, church, the best of transportation, where your home can be as modern and up to date as any house in Chicago.

Are you satisfied to bring up your children surrounded by the evil influences of the city? Think whose fault it is that they are subject to all sorts of dangers. Protect them in a subdivision like Ardmore, where you can live better than you do today in any city apartment or house, and cut your living expenses one-half in the bargain.

Our last special train is Sunday, Nov. 12. Come out and bring your friends. We are selling our acres from $60 to $1,500, within reach of all. We also have six beautiful bungalows for sale. We hope to see you. OUR TRAIN, SOUTHWEST CORNER OF CLARK-ST. TEL CENTRAL 3516.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or income from other sources], who, while not in a position to borrow money from a bank, realize that exorbitant interest charged by professional money lenders is high and extortionate. I am connected with the Indiana Loan, Credit, and Trust Company of Chicago, co-partners, 4303 Grand-blvd., and, having private means of my own, I am willing to loan money with or without security and at a consideration but a trifle above bank rates, and never more than the interest legalized by the states of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the precise rates being determined by the amount loaned and risk assumed. My location [15 minutes from loop district via South Side elevated] assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where lenders congregate. Always best to telephone Drexel 54 for private appointment. Ask for MR. S.

Third off regular prices of new winter suits in the Nov. sale

In some instances the savings amount to $30 on a single suit. In another lot are $65 suits at $40. Certainly there is a full measure of price attractiveness in this offering. The styles and qualities are as much above the average as the prices are below the average. Many of the suits were show pieces—many of the models are of imported fabrics—all are copies of some of the best designs Paris displayed in a recent fashion show. Second floor, State street.

GOMPERS CLAIMS TRUST LAWS FA TO COVER LAB

American Federation Chief Disputes Finding of the United States Supreme Court.

UNION AND COMBINE DIF

Toilers' Association Does Not to Control Material Products as Does the Latter.

FREE MAN OWNS HIS TOIL PO

[Copyright: 1911: By The Tribune Compa
Modern business cannot be conducted the old notions. Development in ind does not admit of it. Development in t portation does not admit of it. The dev ment and transmission of information not admit of it.
Organized labor has realized for a time, and realizes now—perhaps clearer than ever before—the necessity for the est and the freest hand in the operati business and industry and the perform of labor, and that, in so far as interfe by the government is concerned, it shou of the least possible character.
Since the United States Supreme cour cided that labor unions are punishable u trust penalties, we feel that it is neces to point out how widely different is a union from a trust; for upon these vita fundamental differences of the two are b the main reasons for the insistence tha voluntary organizations of labor shall under the law, be regarded as in the category as trusts and illegal combina to restraint of trade.
Union Not a Trust.
A labor organization is not a trust; no its attributes, methods, or achievemen behalf of its members and society at can properly be confounded with wha is pernicious and selfish in the activiti the trusts.
A trust, even at its best, is an organiz to monopolize the production and contr distribution of material products. The untary association of the workers for m benefit and assistance is essentially d ent. Even if they seek to control the d dition of their labor power, the pow labor is not a material commodity. It a product; it is the personal power human being.
The human power to produce is the an ets of the material commodities whic come the subject of trust control.
The ownership of a freeman is vest himself alone. The only reason for the ership of bondmen or slaves is the owne of their labor power by their master freemen's ownership of themselves inv their labor power, none but themselve owners of their labor power.
Wage Is His Own.
The product of a freeman is his ow he, by choice or by reason of his em ment sells his labor power to another is paid a wage in return therefor, this is his own.
These propositions are so essentially that they are the underlying philos upon which is based the entire structu private property. To question or to at to destroy these principles involves the structure of civilized society.
The freeman's ownership of himself his labor power implies that he may se another or withhold it; that he and similarly situated may sell their labor or withhold it; that no man has ev implied right in the labor of another; freemen may sell their labor power stress of their needs, or they may wi it to obtain more advantageous return
Not Applicable to Labor.
Any legislation or court construction ing with the subject of combinations porations, or trusts which deal in co curtail, or corner the products of labo have no true application to the associ of freemen in the disposition or withh of their labor power.
While realizing the necessity for a hand in industry and commerce, un mized by government cramping, and fore such a change in existing law a secure these results, I am quite con that it is far more important for ind commerce, labor and the representa free institutions that the activities wage earners, the wealth producers, opportunities for the protection and p tion of their rights and interests hav dominating importance.
